Introduction
1. President’s Report (5 minutes)

New Business
1. Classroom and Learning Spaces Discussion: Dean Graves (15 minutes)
2. SGRC Groups Approval: Daniel Qian (5 minutes)
3. Projects Board Funding Request: Eliot Chen (5 minutes)
4. Day of Action Funding Reallocation Resolution: Caleb Visser (7 minutes)
5. Alumni Affairs Update: Dora Zhao (5 minutes)
   a. She Roars
      i. Attended by both alumnae and undergraduates
      ii. Video by communications committee
      iii. Hopefully becomes a tradition for the Alumni Affairs Committee
   b. Looking forward:
      i. Face board for USG office
      ii. Alumni Mentorship
      iii. Princeton Club of NY Event
6. Honor Committee Confirmations: Liz Haile and Olivia Ott (5 minutes)
   a. Leland Domaratzky
      i. The Honor Committee is excited to extend an invitation to Leland Domaratzky, a first-year from Long Valley, NJ. Leland intends to concentrate in Economics. As Leland told the selection committee, he comes from a high school where academic integrity is not a priority, and through that experience, he came to realize the tremendous value of an Honor Code such as Princeton’s. He was motivated to apply for the Committee because he wanted to contribute to a positive culture on campus. The selection committee was impressed with Leland’s thoughts on the purpose of penalty as being a reflective/rehabilitative experience, as well as a deterrent and his perspective on the role of empathy in Honor Committee processes. On campus, Leland is involved in the Undergraduate Associates for Public Policy in Finance and the chess club.
   b. Wells Carson
      i. The Honor Committee is excited to extend an invitation to Wells Carson, a first-year from Roanoke, VA. Wells intends to concentrate in Politics or Woody Woo. Wells was motivated to apply for the Committee because of the Committee's role in maintaining the University's important and lasting commitment to integrity. The selection committee was impressed with Well's unique perspective on the important balance of transparency and anonymity in all the Committee's work and his strong performance on the case study. On campus, Wells is involved with Princeton Students for Reproductive Justice and gender equality groups.

7. USLC New Members: Tania Bore (5 minutes)

Consent Agenda

1. Communications Confirmations:
   a. Lydia You '22
      i. Hi, I'm Lydia, and beyond excited to join the USG Communications Committee! I'm from the suburbs of Northern Virginia, right outside of DC, which is a hub for boba and innovative fast food chains--it's no wonder I have an unhealthy obsession with eating out and UberEats. I love both STEM and the humanities, but am currently pursuing either an ORFE or COS degree with Cognitive Science and Creative Writing certificates. In my free time, I love writing, playing field hockey, running, and listening to podcasts.

2. CCA Confirmations
   a. Sophia Hu '22
      i. Sophia Hu is a member of the Class of 2022 from East Brunswick, New Jersey, and a prospective History major. She is excited to join the Campus and Community Affairs Committee to help students build strong relationships with the local community and create a sense of belonging for everyone. As a WPRB 103.3 student DJ, Sophia is an advocate for community-supported independent radio and looks forward to using that experience to better coordinate interactions between the community and the University.

   b. Chris Walton '21
      i. Chris Walton '21 is a prospective Politics concentrator from Pennington, NJ. Aside from the Campus and Community Affairs Committee, he is Co-Chair of Rockefeller College Council, a member of the lightweight rowing team, and a member of PUCC. As a member of the Campus and Community Affairs Committee, he plans on bringing his background as a local resident and community member prior to being a Princeton student to help the committee understand those who live outside of the University.
c. Lehman Montgomery '22
   i. Lehman Montgomery is a member of the Class of 2022 from Williamsburg, Virginia, interested in studying International and Public Affairs. He's passionate about strengthening the bond between students and the greater Princeton community by making the university more accessible. Outside of USG, Lehman participates in Envision, the Princeton Student Climate Initiative, and the China Social Impact Project.

3. Academics Committee Confirmations
   a. Christian Potter '22
      i. My name is Christian Potter ('22), and I'm from McLean, Virginia. I live in Rocky College, and I'm a perspective Woodrow Wilson School concentrator. Outside of the classroom, you can catch me on the tennis courts playing with the club team, participating in Whig-Clio debates, and finding cool speaker events around campus. I also love to explore Princeton by bike and on the occasional run. I hope to bring my ideas and the ideas of my peers to the Academic Committee and keep making Princeton a place where students love to learn.

   b. Derek Li '22
      i. My name is Derek Li '22 and I am a first year prospective WoodyWoo or Philosophy student from Los Angeles, CA. I want to be on the Academics Committee because I am strongly motivated to improve academics and give meaningful representation my peers. As the twin brother of a fellow Princetonian, an avid late-meal participant, and a walk-on to the lightweight rowing team, I hope to contribute my unique perspectives to the Academic Committee while gaining experience in the academic decisions made at Princeton.

   c. Ron Miasnik '22
      i. My name is Ron Miasnik ('22), and I am a prospective Computer Science major from Mountain View, California. In high school, I started an entrepreneurship program, co-founded my school's TEDx conference, and was involved in various other initiatives and activities! Here at Princeton, I’m involved in IgniteSTEM and the US-China Coalition. Through the Academics Committee, I’m excited to tackle tough questions and help design what the the future of a Princeton education will look like.

   d. Jasmin Gao '21
      i. My name is Jasmin Gao and I’m a sophomore from Atlanta, Georgia. I’m studying Operations Research and Financial Engineering and pursuing certificates in Applications of Computing and Cognitive Science. You can find me planning study breaks for Forbes as chair of the Forbes College Council, lounging around Forbes as a PAA, working with Princeton University Nonprofit Consulting, or acting in plays with Playwright’s Guild. I’m excited to use my experiences and skills to create an even better academic experience, reflecting the views and needs of the student body!

e. Min Lee ’21
i. Min Lee ’21 is a sophomore from Seoul, Korea. Though still undecided, Min is debating between Computer Science and Philosophy as her major, and is planning to pursue Cognitive Science as a certificate. On campus, Min is a member of the Equestrian Team, Trego, Princeton Women in Computer Science. She also works as an essay counselor for Korean high school students. Min was involved with the academics committee in her high school, and she loves carrying out policies to make her peers’ academic lives both enriching and enjoyable. She is ready to bring her positivity and enthusiasm to the Academics Committee here in Princeton!
The “Yappie” Tour: An Evening with Wong Fu Productions

- About: “On November 14, 2018, AASA is planning to host the Wong Fu Productions team, featuring actors, directors, and screenwriters Wesley Chan, Ted Fu, and Philip Wang, as they stop at Princeton on their tour around America promoting their newest YouTube series Yappie. We would like to invite the team at Wong Fu to talk about their series and their experience working in media, and afterwards invite them to engage in a brief Q&A and meeting with the audience. The event will tentatively be held in Richardson Theater from 7:00 to 10:30pm.

Wong Fu Productions currently has a large following on their YouTube (over 3 million subscribers) and other social media, and is one of the most well-known Asian-American media companies of our generation. Notable works include their feature film Everything Before Us (2015), the miniseries Single By 30 (2016), and multiple short films and sketches which have received critical acclaim. Their works have been showcased at the Los Angeles Pacific Asian American Festival, the San Diego Asian Film Festival, and the Cannes Film Festival. We believe that Wong Fu’s story is particularly relevant to our community, as Chan, Fu and Wang began making videos and art after meeting in college, eventually forming their own media company and brand after graduation. We hope to learn more about how they created their brand, their goals moving forwards, and their takes on the future of Asian-American representation in the media given the recent successes of AAPI-focused films such as Crazy Rich Asians and To All the Boys I’ve Loved Before.

Yappie, a five-episode mini-series, premiered on Wong Fu's YouTube Channel in July of 2018. The series title, which is a play on the slang term “yuppie” (young professional, now turned into “YAP” or “Young Asian Professional”), reflects the subject matter. The series follows several “yappies,” played by members of Wong Fu and other actors, as they balance their social and professional lives while grappling with their external and internal conceptions of the Asian American identity. In accordance with Wong Fu's touring plans, we will begin the program by screening the first season of Yappie (5 episodes total). After the screening, we plan to invite the three creators of Wong Fu to talk about their motivations behind creating Yappie, as well as to discuss their other works and their experience working with an Asian-American focused company. We will open up the floor to a community Q&A following their statements.”

- Date and Location: 11/15/2018
- Expected Attendance: 900
- Amount requested: $2000
  - Total cost: $16,000
  - Event has also received contributions from the Carl A. Fields Center, ODUS, American Studies Program, Campus Conversations, and the Lewis Center for the Arts
  - Budget:
    - $14,500 for honorarium
    - $1,152 (tentative) for Richardson auditorium, pending cost for high quality projection
SGRC Group Approval

Committee Chairs: Andrew Li ’19, Daniel Qian ‘19
Date: 10/21/18

- 180 Degrees Consulting
  - Teams of 4-5 students will take on a single nonprofit/social enterprise as a client per semester. These semester-long projects would involve consistent contact with such clients, as well as weekly assignments/tasks that build toward deliverables that will be presented to clients at the end of the semester. We will also look into organizing teams for case competitions and hosting events on campus for corporate partners.

- BlaQT+
  - BlaQT+ is a student organization committed to serving students by fostering greater understanding while promoting equity for lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, same-gender loving, and allies. With these goals, the student group is organized to serve, advocate for, and support the black LGBT community.

- Federalist Socialist Society
  - The Federalist Society of Princeton University is a conservative and libertarian student organization organized in accordance with the regulations of Princeton University and The Federalist Society. The Society honors, respects, and supports the Constitution of the United States, its status as the Supreme Law of the United States of America, and the Ideals set forth in the Declaration of Independence.

- FirstBass
  - The organization proclaims that it has been founded and is dedicated to promote and encourage amongst its members a place to freestyle rap, an encouraging environment that promotes lyrical development and growth, opportunities to meet and collaborate with other rappers, training opportunities, mentorship, and music opportunities.

- International Spelling Olympiad
  - Our objectives are to organize an International Spelling Olympiad competition between Chinese and American elementary and middle schoolers, to procure funding from both Princeton and the Spelling Bee of China to organize this event, to market this event to elementary and middle schoolers in the Princeton area similar to the Model UN, and to host intramural competitions between other college campuses.

- Philosophy Society
  - The Princeton Philosophy Society proclaims that it has been founded and is dedicated to promoting and encouraging amongst its members an extracurricular outlet at Princeton for the discussion of philosophy and theory broadly construed, to be implemented through the forum of discussion, readings, presentations, conversations, activities, and lectures. Such an objective is for all Princeton students regardless of department, concentration, year, grade, or any other such criteria. It is also for undergraduate philosophy majors and provides a space for professional and academic development through peer mentoring, workshopping, practice, and creating a repository of information germane to the common post-Princeton fields and careers of philosophy majors.

- Princeton Health and Design
  - We plan on engaging in project-based activities with both campus and community partners in the general healthcare field. We would organize teams of 4-5 students, and the focus would be on design thinking education as well as weekly visits to the partner site. To name an example of a community partners, we are currently in the process of formalizing a project with Robert Wood Johnson Hospital. A project would generally involve addressing an issue that the community partner is facing as well as formal design thinking training via the student leadership throughout the course of the project. This education, for instance, could involve workshops on best practices for contextual interviews, collaborative brainstorming, affinity mapping, etc. Beyond this, we plan to advocate for the intersection of health and design thinking on campus through pop-up workshops, bringing in speakers, and running promotional events.

- Princeton Soccer Appreciation Club
  - This group would look to both host viewings of professional soccer games, and also host weekly intra-group 11-a-side games on campus. We are seeking support from ODUS mainly so that we can have the ability to reserve fields to play soccer together and so that we can receive funding for our professional soccer match showings.

- Princeton Varsity Athletes Premedical Society
  - The objective of this society is to provide support and guidance for varsity athletes that demonstrate interest in pursuing medicine. Students can gain connections and expand their professional network with other student-athletes, teams, and alumni. By being in this club, athletes will have opportunities to attend pre-health workshops and advisions led by HPA, team alumni and upperclassmen that they would otherwise not be able to attend in other clubs due to conflicting training and competition times. This society will offer mentorship to pre-med underclassmen by giving the opportunity for students to form mentor relationships with upperclassmen to understand how to maintain and balance academic success with athletic performance and accomplishments. Upperclassmen will have leadership opportunities to guide the underclassmen and help maintain the organization so that all student-athletes are a benefit to each other.

- ReHack
  - ReHack is a “reverse hackathon” operated through the E-Club where Princeton students can engage in reverse engineering which is an event where participants organize into teams, identify a problem with current technology or specific software, and then prototypes a solution which they then present to judges.

- Society for African Internationals at Princeton
○ The purpose of this group is to foster a non-partisan inclusive space for students of Princeton University who identify with any direct or existing affiliation with African countries to provide a community for students born and raised on the African continent as well as share and celebrate the diversity of their origins with each other and to increase awareness of the diversity of African countries and their different cultures within the Princeton community. We also hope to support such identifying incoming Princeton students in adjusting to the academic and social life at Princeton and to offer students hailing from these countries a safe platform to share their thoughts and experiences as well as practice their cultures with people form similar backgrounds.

- TigerTrends
  ○ We would like to expose the student body to the world of fashion and editorials. It is a very creative and stimulating field that many people have not gotten the chance to be exposed to on such an academic campus. We’d like to show that fashion and academics can coexist. Also, we aim to showcase and promote the diversity of the student body and place strong emphasis on inclusion.

- Turning Point USA
  ○ We would like to give a voice to the voiceless. Sharing our values of individual liberty, economic freedom, and limited government through political activism requires a group to organize and empower those individual voices, and we want to be the group that provides it. We want to make it easier for those who believe in our cause to come together and raise awareness, promote these values, and learn. We also want to provide opportunities through related organizations for jobs and internships.
Projects Board Funding Request

Projects Board: Eliot Chen ’20 and Jean Lee ’19
[Student Group] student contacts: Toni Xu ’20, Sharon Xiang ’20, Chelsie Alexandre ’20
Date: 21 October 2018

- The “Yappie” Tour: An Evening with Wong Fu Productions
  - About: “On November 14, 2018, AASA is planning to host the Wong Fu Productions team, featuring actors, directors, and screenwriters Wesley Chan, Ted Fu, and Philip Wang, as they stop at Princeton on their tour around America promoting their newest YouTube series Yappie. We would like to invite the team at Wong Fu to talk about their series and their experience working in media, and afterwards invite them to engage in a brief Q&A and meeting with the audience. The event will tentatively be held in Richardson Theater from 7:00 to 10:30pm.

  Wong Fu Productions currently has a large following on their YouTube (over 3 million subscribers) and other social media, and is one of the most well-known Asian-American media companies of our generation. Notable works include their feature film Everything Before Us (2015), the miniseries Single By 30 (2016), and multiple short films and sketches which have received critical acclaim. Their works have been showcased at the Los Angeles Pacific Asian American Festival, the San Diego Asian Film Festival, and the Cannes Film Festival. We believe that Wong Fu’s story is particularly relevant to our community, as Chan, Fu and Wang began making videos and art after meeting in college, eventually forming their own media company and brand after graduation. We hope to learn more about how they created their brand, their goals moving forwards, and their takes on the future of Asian-American representation in the media given the recent successes of AAPI-focused films such as Crazy Rich Asians and To All the Boys I’ve Loved Before.

  Yappie, a five-episode mini-series, premiered on Wong Fu's YouTube Channel in July of 2018. The series title, which is a play on the slang term “yuppie” (young professional, now turned into “YAP” or “Young Asian Professional”), reflects the subject matter. The series follows several “yappies,” played by members of Wong Fu and other actors, as they balance their social and professional lives while grappling with their external and internal conceptions of the Asian American identity. In accordance with Wong Fu's touring plans, we will begin the program by screening the first season of Yappie (5 episodes total). After the screening, we plan to invite the three creators of Wong Fu to talk about their motivations behind creating Yappie, as well as to discuss their other works and their experience working with an Asian-American focused company. We will open up the floor to a community Q&A following their statements.”
  - Date and Location: 11/15/2018
  - Expected Attendance: 900
  - Amount requested: $2000
    - Total cost: $16,000
    - Event has also received contributions from the Carl A. Fields Center, ODUS, American Studies Program, Campus Conversations, and the Lewis Center for the Arts
    - Budget:
      - $14,500 for honorarium
      - $1,152 (tentative) for Richardson auditorium, pending cost for high quality projection
Resolved by the Senate of the Undergraduate Student Government,

SECTION 1. Budget Reallocation

The Senate continues to recognize the merits of a civic day of engagement (Day of Action).

However, in accordance with the constraints of S. Res. 11-2018, the Campus and Community Affairs (CCA) committee, being unable to meet the criteria of funding “with the strict purpose of its execution during the Fall semester period” and the Senate, in accordance with § 304 Budgetary Power of the USG Senate Constitution, call upon the Treasurer to reallocate the original $10k to the Campus and Community Affairs Committee (CCA) to the USG’s Spring 2019 general budget.

SECTION 2. Committee Constitution

The Senate does not revise its commitment to receiving a formal draft of a CCA Committee Charter in this budget reallocation:

(1) The CCA Chair, working in conjunction with the Parliamentarian, is responsible for presenting a proposal to the Senate no later than the penultimate meeting of the Fall 2018-2019 semester.

(2) The proposal should include clarification as to the purpose of the Committee and should explicitly outline which ventures (such as Communiversity) fall under the Committee’s mandate.

SECTION 3. Approval

The Senate approves the aforementioned changes with a majority vote.

Approved XXXXXX. With __ Voting Members of the Senate present and By a Vote of __ In Favor, __ Against, and __ In Abstention

Nathaniel Lambert ’20, Vice President of the Undergraduate Student Government and Presiding Officer of the Senate.

Attest: Chitra Parikh ’21, Executive Secretary of the Senate