THE slave music of the South presents a field for research and study very extensive and rich, and one which has been scarcely more than entered upon.

There are evidently, I think, two legitimate methods of treating this music: either to render it in its absolute, rude simplicity, or to develop it without destroying its original characteristics; the only proper field for such development being in harmony.

Practical experience shows the necessity, in some cases, of making compensation for its loss in being transplanted. Half its effectiveness in its home depends upon accompaniments which can be carried away only in memory. The inspiration of numbers; the overpowering chorus, covering defects; the swaying of the body; the rhythmical stamping of the feet; and all the wild enthusiasm of the Negro campmeeting—these evidently cannot be transported to the boards of a public performance. To secure variety and do justice to the music, I have, therefore, treated it by both methods. The most characteristic of the songs are left entirely or nearly untouched. On the other hand the improvement which a careful bringing out of the various parts has effected in such pieces as "Some o' dese Mornin's," "Bright Sparkles in de Churchyard," "Dust an' Ashes," and "The Church of God," which seemed especially susceptible to such development, suggests possibilities of making more than has ever yet been made out of this slave music.

Another obstacle to its rendering is the fact that tones are frequently employed which we have no musical characters to represent. Such, for example, is that which I have indicated as nearly as possible by the flat seventh in "Great Campmeetin'," "Hard Trials," and others. These tones are variable in pitch, ranging through an entire interval on different occasions, according to the inspiration of the singer.
They are rarely discordant and often add a charm to the performance. It is of course impossible to explain them in words, and to those who wish to sing them, the best advice is that most useful in learning to pronounce a foreign language:

Study all the rules you please; then—go listen to a native.

One reason for publishing this slave music is that it is rapidly passing away. It may be that this people which has developed such a wonderful musical sense in its degradation will, in its maturity, produce a composer who could bring a music of the future out of the music of the past. At present, however, the freedmen have an unfortunate inclination to despise it as a vestige of slavery; those who learned it in the old time, when it was the natural outpouring of their sorrows and longings, are dying off; and if efforts are not made for its preservation the country will soon have lost this wonderful music of bondage.

The melodies in this book, with few exceptions, are published here for the first time, and the exceptions are themselves original in arrangement and effect. The words of the slave hymns are often common property through the South, but are sung to different tunes in different sections of the country.

INTRODUCTION

IN publishing this new and enlarged edition of the Hampton Songs, little explanation is needed, for it is done in response to a demand. Ever since the publication of the first edition in 1874, when the band of Hampton Student Singers were helping to raise the walls of Virginia Hall by its concerts in the North, there have been frequent requests for their music. Meanwhile, though the old favorites have not been neglected, many more melodies, striking and beautiful, have been brought in by students from various parts of the South. The field seems almost inexhaustible. Their origin no one exactly knows. An old “aunty,” questioned on the subject, declared that “When Mass’r Jesus He walk de earth, when He feel tired He sit a-restin’ on Jacob’s well and make up dese yer spirituals for His people.” A half-familiar strain, recalling some old ballad or psalm-tune, now and then suggests a possible solution for some of them; and, as Lowell said of Chaucer, “If one can transmute lead into gold, why ask where he got his lead?” So strikingly original, as well as of such quaint, pathetic, even artistic beauty, are most of them, that they justify Edward Everett Hale's assertion that they are “the only American music.”

A consideration of the slave music of the South, from the musician’s standpoint, was made by Mr. Thomas P. Fenner, who trained the original band of Hampton Student Singers and arranged the songs in the first edition of this book, his preface to which is subjoined. The disposition which he noticed in the freedmen to be ashamed of the songs of slave times still exists. Some of the old ring is lost with the experience that called it forth. Yet the people are still natural musicians, and it is easy to arouse in the more advanced an intelligent interest in the characteristic music which excites so much sympathy and respect for their race, and is so identified with their past history and their present fortunes.

NOTE TO NEW EDITION

For the fourth time we are publishing these Negro Religious Folk Songs. To this edition are being added some twenty-five new ones, for the use of which we wish to acknowledge the courtesy of Professor F. J. Work of Fisk University, Mrs. Jennie C. Lee of Tuskegee Institute, the Calhoun Colored School, and the Penn School.

It is exceedingly gratifying to know that these songs and Negro Folklore generally are not only continuing to hold their own among white people but are becoming more and more popular with Negroes themselves. General Armstrong often referred to the plantation songs as a wonderful possession which the Negro should hold on to as a priceless legacy. They are truly a priceless legacy. Though the words are sometimes rude and the strains often wild, yet they are the outpourings of an ignorant and poverty-stricken people whose religious longings and ideals struggled for expression and found it through limited vocabularies and primitive harmonies. They are not merely poetry, they are more than poetry, they are life itself—the life of the human soul manifesting itself in rude words, wild strains, and curious though beautiful harmonies.

For nearly a score of years I have led the plantation songs at Hampton Institute, and while in a general way we adhere to the music as notated in this book, we find that the best results are usually obtained by allowing the students, after they have once caught the air, to sing as seems to them most easy and natural.

Peter, go Ring dem Bells.

"A secret prayer-meeting song, sung by Thomas Vess, a blacksmith and a slave. He especially sang it when any one confessed religion. Thomas Vess was a man whose heart was given to these songs, for in the neighborhood where he lived, it seemed like a prayer-meeting did not go on well without him. I have long since learned wherever he was known what happiness he got from them."

J. M. Waddy.

Nobody knows de trouble I've Seen.

(This song was a favorite in the Sea Islands. Once when there had been a good deal of ill feeling excited, and trouble was apprehended, owing to the uncertain action of the Government in regard to the confiscated lands on the Sea Islands, Gen. Howard was called upon to address the colored people earnestly. To prepare them to listen, he asked them to sing. Immediately an old woman on the outskirts of the meeting began "Nobody knows the trouble I've seen," and the whole audience joined in. The General was so affected by the plaintive melody, that he found it difficult to maintain his official dignity.)

Oh, nobody knows de trouble I've seen, Nobody knows but Jesus, Nobody knows de trouble I've seen. Glory Hal-le-lu-jah!

Sometimes I'm up, sometimes I'm down; Oh, yes, Lord;
Although you see me goin' long so, Oh, yes, Lord;

Sometimes I'm almost to de groun', Oh, yes, Lord.
I have my trials here below, Oh, yes, Lord.

2 One day when I was walkin' along, Oh yes, Lord—
De element opened, an' de Love came down, Oh yes, &c.

When Jesus washed my sins away, Oh yes, &c.

"My father sang this hymn, and said he knew a time when a great many slaves were allowed to have a revival for two days, while their masters and their families had one; and a great many professed religion. And one poor, ignorant man, professed religion, and praised God, and sang this hymn."

Ef ye want to see Jesus.

Go in de wilderness, Go in de wilderness, Go in the wilderness, Ef ye want to see Jesus.

Go in de wilderness Lean-in' on de Lord. Oh, brother how d'ye feel, when ye come out de wilderness, come out de wilderness, happy when I come out de wilderness, I felt so happy when I come out de wilderness.

Go in de wilderness Lean-in' on de Lord. Oh, brother how d'ye feel, when ye come out de wilderness, come out de wilderness, happy when I come out de wilderness, I felt so happy when I come out de wilderness.
Ef ye want to see Jesus.—Concluded.

come out de wil-der-ness, Lean-in' on de Lord.

on de Lord, Lean-in' on de Lord, Oh lean-in' up-

- on de Lamb of God, who was slain on Cal-va-ry.

2 I shouted Hallelujah, when I come out de wilderness—
   Leanin' on de Lord;
I heard de angels singin', when I come out de wilderness—
   Leanin' on de Lord;
I heard de harps a harpin', when I come out de wilderness—
   Leanin' on de Lord.
Cho.—Oh, leanin' on de Lord.

3 I heard de angels moanin', when I come out de wilderness—
   Leanin' on de Lord;
I heard de deb'l howlin', when I come out de wilderness—
   Leanin' on de Lord;
I gib de deb'l a battle, when I come out de wilderness—
   Leanin' on de Lord.
Cho.—Oh, leanin' on de Lord.

Oh, wait till I put on my robe, wait till I put on my robe,
Oh, Yes.—Concluded.

Wait till I put on my robe, Oh, yes! Oh, yes!

Ef eber I land on de oder sho', Oh, yes,

But I fell on my knees, an' I cried, Oh, Lord, Oh, yes,
Now my Jesus hein' so good an' kind,
Yea, to de with-er-ed, halt an' blind;
My Jesus lowered his mercy down.
An' snatch-a-me from a-dem doors ob hell,
He snatch-a-me from dem doors ob hell,
An' took-a me in a-wid him to dwell.
Cho.—Oh, wait till I put on my robe.

3.

Oh, brother, dat scare me to my heart,

Cho.—Oh, wait till I get on my robe.

4.
I'm anchored in Christ, Christ anchored
in me, Oh, yes, &c.,
All de deb'l's in hell can't-a-pluck a-me out;
An' I wonder what Satan 's grumbulin' about,
He's bound into hell, an' he can't git out.
But he shall be loose an' hab his sway,
Yea at de great resurrection day.
Cho.—Oh, wait till I put on my robe.

Verses, some of which are often added as encores.

5.
I went down de hill side to make a-one prayer, Oh, yes,

An' I met ole Satan on de way:
Ole Satan made a-one grab at me,
But he missed my soul, an' I went free.
My sins went a-lumberin' down to hell,
An' my soul went a-leanin' up Zion's hill;
I tell ye what, bretherin, you'd better not laugh,
Ole Satan 'll run you down his path;
If he runs you, as he run me,
You'll be glad to fall upon your knee.
Cho.—Oh, wait till I put on my robe.

My mother used to tell me how the colored People all expected to be free some day, and how one night, a great many of them met together in a Cabin, and tied little budgets on their backs, as though they expected to go off somewhere, and cried, and shook hands, and sang this hymn.

Note.—There is so little variety to the verses of "Sweet Canaan" that we have not thought it worth while to give them at greater length. They readily suggest themselves, and seem to be limited only by the number of the singer's relations and friends.
In dat great gittin-up Mornin'.

This song is a remarkable paraphrase of a portion of the Book of Revelations, and one of the finest specimens of negro "Spirituals." The student who brought it to us, and who sings the solos, has furnished all that he can remember of the almost interminable succession of verses, which he has heard sung for half an hour at a time, by the slaves in their midnight meetings in the woods. He gives the following interesting account of its origin:

"I have heard my uncle sing this hymn, and he told me how it was made. It was made by an old slave who knew nothing about letters or figures. He could not count the number of rails that he would split when he was tasked by his master to split 150 a day. But he tried to lead a Christian life, and he dreamed of the General Judgment, and told his fellow-servants about it, and then made a tune to it, and sang it in his cabin meetings."

Gideon's Band; or, De milk-white Horses.

The explanation which has been given us of the origin of this curious hymn is, we think, invaluable as an example of the manner in which external facts grew to have a strange symbolical meaning in the imaginative mind of the negro race.

In a little town in one of the Southern States, a Scriptural panorama was exhibited, in which Gideon's Band held a prominent place, the leader being conspicuously mounted upon a white horse. The black people of the neighborhood crowded to see it, and suddenly, and to themselves inexplicably, this swinging "Milk-White Horses" sprang up among them, establishing itself soon as a standard church and chimney-corner hymn.

Oh, de band ob Gid-e-on, band ob Gid-e-on, band ob Gid-e-on,
Oh, de milk-white hor-ses, milk-white hor-ses, milk-white hor-ses,

The Enlisted Soldiers.

(Sung by the men of the U.S. Colored Volunteers.)

Note.—While recruiting and drilling the 9th Regiment, U.S. Colored troops at Benedict, Maryland, in the winter of 1863-64, the men gathered around the camp-fire would sing by the hour the melodies of the plantation slave life that they had just left—not always very melodious; but late one evening I was startled by a magnificent chorus from nearly a thousand black soldiers, that called me from my tent to listen to its most inspiring strains, and I caught the following words which I called the "Negro Battle Hymn." S. C. Armstrong.

1. Hark! lis-ten to the trum-pet-ers, They call for vol-unteers,
2. Their hors-es, white their ar-mor bright, With cour-age bold they stand,
3. It sets my heart quite in a flame, A sol-dier thus to be,

Ref.—They look like men, they look like men, They look like men of war;

On Zi-on's bright and flow-ry mount, Be-hold the of-fi-cers.
En-list-ing sol-diers for their King, To march to Canaan's land.
I will en-list, gird on my arms, And fight for lib-er-ty.

All armed and dressed in uni-form, They look like men of war.

1 We want no cowards in our band,
That will their colors fly;
We call for valiant hearted men,
Who're not afraid to die.—Ref.

2 They follow their great Geueral,
The great Eternal Lamb,
