Dear NRT Partners,

I trust you’re all keeping safe!

The current health crisis continues to take a toll on our daily operations, but we continue to operate and strictly adhere to the government’s COVID-19 guidelines.

Join me in welcoming four Isiolo community conservancies of Cherab, Kinna, Sericho and Garbatula to the NRT fraternity. This now makes NRT an umbrella organization supporting 43 community conservancies in Kenya.

In August, we had our 2021 bi-annual Council of Elders (CoEs) meeting where chairpersons from 41 NRT-member conservancies met the new NRT and NRT Trading boards and to discuss other agendas including the bi-annual progress, regional implementation report, NRT/ NRT Trading progress updates, conservancy capacity assessment, financial report, election of the new CoE chairperson, fundraising and conservancy resilience. The forum was attended by representatives from the County Governments, Kenya Wildlife Service, Kenya Forest Service and our partners from USAID Kenya, The Nature Conservancy and Flora and Fauna International. This bi-annual meeting is aimed at strengthening governance within the conservancies.

On August 18th, the newly appointed NRT board toured four community conservancies in the northern landscape for an orientation tour to familiarise with programmes implemented by NRT and the NRT Trading.

The team, led by the board’s vice chair-person Mr. Jarso Mokku visited Biliqo dispensary and other livelihoods projects within Biliqo Bulesa Conservancy before proceeding to Melako Conservancy for tourism (Melako bandas) and peace building programmes.

Accompanied by NRT Senior Management Team (SMT), the board also made a stop over at the Reteti Elephant Sanctuary in Ngilai Conservancy then later interacted with women beaders in Kalama Conservancy. During the tour, the board had an opportunity to interact with community members and their respective leadership where they cemented the impacts gained over years from conservation.

They were energized with the direction that NRT and its member conservancies are taking.
