

e- also at Myrtle Grove. These are claimants to national honors for the species.

People Patter

in
ls
in
at e l-
or
al
:-
a
s

A brief note from Golden Quarter, near Berlin, in Worcester County from Robert W. White, points out what he feels is the largest English elm in the nation. He estimates this tree on Golden Quarter Farm on Ayers Creek, is 250 years old.

The American Forestry Assn., however, says it's not a "naturalized forest tree" in the United States and therefore not recognized in the Social Register of Big Trees.

Mr. White gives no figures but complains that if Mr. Agnew can become vice president, surely a tree in U. S. soil for 250 years should be accepted as an American citizen.

News Editor Bill Cochran, back from a Florida vacation, was at a cocktail party at Delray Beach where he met Gen. A. A. Vand

Clipped By:

eviefrazier

Tue, Jan 2, 2018