Angie Hinojos
Generations*, 2021
Harmony*, 2021

Angie Hinojos is a Mexican American public artist. Angie's work amplifies untold stories and personal histories. Her work aims to highlight the connections between past and present, and the value of cultural traditions. Angie's background as an architect results in work that often explores pattern, structure, and space.

One Strange (Beautiful) Planet*, 2021

A Strange (Beautiful) Planet painting symbolizes every individual's identity, diversity, and questions about the idea of beauty. This painting is one of my Raindrops series which has a theme of belonging and how to harmonize with community members from different cultures.

When I was invited to participate as an artist by the OBCC, I felt a lot of joy since it was an opportunity to share colors with the children. I felt the connection to them with the creation and presentation of my visual art, reflecting the cultural heritage of my Hispanic-Latino / Indigenous roots. My work at the Clinic is a visual interaction with children in Seattle.
