Surveying the Book Of Revelation – Understanding its Literature

• The book of Revelation is apocalyptic language.
• The term “apocalyptic” means “an unveiling”
• Common kind of Literature in Judaism
• Vivid, pictorial, and exaggerated
• It was utilized in times of trouble, and often used to provide hope
The book of Revelation belongs to a special class of writings known as apocalyptic. There is a certain amount of obscurity about such literature. Some readers frankly neglect Revelation because of this seeming obscurity. It is far better to recognize that in this type of writing we have an unveiling of a message. This unveiling comes only as we search diligently the writer’s purpose and method of making that purpose known. The Greek word ἀποκάλυφις is a compound word which means “an unveiling.” The purpose of the writer was not to cover up his message but to make it increasingly vivid by “unveiling” through signs and symbols.
The personal safety of both writer and reader was endangered if the persecutors understood the true meaning of the book. For this reason the message of the apocalypse was written so as to conceal and to reveal—to conceal the message from the outsider but to reveal its message to the initiated.2

The Characteristics of Apocalyptic Literature

1. Written at a critical point in history.
2. A knowledge of the historical situation aids interpretation.
3. Often received through visions.
4. The apocalypse had a predictive element always pointing to vindication or deliverance.
5. Uses an abundance of symbolism.
Surveying Revelation – Its Historical Background

• Written by the Apostle John toward the conclusion of the 1st century. Some date the book as early as the 80’s, but conservatively around A.D. 90.

• The Church is experiencing persecution from the Romans empire.

• This book is not designed to frighten the Christian reader, but to inspire hope in the midst of despair.
Remember:

…..the book arises out of local and temporary circumstances, that it is the answer of the Holy Spirit to the fears of the Asian Christians under the perils toward the end of the first century, and that all that throws light on Asia Minor from a.d. 70–100 and upon Christianity there in that period is of first importance to the interpreter of Revelation.

Setting the Stage for the Messages to the Seven Churches

Historical Background
Historical Background Keys

• Internal evidence suggest the church was in the midst of persecution from the Roman Empire.

• During the first century, the Roman emperors held sway over the world, from Augustus to Domitian

• The Apostle John at the present time of the book was exiled to Patmos.
The purpose of the book was to strengthen the courage and faith of the Christian by visualizing the downfall of the Roman Empire and the final victory of the Kingdom of God and the victorious Christ. The author writes from a situation that is apparently hopeless.
Interpretive Principles

• The book of Revelation (after the first three chapters) is a divine picture book, a pictorial presentation, through symbols of certain forces which underlie the historical development of the Christian Church and its conflict with the Roman Empire through satanic influence.

• For this reason the ordinary rules of interpretation cannot be followed. Usually the words of any passage of Scripture must be understood in their plain and natural sense, unless there is some reason to take them figuratively. The presumption is always in favor of the literal meaning; if one takes it otherwise, be must show the cause. This is not the case in Revelation. In this book, presented in pictorial form, one must assume that the symbols are to be taken figuratively unless there is good reason for regarding them as literal.
Chapter 1 Summarized

• John’s Introduction – God sends a message of peace to the recipients rooting hope in gospel truth.
  (Revelation 1:1-8)

• God has sent his Prophet, Priest, King Jesus to fight the governmental enemy who has sought to destroy Christianity, and to provide a message of faithfulness to the people of God during a time of persecution.
  (Revelation 1:9-20)
Exegetical Analysis

Revelation 1:1–4 (NASB95)

1The Revelation of Jesus Christ, which God gave Him to show to His bond-servants, the things which must soon take place; and He sent and communicated it by His angel to His bond-servant John,

2who testified to the word of God and to the testimony of Jesus Christ, even to all that he saw.

3Blessed is he who reads and those who hear the words of the prophecy, and heed the things which are written in it; for the time is near.

Introductory Vision

I was in the Spirit on the Lord’s day, and I heard behind me a loud voice like the sound of a trumpet,

11 saying, “Write in a book what you see, and send it to the seven churches: to Ephesus and to Smyrna and to Pergamum and to Thyatira and to Sardis and to Philadelphia and to Laodicea.”
Introductory Vision

Revelation 1:12–16 (NASB95)

12 Then I turned to see the voice that was speaking with me. And having turned I saw seven golden lampstands;

13 and in the middle of the lampstands I saw one like a son of man, clothed in a robe reaching to the feet, and girded across His chest with a golden sash.

14 His head and His hair were white like white wool, like snow; and His eyes were like a flame of fire.

15 His feet were like burnished bronze, when it has been made to glow in a furnace, and His voice was like the sound of many waters.

16 In His right hand He held seven stars, and out of His mouth came a sharp two-edged sword; and His face was like the sun shining in its strength.

Messages to the Seven Churches

Revelation 2:1-8
The Church At Ephesus - Background

The city of Ephesus was the first and greatest city of Asia Minor because of the trade routes in that area. It had the greatest harbor in Asia and large caravans of camels brought their goods to Ephesus to be shipped on to Rome. This made Ephesus the richest city in Asia Minor.
Ephesus had three political distinctions: it was a free city — a miniature Rome — which meant that anyone born in that city was automatically a Roman citizen and he was given every right as if he had been born in Rome itself. It was a judicial city in which one of the courts of that province met. Many referred

1 “To the angel of the church in Ephesus write: The One who holds the seven stars in His right hand, the One who walks among the seven golden lampstands, says this:

2 “I know your deeds and your toil and perseverance, and that you cannot tolerate evil men, and you put to the test those who call themselves apostles, and they are not, and you found them to be false; His providential care His Presence
Revelation 2:3–4 (NASB95)

3 and you have perseverance and have endured for My name’s sake, and have not grown weary.

4 ‘But I have this against you, that you have left your first love.
The Commendation

Jesus commended the church in Ephesus for five different things. They were an active church “I know your deeds.” They were a toiling church “I know your . . . hard work.” Toil is work that is produced at the cost of pain. They were a persistent church “I know your . . . perseverance.” They were an intolerant church
The Condemnation

They were doing everything they ought to do, but the spark was gone. They were no longer on fire with love for Jesus. Jesus was actually more concerned with the spark they had lost than He was with their deeds. He was more concerned with their love than with their doctrine. He praised them for being doctrinally right and for their activities in the Kingdom, but He condemned them for no longer being in love with Him.
5‘Therefore remember from where you have fallen, and repent and do the deeds you did at first; or else I am coming to you and will remove your lampstand out of its place—unless you repent.
Revelation 2:6–7 (NASB95)

6‘Yet this you do have, that you hate the deeds of the Nicolaitans, which I also hate.

7‘He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches. To him who overcomes, I will grant to eat of the tree of life which is in the Paradise of God.’
