Albert Szent-Györgyi

1893-1986

Albert Szent-Györgyi did exactly what only a very few were able to do: he successfully lived through more than two-thirds of this century covering an era, in which the human race displayed perseverance in self-destruction through meaningless wars.

As a young professor of biochemistry at the Szeged University and a few years later in the pre-war period as the Rector of the Szeged Medical University, he magically transformed his Institute of Medical Chemistry with great vision into an international “open laboratory”, an intellectual meeting place, where the free flow of ideas, the enthusiasm of his associates and his students assured that science would leap forward in huge steps.

He really made some big catches in his lifetime: the Nobel-Prize for discovering the vitamin-C and the biochemical steps of catalysis of the fumaric acid in the tri-carboxylic acid cycle.

“Science has opened endless possibilities for expansion if we work together instead of snatching small advantages from one another. Science has helped us to understand and master ourselves, creating an elevated new form of human life, the wealth and beauty of which cannot be pictured today by the keenest imagination”.

“Lost in the 20th Century” Albert Szent-Györgyi, Annual Review of Biochemistry, 32, 1963

Why Szeged?

The city

You will love it! With its University campus right in the heart of the city centre, its museums, art galleries, theatres, movies, clubs, coffee-shops, pubs, large parks, Szeged offers all the excitement of a big city, which is, however, easy to explore on foot or by bike.

Szeged, situated on the banks of the River Tisza, is a thriving university town and the cultural and economic centre of South-Eastern Hungary. It is a city with deep historical and cultural roots, inhabited since Roman times. Szeged was rebuilt after the great flood in 1879 when most of the city was destroyed by the River Tisza.

By Hungarian standards, Szeged is a large city with its population of 160 000.

The salami and paprika business has brought fame and credit to the city. The National Theatre of Szeged, its Contemporary Ballet Company and Symphony Orchestra provide a full season of entertainment. The city is also famous for its open-air theatre and the city centre is marked by the twin spires of the Roman Catholic Cathedral (Dóm).

Szeged is often called the "City of Sunshine" as it enjoys an average of 2000 hours of sunshine annually.

The University of Szeged

The University of Szeged is one of the largest, top universities in Hungary. Its institutional and intellectual history goes back to 1581 when the Academia was found in Cluj, contemporary Romania. Due to the political circumstances after the first WW, the University found a new home in Szeged in 1921.

In the year 2000, all universities and colleges were integrated into one educational institution, the University of Szeged.

Today, the University comprises 12 faculties with 2.300 faculty members, 7.000 employees and 21.000 students. It has 600 undergraduate training programs and more than 100 Ph.D. programs in 19 Ph.D. schools.

Statement of Non-Discrimination

The University does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, ethnicity, religion, creed, sex, sexual orientation, political affiliation, marital status or physical disability.

Our teaching system is very traditional. We place great emphasis on the theoretical subjects in order to provide a solid basis for the clinical training. The programs are designed to unify the basic and clinical sciences, as it is believed that scientific and professional development cannot be sharply separated but should proceed concurrently throughout the programs. Special Ph.D. programs are arranged, along with individual postgraduate training for Hungarian and foreign colleagues.

In short, our main mission is to train well-educated professionals.

Our national and international reputation for academic excellence, combined with our world-class facilities, attracts international students from around the globe. The faculties host approximately 1400 international students studying in the international programs.

Degree Programs

Medical Program MD

The Faculty of Medicine admits close to 200 students per year to the English Language Program.

The undergraduate medical program lasts six years (12 semesters). The first two years serve as the foundation of basic medical knowledge. From the third year, theoretical training is extended with regular clinical practice, where students intensively take part in the work of the clinical departments and the teaching hospitals.

The Faculty's excellent scientific laboratories offer the students a wide range of opportunities to join high standard scientific research activities.

In the last two semesters – the clerkship year – students perform clinical rotations of 40 weeks. Our medical training centre is to aid medical students by enabling them to practice the methods of various procedures on dummies throughout their academic studies.

At the conclusion of the program (State Board Examination), the title Doctor of Medicine (medical doctor; Dr. Med.) is granted for those who have met all the requirements of the training.
