We have recently received several requests for individually packaged meals. This method would eliminate sharing of utensils and restore confidence that your meal is yours and yours alone. Should your company, institution or organization desire food to be provided in individual containers for this or any reason, Food for Thought has always had, and will continue to have, that capability and service available. Although some menu items are not conducive to individual packaging, we will work with you to determine the best alternatives.

Your trust in our 29 years of health and safety is what matters most to us.

Our entire Company is committed to helping all of us return to our “normal” way of business as soon as possible.
