Who We Are

We are women and non-binary farmers, allies, and advocates working together for a just and ecological food and farming system. WFAN’s role in this co-creation is to support our members in sharing the information, resources, space, and power needed to organize justice-centered, eco-honoring communities.
WFAN ACKNOWLEDGES

- PATRIARCHAL CONTROL
- WHITE SUPREMACY AND OPPRESSION
- WEAPONIZATION OF FOOD
- INEQUITY IN FARM AND FOOD SYSTEMS
- RESOURCE DEGRADATION
- COLONIST LAND CONTROL
WFAN strives to create a non-exploitative and inclusive food system by engaging and welcoming supporting collective sharing and learning around sustainable agriculture practices and principles of food justice and sovereignty. We advocate for:

HUMAN JUSTICE

GENDER
- Equity, Access, and Resources Regardless of Gender

RACE
- Equity, Access, Resources, and Reparations for Oppressed Groups

CLASS
- Equity, Access, and Resources Regardless of Economic Status

CLIMATE JUSTICE

SITUATION ANALYSIS
- Investigation into Ongoing Threats, Opportunities, and Successes in Climate Change

PRACTICE
- Farmers and Communities Applying Best Recommended Practices to Operations

COMMUNICATION
- Open Access Sharing of Resources, Information, and Success Stories for Scaling and Replication

LAND JUSTICE

SOIL
- Soil Stewardship Which Feeds the Soil Food Web in All Practices

WATER
- The Repair and Mitigation of Unhealthy Water Systems and the Efforts to Keep Sources Clean

BIOTIC
- Informed and Mindful Land Care That Fosters Healthy Fauna Lifecycles, Habitat, and Future Appropriate Fecundity
PATHWAYS FROM INTENTION TO ACTION

- Local, Regional, National, and Global Connections
- Anti-Racist Discussions
- Knowledge & Resource Sharing
- Open Access Education
- Research
- Listening Sessions
We engage women landowners in land decisions that are beneficial to the environment, connecting mentors to beginning women and non-binary farmers, encouraging women and non-binary people to take on local, regional, and national leadership to advocate for sustainable agriculture and equitable food systems and through collaborative learning among our membership in anti-racist discussions.
