

EDITORIAL NOTE

For outsiders to the Catalan conflict there are two documents that are key for understanding what has happened in Catalonia in recent years. The one you are about to see “ENFOCATS - A roadmap for independence”, was found in the house of an independentist activist on the 20th of Sept, 2017, days before the 1st of October elections. Some pages of the document were leaked to the press in poor reading condition, and only in its original Catalan language. We now make this pages available restored and translated to the 24 languages of the EU.

It is this newspaper belief that, as a country, we have not made the necessary efforts to explain the unionists point of view to the world. And given that is the international public opinion where separatists are playing what we consider to be a farce, it is our intention to cast light on it. In the next days/weeks we intend to publish enough material in english to explain a point of view that has been silenced in Catalonia.

We hope this journalistic effort will make clear how independentists have understood a coup d'état in the XXI century: A planned propaganda campaign. One that taken to the international arena under the role of victims would grant them international sympathy and ultimately, independence. A plan that, as you will soon see, contemplated a “violent reaction of the state” and “economic and judicial suffocation”. A plan that shows the only “dialog” the separatists ever wanted was to impose their vision and political goals to the people of Catalonia and the Spanish government at all costs. A plan executively leaded by former President Puigdemont (currently free) and other former members of the catalan parliament (currently waiting for trial).

ABOUT HOW THIS DOCUMENT WAS MADE

Wording, charts, typography, font size and line spacing have been carefully reproduced.

The document, however, is partial. The original document had, at least 41 pages (highest page number found in one of the slides leaked by the spanish press).

We believe to have respected the original slide order given the information we could find.

EXECUTIVE BODIES
To execute particular tasks entrusted from the Executive Committee Execute to fulfill all the strategic objectives	Departments of Government Sovereign Entities Municipality Entities Influencers sympathetic to the process

We must be public about the existence of this coordination but at the same time be very discreet when communicating about its inner workings

From September 2015 to the present moment, new variables have added up

Instability of the parliamentary majority

- Government is formed at the last minute and a change of President is forced
- The parliamentary majority does not approve 2016 budgets
- Confidence in us is in question six months later

Confusion about the independence roadmap to follow

- There is a perception of Political disunity between pro-independence parties
- There are different positions among the parties and sovereignist entities
- It is not clear that the day after the Unilateral Declaration of Independence the country will operate with guarantees

Social emotion worn out

- The communicative story with the citizenship has been lost
- No credible government and parliamentary activity is known about the construction of the new State

... but there are also positive elements

- Brexit is happening
- Some States show interest for the Catalan situation
- The path to reform Spain does not result credible

We're losing face for the independence YES!!!! There is disorientation among the convinced and skepticism among the undecided.

Social base (I): We must achieve that independence is the driving force behind the desire for change in Catalonia

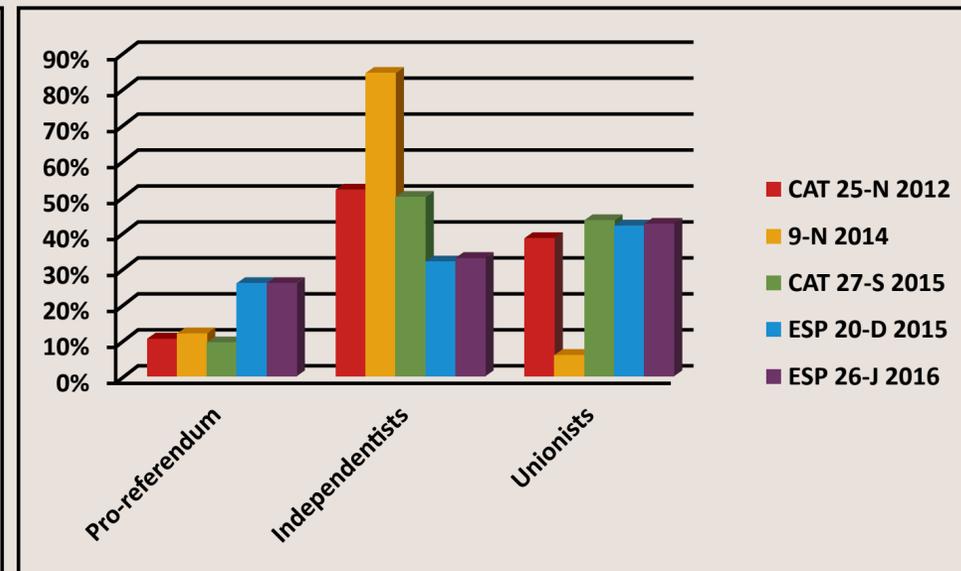

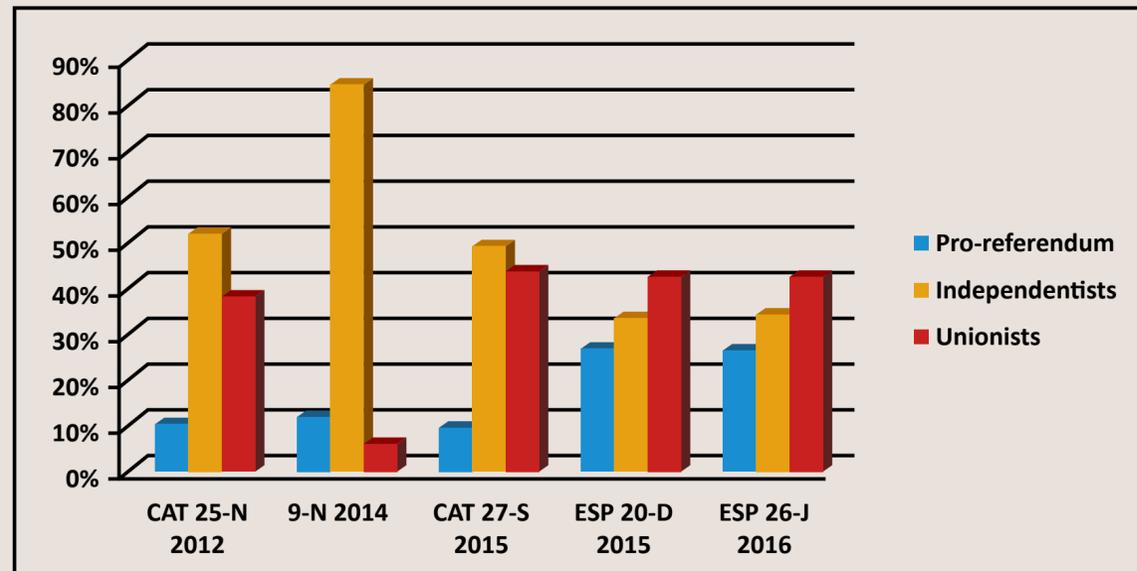

Social base

Political consensus

International credibility

Both the Catalan and Spanish elections show an enormous desire for change over the status quo

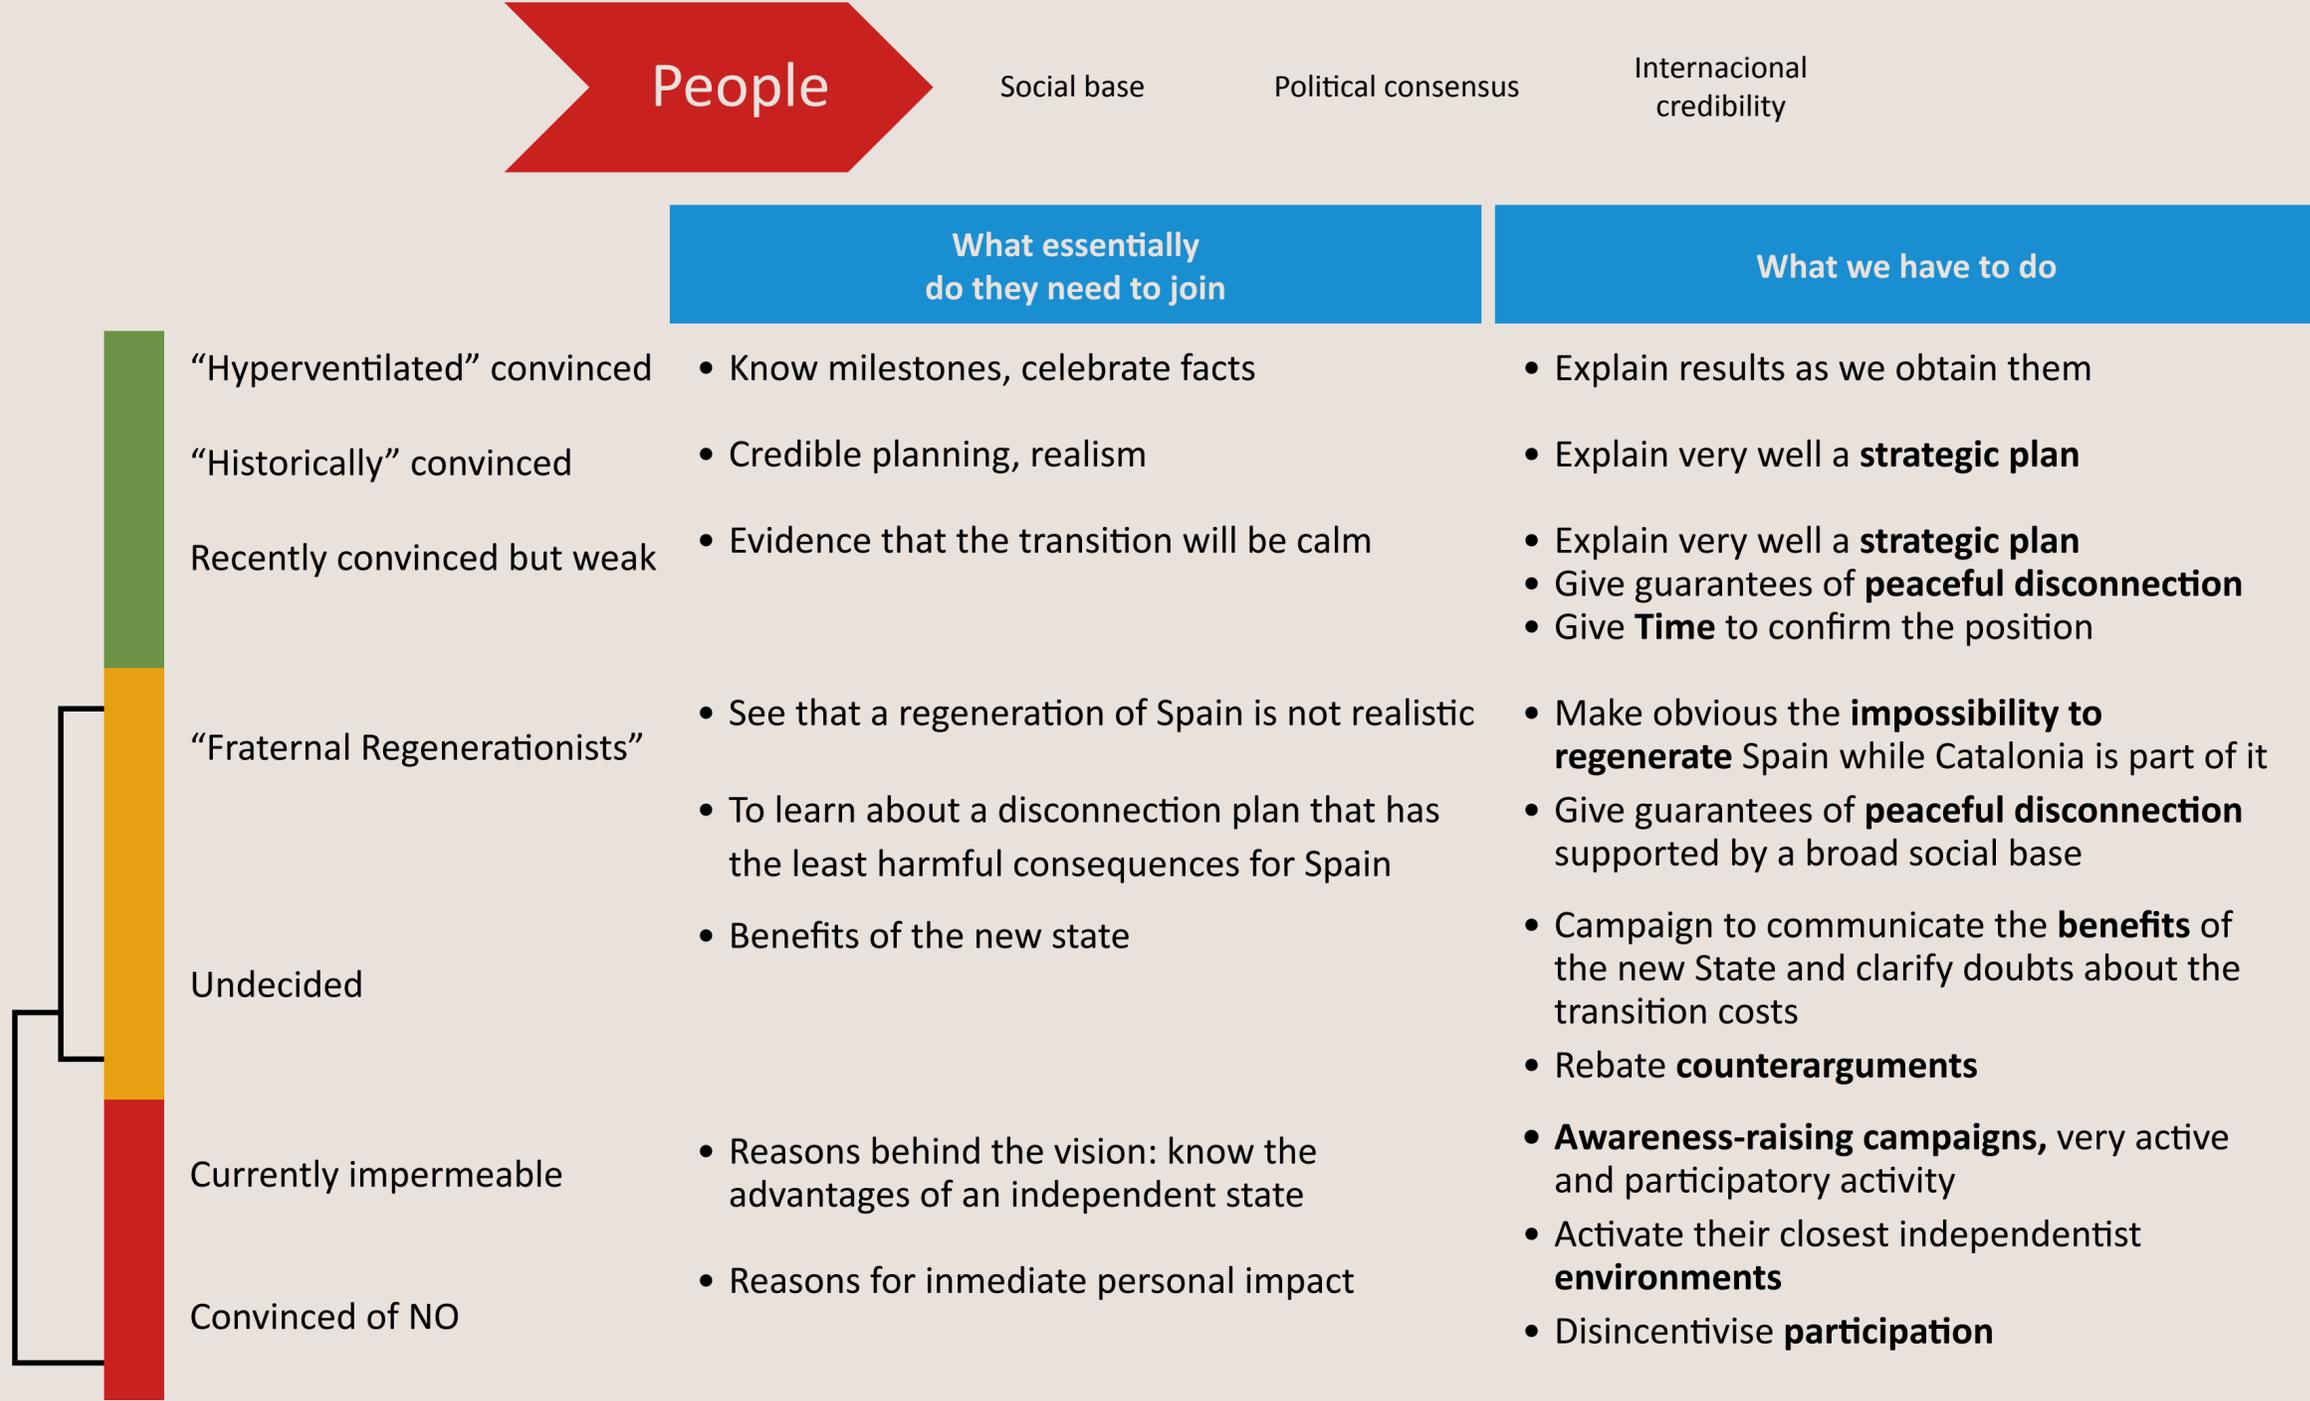

- Unionism seems activated in a more or less stable way in any type of election
- The independence movement behaves differently according to the types of electoral contest
- There is a clear growth of the “commons” driven by Podemos and the desire for change in Spain

- Unionism is very stable and around 40%
- The independence movement is above, but it does not reach 50%
- There is a 10-15% who want a change but this is not necessarily the independency

We must build a very solid social base between people who want a state of their own and those who also show a desire for change in relation to the current situation.

Social base (II): We must identify the different audiences to which we must direct our attention and do so effectively

Political consensus: We must achieve maximum political consensus throughout the process if we want to achieve stable and growing citizen support

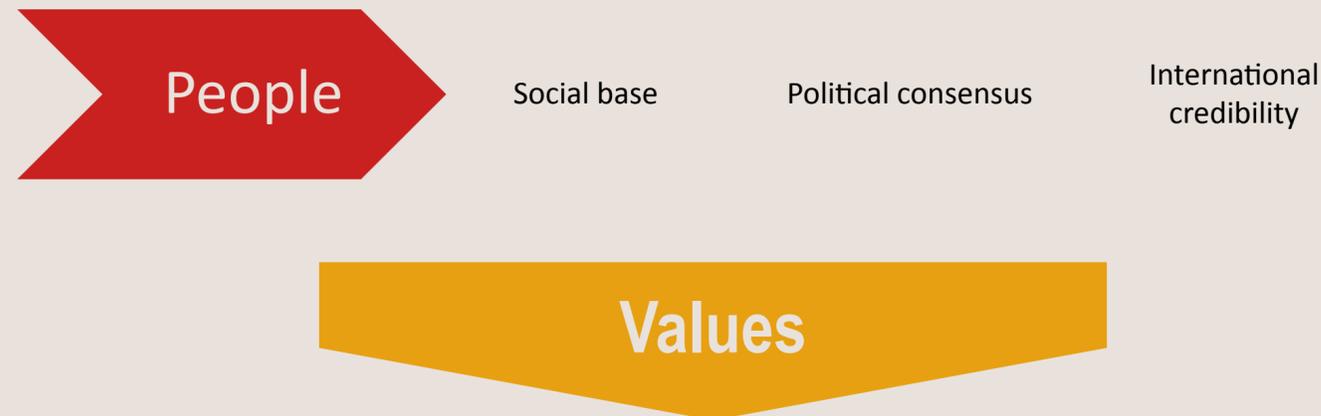

What to do

- Align the strategy between the independence parties
 - aligning political and social action.
 - explaining what is done in the present
 - explaining what will be done in the future
- Engage the pro-referendum forces
 - Seduce them to incorporate them
 - Unmask them

No party can achieve independence on its own hand, on the contrary, Puigdemont, Junqueras, Colau - or the confluence of the spaces they represent - will make it inevitable.

International credibility: A State is born at the moment that those who already are recognized it as such

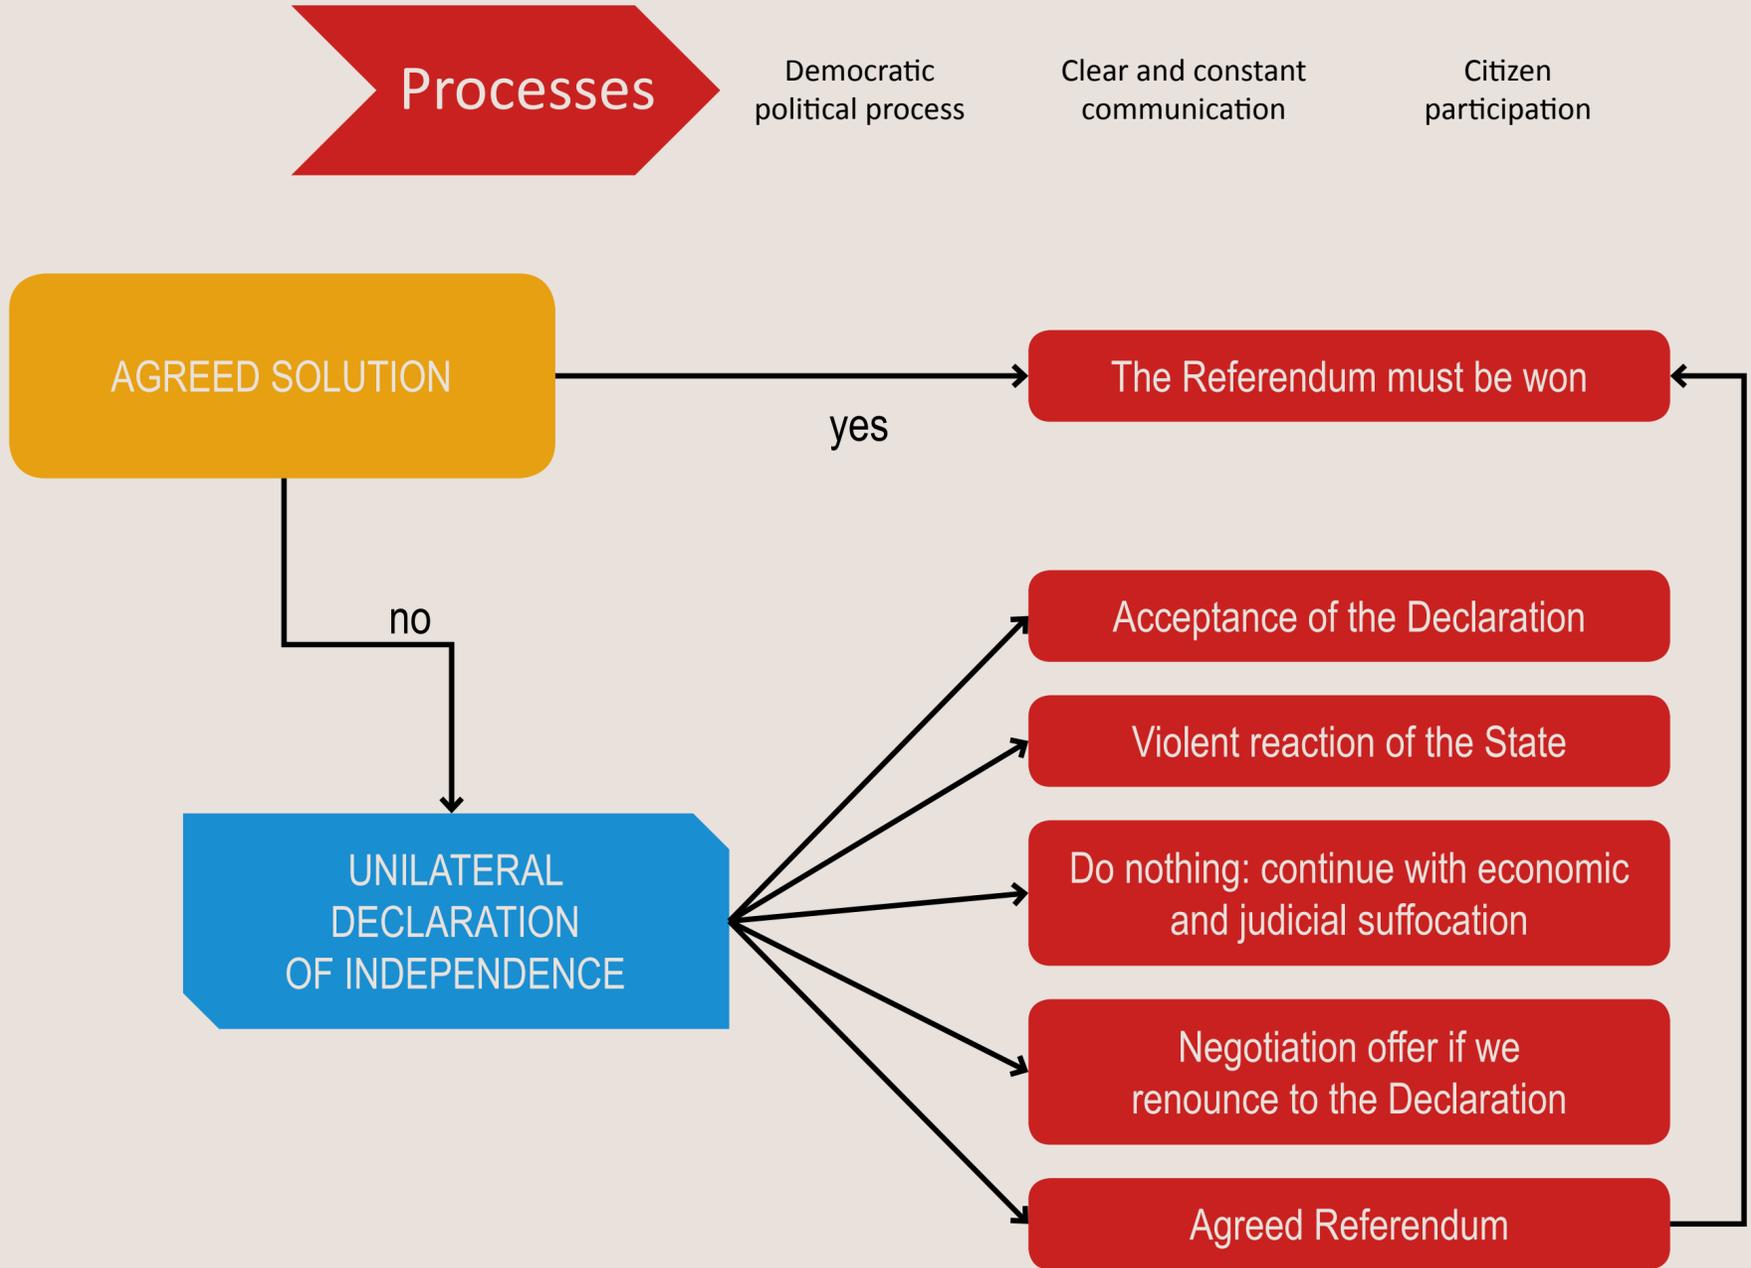

- The strategy, as it has been so far, must be seen internationally as scrupulously democratic
- We must follow all the necessary steps that the States that must recognize us consider as indispensable
- Demonstrate that we have, already during the dynamics of the “process” of construction of the new State, all the values that inspire the new Country.
- Demonstrate that we can function as a State and that we can be a reliable partner for them

We need to ensure complicity and international involvement in the case of a political conflict with Spain

Hastening a Unilateral Declaration of Independence without having worked thoroughly all these values would make us unattractive in the eyes of the international community.

Democratic political process (II): The unilateral declaration of independence will generate a conflict that, well managed, can lead us to our own State

Democratic political process Clear and constant communication Citizen participation

The government of Spain will not recognize the right to make a Referendum, but if it sees everything is lost, it will make us do it so that we lose it

Democratic political process (I): We must always work with a desire for negotiation and agreement, and also with total determination without renouncing to the unilateral path

We will practice unilateralism once all other paths are exhausted and at the time there is a broad consensus among citizens as well as international complicity.

Citizen participation: People must be encouraged towards the pro-independence project by reinforcing the many existing initiatives

- Count on the citizenship in an inclusive and massive way in the definition of the new country
- Use the participative process as a direct interpellation tool for convinced, undecided and impermeable voters

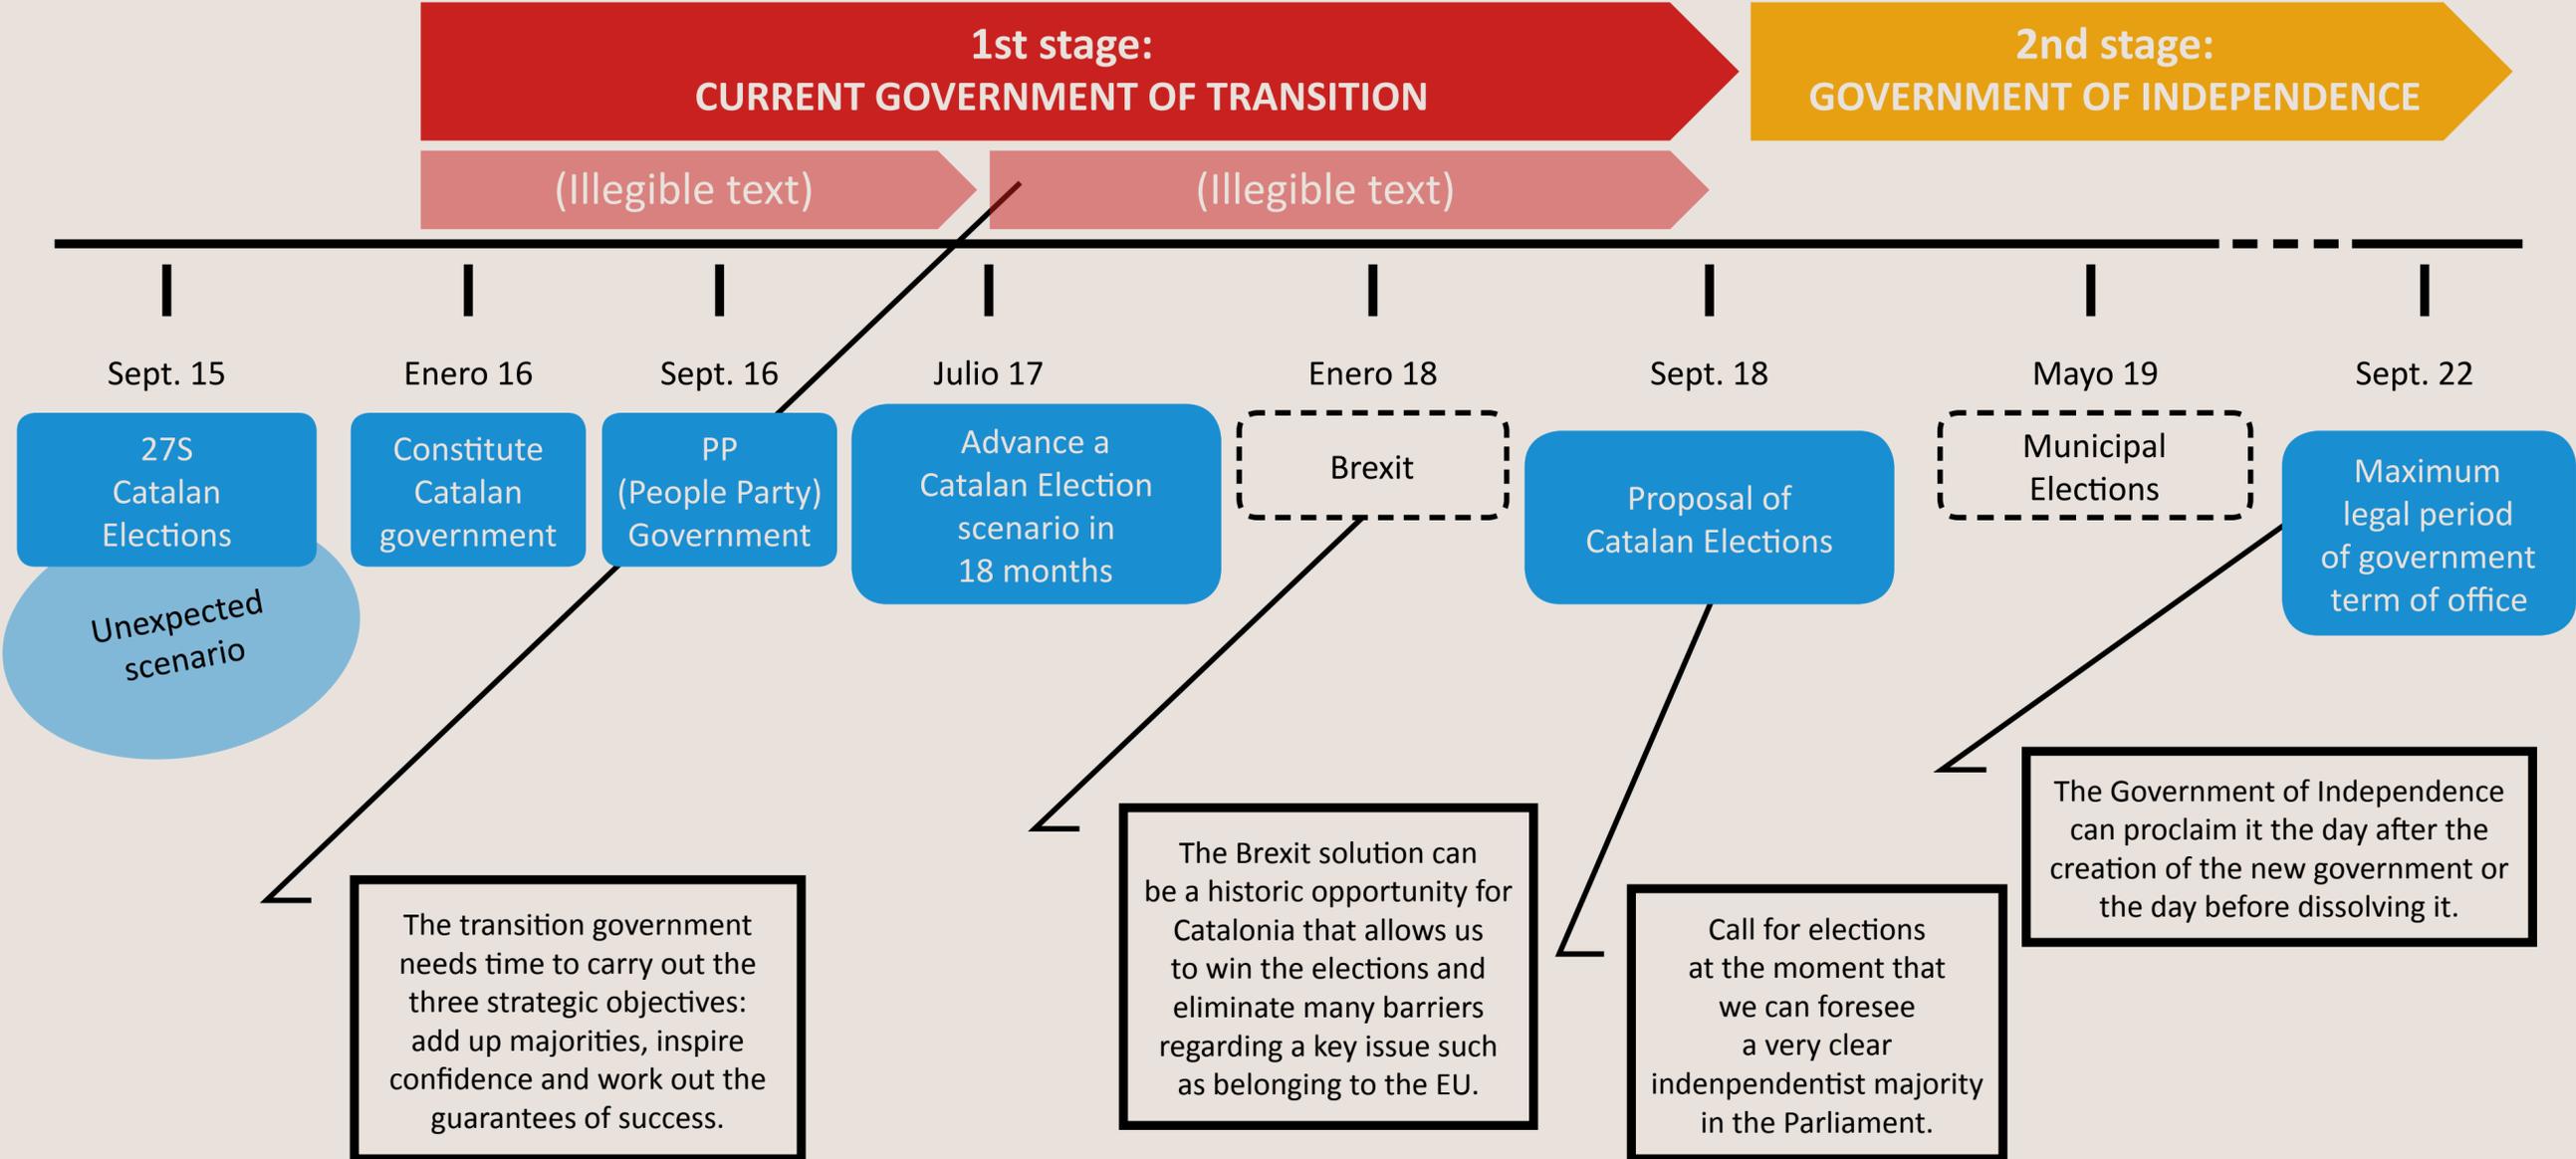

Coordinate and give support to catalan sovereignist entities in the impulse of initiatives for citizen participation

Synthesize the citizens proposals in the document "How we want Catalonia to be"

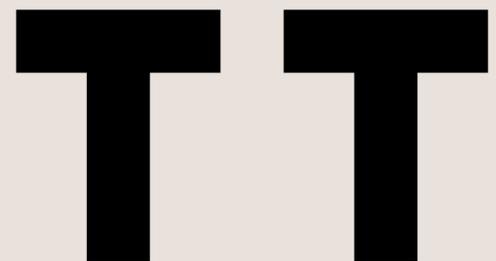

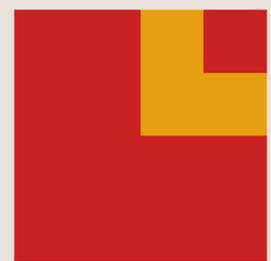

The majority of citizens will vote independence if they are convinced that it will be better and what will be better

The correct management of the calendars is a key element for success

There are only two success factors that we really control: one, that the process is scrupulously democratic, and the other is the management of times. We must not misuse either of the two.
