

DO Utiel-Requena is a small plateau in the interior of the province of Valencia, at 70 kms from the mediterranean sea and 700 meters above sea level with a surface of vineyards of 40.000 hectares. The land has Mediterranean characteristics but continental influences, being the local autochthon grape the BOBAL and GARNACHA TINTORERA, both used in our wines.

Above our vineyard Balagueses producing one of the 17 Vino de Pago in Spain.

D.O. UTIEL-REQUENA

BOBAL on a 2,500 years old
Iberian cellar:

Bodegas Vegalfaro

Bordering our vineyards a cellar 3000 years old has been recently discover, demonstrating that our vineyards have been producing wines since then.

From the situation of our vineyards on the hill of the picture, by gravity they used to send the grapes to the pressing stone and the again down the hill to ferment and stock the wine in TERRACOTA AMPHORAE.

From there, they were sent by the river CABRIEL to the mediterranean sea for export to other civilizations. Our wine name CAPRASIA comes from that river.

A wonder of the Iberian civilization in the National Natural Park Hoces del Cabriel.

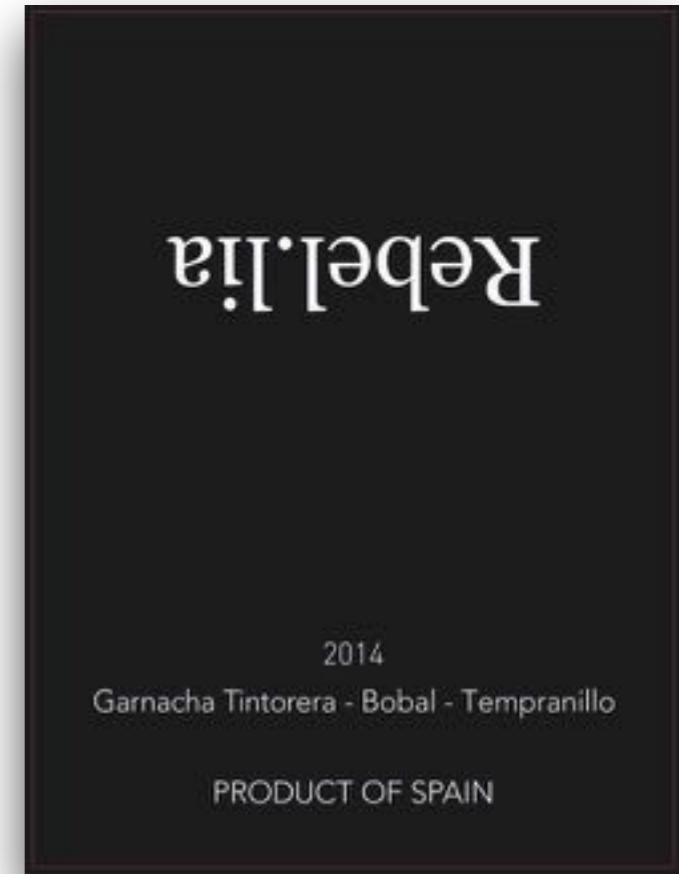

ORGANIC WINES made in AMPHORAE

Inheriting the tradition of producing wines as Iberian used to do without pesticides and chemicals, our cellar only produces ORGANIC wines with 3 local varieties BOBAL, GARNACHA TINTORERA (also known as Alicante Bouschet) and TEMPRANILLO together with Syrah and Merlot.

Our BOBAL wine also stays during 5 months in TERRACOTA AMPHORAE, so you can experience a wine as close as possible as the Iberian used to drink it.

- Verema is the biggest spanish speaking wine enthusiast community with 50,000 members.
- Every year they publish a ranking based on their users ratings along the year.
- On 2016 our Caprasia Bobal has been selected among the top 5 wines in Spain.
- Only beaten by Vega Sicilia (550€), San Román (25€) and Pago de los Capellanes (58€).
- Our wine is the only organic wine in the top 5.

The cellar is located in the border of the National Park Hoces del Cabriel where a 2.500 years old Iberian cellar was discovered. Our Caprasia Bobal is produced imitating the techniques used at that time, like growing local grapes, aging in terracotta amphorae and using organic procedures: the land, the winery and the production methods are all organic. Pesticides have never been used making the soil to be alive. The vineyard consists on indigenous grapes that have been growing in this lands for thousands of years. All these produces distinctive and attractive wines which are continuously awarded.

We are proud to share with you this new award, which is even more important as it is given by the average rating from clients during a whole year.

You can contact us in info@ardoa.com for more details and prices.
