Who We Are

The Center for Economic Inclusion (the Center) is the nation’s first organization dedicated exclusively to closing racial wealth gaps and creating regional economies that work for everyone. The Center equips public- and private-sector employers and policy makers to close dismantle systemic racism and institutionalize anti-racist policies in shared accountability and solidarity with Black, Indigenous, Latinx, and Asian communities.

Our Approach

The future of Minnesota’s economic growth and competitiveness relies upon the willingness of policymakers to enact and invest in anti-racist policies and solutions. To support policy makers in building an equitable, just, and prosperous economy, the Center for Economic Inclusion will:

- Advocate and lobby for anti-racist local, state, and federal public policies in four domains.
- Partner with racial and economic justice organizations, policy makers, employers, workers, and communities to address the conditions of systems change, including policies, practices, resources, power, relationships, and mental models.
- Advocate and lobby for specific solutions and policies developed in coalition with the Postsecondary Readiness and Attainment Policy Committee, Racial Equity & Joy Coalition, and Racial Equity Impact Notes Coalition.

Policy Priorities

Create Good Jobs & Invest in Inclusive Workplaces

Minnesota needs more jobs paying family sustaining wages and benefits, in workplaces committed to values of racial equity, inclusion and belonging. The Center will advocate for solutions to grow the economy through investments that accelerate inclusive job growth, work to limit investments and incentives for businesses unwilling to contribute to inclusive economic growth, and lobby.

Equitable, Inclusive & Transparent Government

Minnesotans depend on policy makers to make data informed decision making in the best interest of all communities. The Center advocates for and offers tools for evaluating proposed policies and solutions for their impact on closing or widening stagnant racial disparities that threaten the states’ economic competitiveness and growth.
