Pouné Saberi, M.D., Occupational and Environmental Medicine, Physicians for Social Responsibility

Dr. Pouné Saberi, is a physician in Occupational and Environmental Medicine and has more than 14 years of clinical and public health experience. She serves on the national and Philadelphia board of Physicians for Social Responsibility. She is a topic expert on health impacts of climate change, shale gas development and the connection between nature and well being.