October LGBTQ History Programs Highlight Queer History Podcasts, Rare Home Movies and the San Francisco Imperial Council

San Francisco — The program series for October 2020 sponsored by the GLBT Historical Society will highlight queer history podcasts, LGBTQ home movies from as early as the 1930s, the GLBT Historical Society’s virtual annual Gala and the history of San Francisco’s Imperial Council. All events take place online; registration is required for access to the streaming link. For more information, visit www.glbthistory.org.

Panel Discussion
Podcasting LGBTQ History, Part I
Wednesday, October 7
12:00–1:30 p.m.
Online forum
Admission: free; $5 suggested donation

With the advent of more digital media than ever before, people are finding new ways to learn about LGBTQ history and culture, including the podcasts. The last several years have witnessed an explosion in the number of queer voices in podcasting, a powerful tool and medium for teaching LGBTQ history in an accessible, intimate way. In the first of a two-part conversation, prominent queer podcasters whose shows cover the broad spectrum of LGBTQ history will share their experiences, perspectives and tips on how queer history can be shared beyond the classroom through podcasts that potentially reach a global audience. 50 Years of Fabulous
Friday, October 23
6:00–8:00 p.m.
Online forum
Admission: $10; $7 for GLBT Historical Society members

Together with Frameline and the Roxie Theater, the GLBT Historical Society is co-presenting a virtual screening of 50 Years of Fabulous. Director Jethro Patalinghug’s 2018 documentary chronicles the foundation, history and impact of the world’s oldest LGBTQ charity, the Imperial Council. Established in San Francisco in 1965 by activist, drag queen and performer José Sarria — the first openly gay man to run for public office in the United States — the Council is the founding court in the international Imperial Court System, now a global network of LGBTQ nonprofits. The screening will be followed by drag performance by members of the Imperial Council and a panel discussion exploring the ongoing importance of the Council.
