If you have been sexually assaulted:

• Seek medical care as soon as possible. Even if you do not have any visible physical injuries, you may be at risk of becoming pregnant or acquiring a sexually transmitted infection.

• Consider preserving evidence: avoid cleaning or straightening up, evidence may be collected from the assault location. Remain in the clothing worn during the assault or put the clothing in a paper bag (not plastic) so that it can be entered into evidence. In addition, avoid bathing, wiping, washing hands, or brushing your teeth, if possible.

• Go to the nearest hospital, police station and request a sexual assault forensic examination (SAFE) to be conducted.

• If you suspect you have been drugged, inform the sexual assault nurse examiner and request that a urine sample be collected.

• If possible, write down, tape or record by any other means all the details you can recall about the assault and the assailant.

• If your safety is under immediate threat, contact 911 immediately.

Note: you are not required to have a sexual assault forensic exam. It is ideal to collect forensic evidence from the body within 72 hours.
