Summary
Voilah! France Singapore Festival

With many activities surrounding French culture over the next one and a half months, this edition of Voilah! France Singapore Festival is the largest yet.

NO TASTE FOR BAD TASTE was featured in the video. The exhibition arrived in Singapore for the first time after travelling to more than 20 countries worldwide. 40 pieces of French designs are displayed at the National Design Centre, one of which is Nathan Yong’s Break Stool that brought his designs to the international stage.

The Bear’s Mouth was also featured as one of the highlights. The night parade held in Gardens By The Bay is bound to enthrall the audiences. Made in China, the opening film for the 35th edition of French Film Festival, was also featured.

In the interview, Ambassador of France to Singapore, H.E Marc Abensour, emphasised that the events are co-produced between French and local institutions. He also shared more about the French collaborations in Singapore and its significance. With more than 50 unique programmes spanning from science, education, design, sports and even gastronomy, the Festival has been re-imagined to be bigger and more impactful this year. The festival will end on 17 November 2019.
