Group: Hispanic Scholarship Fund

Description: This chapter will provide members with connections to great opportunities through the Hispanic Scholarship Fund, a national organization that seeks to help the Hispanic community through scholarships and mentorship. They think the presence of this larger national community will be beneficial to Princeton’s student body by adding to the ways that HSF scholars are supported on campus and by providing the opportunity for Princeton student’s to help high school students get connected to HSF, too. There is a QuestBridge club and a Gates Scholars club; this one follows in their footsteps.

Group: Swara

Description: For members of this campus who are interested in learning more about Indian classical music and/or its cultural roots, they would like to provide a forum where these topics can be discussed. They’d like to stress that these discussions would not require any minimum knowledge of the art form or culture—only interest. They would also hope that our conversations could cross boundaries, and could use their collective knowledge to compare the institutions of Indian music to other systems of the world. They have members who are trained in both South Indian classical and Western classical music and are dedicated to this club.

Group: Tiger Capital Education

Description: They plan on being very active and have at least 1 weekly meeting for members. They are further focusing on our goal of providing a great investment curriculum for members of the community. During school breaks, they want to be able to teach workshops on practical investing. They will cover topics like financial accounting, following markets, and constructing models. They also already have established relationships with many prominent investing firms like Farallon Capital Management and plan on using these relationships to provide unique experiences for members of campus interested in investing. In partnership with these companies, They will offer things like portfolio management competitions, and stock pitch competitions.
Group: Princeton Neuroscience Network

Description: They are in the process of planning events for the upcoming semester. For example, they are in collaboration with the Princeton Neuroscience Institute to hold events in the future including lecture series, panels, student-faculty mixers, and open houses for undergraduate students. In addition, they created various lessons for outreach programs that they plan to hold for youth and outside organizations. Currently, they are also speaking to graduate students in the neuroscience institute about collaboration on future activities including outreach and graduate-undergraduate events. They first will focus on connecting students with the neuroscience department, as well as to others with an interest in neuroscience. The second division of PNN will focus on outreach. They plan on connecting with the community around Princeton University by running programs at local elementary and middle schools to introduce youth to neuroscience concepts and garner interest in the field. They have written several lesson plans on topics such as brain structure, memory, and brain damage which they hope to share with local students via partnerships with schools. Eventually, they hope to train volunteers to teach their lessons at a variety of schools. In addition, they hope to broaden student’s knowledge of neuroscience by allowing them the opportunity to attend neuroscience conferences and become inspired by neuroscience innovations from around the country.

Group: TAMID

Description: TAMID’s core activity is not simply a few PowerPoints and sessions on business. TAMID is a national organization with chapters at Penn, Columbia, Harvard, Yale, Cornell, GW, etc, whose members work to integrate the next generation of entrepreneurs and business professionals with Israel through a comprehensive education curriculum, pro-bono consulting for Israeli startups, capital market investment research, and a summer internship program in Israel. This provides a sense of business and leadership that cannot be captured in any other group, and goes far beyond Career Services. Their PowerPoints last about 20 minutes—the rest of the time is spent in groups on interactive workshops and on students facilitating discussion.

Group: Christians for the Common Good

Description: They would like to build an ecumenical Christian community, one that is not bound to any one denomination or chaplaincy but serves to bring together Christians of all backgrounds. They would like to provide a space on campus for Christians to engage in ecumenical prayer and reflect on how the Christian faith relates to the world-historical developments outside of the University, especially the social injustices of our time. They would like to foster a culture of ecumenical Christian friendship on campus, one that is embodied in the interpersonal dynamics of our own community.

Fall 2015 USG Freshmen Class Government Elections Recap

Project Leader: Grant Golub ’17, Chief Elections Manager (former)
Date: October 18, 2015

• Our first election for the year has officially concluded!
  o We had 13 freshmen stand in the election; a significant drop-off from last year. (Originally there were 15 who had completed the paperwork and had begun campaigning, but two dropped out for personal reasons.)
  o Class Government Presidents have been attempting to figure out why less people ran this year.
  o We had about 18-20 people originally attend the open houses for the election.
  o Campaigning period did not suffer from any violations or penalties. We had a clean election with zero complaints or controversies.
  o There had been a problem with Helios due to the University switching servers and Helios had to be updated to fit the coding with it, but it was resolved the Sunday before voting began and wound up not being an impediment to the election.

• The Class of 2019 Class Government Winners:
  o Carly Bonnet
  o Eric Sklanka
  o Christopher Umanzor
  o Susan Liu
  o Chelsea Ng

• About 538 freshmen voted in the election
  o Roughly over 1/3 of the Class of 2019

• New Chief Elections Manager Sung Won Chang ’18 was involved in every step of the way of the process, and his training will conclude over the next week so he is adequately prepared to run the winter USG Executive Committee elections.

• Any questions?

Honor Committee Freshman Representative Selection

Project Leader: Dallas Nan, Chair

Members of Selection Committee:

Dallas Nan (Chair)
Nicholas Horvath (Clerk)
Matthew Silberman (Director of Community Outreach)
Charlie Jacobson (Senior Member)
Ella Cheng (USG Representative)

Total number of Candidates who applied: 12

Females: 5
Males: 7

Selected Candidate:

Name: Natalya (Ling) Ritter '19
Reason for Selection:

Natalya is a member of the Jazz Vocal Collective, a mentor at Community House, and an active member in ASA. In her interview, Natalya proved that she would be an extremely effective member of the Honor Committee - she is someone with a strong understanding of how valuable the production of knowledge is, a vivid commitment to understanding different perspectives, and an enthusiasm to become a resource for her peers in the Freshmen Class. Her calm demeanor will prove to be a valuable addition to the Committee in both interview and deliberation settings. Finally, she also had a near perfect analysis of the case study presented in the interview, giving us great confidence in her ability to be an effective member of our team.

  - They have upped their defense infrastructure against active shooter situation. Public Safety will allow Public Safety officers to carry rifles in the case

Update on Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (by Vice Provost Michele Minter)

- Should read report published in May from the task force.
- About 30 recommendations, some of which have already been enacted.
- Allocated over $400,000 to the Carl A. Fields Center, LGBT Center, and the Women’s Center for expanded programming. Fields and WOmen’s Center also received funding for expanded staffing.
- VP Calhoun is creating a senior-level position focusing on diversity, equity, and inclusion in Campus Life. A national search will begin soon.
- Changed the Fields Center scheduling policy to make the space more accommodating to students.
- Addressing Bias, Discrimination, & Harassment
  - Identified the University Ombudsperson as a confidential resource for those who experience bias
  - Provided and will continue to provide training on how to respond to discrimination and harassment
  - New Infographic on http://inclusive.princeton.edu with regard to responding to concerns about this area
- Academic and Curricular Offerings
  - Created the Provost’s Fund for Cultural Studies to support the development of innovations focused on identity and culture, especially in the US context.
  - Allocated funding to support:
    - Five teaching post-doctoral fellows
    - Course development funds to support two new courses
    - Summer undergraduate research fellowships
  - Task Force on General Education considering distribution requirement in race/ethnicity/identity

- Public Programming
  - Developed Campus Conversations on Identity series http://inclusive.princeton.edu/identity
  - Created mini-grants for students interested in planning programs that encourage dialogue
    - https://princeton.edu/grants
  - Upcoming events as well
- Implementation Plan
  - For online update, see: http://princeton.edu/progress/taskforce
University Student Life Committee will provide long-term oversight. Major senior administrators will also meet several times a year to convene and updates how progress is moving in their specific departments.

Questions:

What role is the new diversity data going to play? (Naimah)
- Goal is to share much more data with the campus community. Can’t share data that exposes individual student identity. But overall, mission is to place more robust data that is interactive and longitudinal to allow people to better understand our campus
- Other question is whether or not there is more data that we should be collecting.

How is it going to be publicized? (Ella)
- Making sure that campus knows changes are being made is very important part of the process.
- Going to be using social media and other mechanisms of spreading the word. Not going to assume that people are going to come to the website to find out what is going on Consideration for Annual Campus Climate Survey to test progress?

- There is desire to poll campus annually to poll progress and they are going to figure out how to do so.
- Annual Senior Survey every year which gains full participation

Who exactly is the authority of the accountability (Trust Kupupika ’17)?
- This is a project that falls under the purview of the Provost. Chairs committee with senior administrators to hold progress accountable.

Post Meeting Clarification: VP Calhoun is to go-to person for any concerns or complaints about how work is going on implementation of task force recommendations.

If the purpose of this task force is to target issues with particular communities? (Trust Kupupika ’17)
Rephrase: How is it effective for people who are part of these communities to NOT be on the committee that holds each other accountable.
- Answer is that administrators are there to represent specific university functions and do their best to understand specific communities on campus.

We Speak Survey (Vice Provost Michele Minter & Deborah Nord: Co-Chairs on Faculty-Student Committee on Sexual Misconduct)
- There has not been a particularly strong outcry about the nature or the results of the survey.
- Specifically pertinent data is:
  - Practice of Bystander intervention
    - What this means and how to make it effective.
  - Role of Alcohol is important
Overall very complicated issue.

Questions:

How can we address culture at eating clubs to reduce such statistics?
- In terms of location of sexual misconduct, there is even distribution. 22% occur in room of victim. 39% in assailant’s room. Need to find out connection between what happens in an eating club and in space where violation occurs. Will be trying to work with InterClub Council to get them more engaged and give them encouragement and more resources.

Comment: The fact that a huge number of these incidents start or focus around the eating clubs, it makes it easier to document and prevent, considered as a potential advantage.

Question: How are you currently planning on working with #Umatter campaign? (Shobhit Kumar ‘18)

- VP Calhoun: Online resources on website to discover more about how we as a community take intervene in Interpersonal violence, sexual misconduct, mental health, and risky behavior.

Question: What resources are there for faculty to address problems that arise in the classroom regarding to gender relations?
- In terms of pedagogical aspect, we wish there were better methods. Work still exists in their area.
- They are focusing on better resources regarding sexual assault and misconduct for the departments. Invited Provost’s staff and SHARE staff to discuss scenarios and other topics.

Question (Ella): We understand right now that there are not the resources to respond to micro aggressions on basis of gender, can we have something acknowledged about this type of behavior?

We now have opportunity to think about programming and approaches and ways to address this. UMatter is one way of endorsing action on the topic. The approach to educating students is something they still want to work on.

Question: (Naimah): What were you actually trying to take away from these “open conversations” after We Speak Survey?
- It was to answer questions, raise comments.

Comment: We can hope to connect projects of improving awareness about sexual misconduct and inclusion, diversity, and equity.
Question: Looking to other campuses for the ways they do things?
- Staff on Title XI often communicate to discuss progress across the boards.
- To be honest, so few cases are actually reported that we can’t make a substantive estimate about positive change.
- All we know that is we have more people coming forward under new policies from last year. Can’t say it’s not a correlation to no longer having faculty on adjudication boards, but would like to.

Question: Given the fact that we’ve received more coming forward about sexual misconduct aspects, have there been more instances of penalty?
- Adjudication is done on case by case basis.

Question (Chris): How are you pairing up with the Keller Center of Innovation, who is currently doing great work with innovative campus solutions to sexual assault?
- Currently discussing if there is a way to look at diversity, inclusion, and equity in a course this year.
- May want to mention to student representatives to get contact from Keller Center.

Comment (Bruce Easop): Big fan of student engagement in these processes. Sometimes, passive feedback alone provides a black hole effect. Important to think about active student leadership in this so that students can tangibly see the impact of their initiatives.

President Eisgruber: Student engagement is utterly indispensable for making progress in these area. These numbers are distributing on this campus and other campuses. Part of what I think we need is all the help we can get from students in tackling these problems and identifying what kind of behaviors are considered normal that shouldn’t be.
Committee Updates

University Student Life Committee, Kathy Chow

- Tuesday evening Jessica, Alex, Sergio and I met with the Black Justice League, Sustained Dialogue and the Committee on Equity and Diversity to collaborate and make sure we're not overlapping in what we do. Results of that meeting:
  - Tough Talks will no longer be a project - Sustained Dialogue will be revamping and hopefully fill that niche
  - Jessica, Alex and Sergio will be working on creating a "Multicultural Student Council" - basically a council with all the student leaders of the cultural/identity groups. This is to enable people to collaborate and just let each other know what each group is doing.
  - J, A and S will also be helping me with creating task forces/committees with students, administrators and professors under the Carl A. Fields Center, the LGBT Center and the Women Center to follow up on the report of recommendations made by the CPUC Task Force on Equity and Diversity last year.
- Jenny booked Campus Club for Late Meal Around the World
- Booked Campus Club Dining Room for Coat Giveaway next Thursday evening – trying to get coat racks. Has anyone ever tried to get coat racks for an event before?
- Zinna met with the Fields Center interns & Tennille about We Are Princeton and everyone is super on board! Zinna is in the process of booking Taplin Auditorium/Mathey Common Room
  - Tried to schedule a meeting with Dean Dunne several times through email, calling etc. – will continue to try!
- Currently in the process of collecting testimonies of independents/dhall upperclassmen/co-op peeps

Social Committee, Simon Wu

Lawnparties
• Frist Tabling
• New Social Committee Profile Pictures
• LPs Graphic
• Preliminary screening for artist in spring

Academics Committee, Ramie Fathy

• PDF Policy:
  o Met with Dean Colagiuri and Jed Marsh from the Office of Institutional Research
  o Will have to readjust some questions and run it by them tomorrow for final feedback
  o Instead of presenting results at Friday’s COEXS meeting, we will be presenting the PDF survey questions to get the committee’s opinion on the issue and the survey so that we can adjust so that its results are received better when presented at a later meeting

• Calendar:
  o Gen Ed Task Force will be in action until the end of the year. Dean Dolan’s visit made it seem like its not a priority for the committee, so I am in the process of setting up a meeting with her and some of my committee members to see if our survey and its results might make the Calendar a bigger priority for the Task Force or if it would be ignored/put off until later.
  o My committee members met today to discuss the survey and what its purpose should be o They are looking at having two surveys: one to see what the student body would like (J Term, finals before or after break, etc.) and a second with a drafted alternative calendar to quantify the students’ interest in having such a calendar. Ideally, we would use the results of the first survey to create an alternative calendar in conjunction with the Committee on the Schedule and other administrators
    • Right now, they want to ask about:
      • Finals
      • Questions about motivation
      • Independent Work
      • Winter Break
      • Thanksgiving
      • Fall Break
      • Earlier or Later Start
      • J Term
      • Spring break timing
    • Any other things we should ask about?

• Advising
  o Will ask Dean Dolan how we can help with her efforts to address advising that she mentioned last week when we meet with her. There’s no point in us doing anything on our own that wouldn’t coincide with Dean Dolan’s work since the ultimate decision and changes would have to come from the administration.
