

Kim Douglas, MLA RLA

Director, Landscape Architecture Program, Director; Lab for Urban and Social Innovation, Associate Professor; College of Architecture + the Built Environment, Philadelphia University

Kim Douglas received a Master of Landscape Architecture from the University of Pennsylvania. While at Penn, Kim was fortunate to have studied under, and was influenced by, the distinguished educator and early pioneer of ecological planning, Ian McHarg. Upon graduation she joined Olin Partnership, an international design firm, where she worked as the lead designer on several award winning projects including the LEED certified Winter Garden and Plaza at the Comcast Center in Philadelphia. Kim joined Philadelphia University in 2009 as full time faculty in the department of Landscape Architecture.

Kim is founding principal of STUDIO GAEA, an award winning landscape architectural firm. Her firm specializes in projects that combine a strong design aesthetic with sustainable design solutions and are community driven. She works with the Community Design Collaborative and is an Associate with the Environmental Leadership Program which promotes and encourages new leaders in the environmental field.
