One constant will be the importance of caring interpersonal relationships, civil discourse, and a commitment to democratic citizenship and the skills to enact it.

We cannot learn without caring relationships:

A person is a person through other persons.

To thrive in the 21st century, students need more than traditional academic learning. They must be adept at collaboration, communication and problem-solving, which are some of the skills developed through social and emotional learning (SEL). Coupled with mastery of traditional skills, social and emotional proficiency will equip students to succeed in the swiftly evolving digital economy.

How Students Can Truly Succeed: Climate, Character, and SEL Competencies

True academic and life success integrates the intellectual, emotional, and social facets of learning. These are inextricably interconnected.

Positive, Character-Building School Climate + Explicit Instruction in SEL Skills + Habits of mind and patterns of thinking that include curiosity, explaining their reasoning, feedback process, asking questions, and defining and solving problems, and striving to communicate clearly and proudly.

Without SEL, Equity is Elusive

- All students require SEL skills building, but especially those who are disadvantaged by reason of poverty, trauma, status, and/or personal characteristics.
- SEL skills are cross cultural; ENSEC
- Every student must have a positive purpose and have guidance and support toward reaching it.
- Every student should be helped to constantly improve academics and character.
We must Turn our Jumbled Schoolhouses into Places that Synergistically Promote Social-Emotional and Character Development (SECD)
“THIS IS OUR TIME,” asserts Tim Shriver, an educator, advocate and Collaborative for Academic, Social, and Emotional Learning board chairman. “When you look at what’s going to make the country stronger, restore or rebuild the fabric of citizenship and service, reduce anxiety and fear, and promote competition and creativity and the entrepreneurial spirit — it’s not politics or business or entertainment. It’s education.”

Social and emotional learning and character development have been on the education priority list for decades but are getting a new attention thanks to:

1. Increasing business demand for interpersonal skills. Employers want people who can communicate and interact well with others, but many US workers lack these skills, according to research from LinkedIn. “Communications is the No. 1 skills gap across those major cities in the United States,” says LinkedIn CEO Jeff Weiner in an interview with CNBC’s “SquawkBox.”

2. Mounting scientific evidence that suggests success in school and life is dependent on healthy social and emotional development, including the ability to understand and manage emotions, according a report by The Aspen Institute.

3. Growing realization that this is not a minority or low socioeconomic status issue. “Today, the most elite independent private schools are looking for social and emotional learning programs in the same way most challenged urban high schools are,” Shriver says. SEL is not relegated to class or status; it impacts students from all walks of life.

SEL, SECD and the flowering of babble

“Grease is the word” - SEL is the Term
Benefits of SECD

Good Science Links SECD to the Following Student Gains:

- Social-emotional skills
- Improved attitudes about self, others, and school
- Positive classroom behavior
- 10-11 percentile-point gains on standardized achievement tests

And Reduced Risks for Failure:

- Conduct problems
- Aggressive behavior
- Emotional distress

Reflection Question

What challenges have you experienced in incorporating SEL/Character in your work and/or everyday school routines?

What can you do to make a positive difference?
A Look Ahead

• Take a leadership role in improving the school culture and climate
• Integrate SEL into your clinical work
• Join your school’s SEL Leadership Team— or form one
• Promote parents’ Emotionally Intelligent Parenting
SEL4NJ Guidelines for the Culture of a Learning Organization

- INSPIRING…………………of one another
- CHALLENGING…………take risks to improve
- SUPPORTIVE…………….collective efficacy
- SAFE AND HEALTHY……others’ keepers
- ENGAGED………………collaborative norms
- RESPECTFUL…………no-fear communication
- COMMUNITIES OF LEARNERS…set and pursue goals for learning together
  - It all begins with the first day of school and persists every day thereafter!
It Starts with Positive Purpose

Stanford University psychologist William Damon (2003, p. 9) defines noble purpose as a:

“stable and generalized intention to accomplish something that is at once meaningful to the self and of positive consequence to the world beyond the self”

Reflection:

How would your students and staff answer the question, “What is your purpose in being in school?”
The Nature of Purpose

When goals go, meaning goes. When meaning goes, purpose goes. When purpose goes, life goes dead in our hands.

Carl Jung

We don’t live for happiness, we live for holiness… All human beings seek to lead lives not just of pleasure, but of purpose, righteousness, and virtue.

David Brooks

Many persons have a wrong idea of what constitutes true happiness. It is not attained through self-gratification but through fidelity to a worthy purpose.

Helen Keller
Trajectory of Purpose-Related Activities

• Level One: The Positive Purpose of a Well-Known Individual—via picture book, fiction, biography, social studies, current events

• Level Two: The Positive Purpose of a Personally-Known Individual—local hero, community leader, clergy, first responder, family members, educators

• Level Three: My Positive Purpose
  • Principal Kafele  https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=U98d6CQbz4s
Formalizing goal-setting in school toward Positive Purpose

• Set the expectation- do on a half-year or marking period basis-- 3 goals to:
  • Make myself better
  • Make my classroom better
  • Make my school better
  • Make the wider community and world better
Social-emotional and character development (SECD) competencies are as basic, foundational, and essential to academic achievement as reading competence.

They are best fostered in schools of character that focus on supporting and actualizing students’ sense of positive purpose.
When students have positive purpose and a mindset of contribution....

they are willing to learn, put their learning to constructive use, and cooperate for social action and engaged citizenship in their schools and communities
Turn Your Students from Complainers to Activists, from Bystanders to Upstanders, From Defeated to Engaged

• Teach your students a strategy for addressing personal, classroom, school, community, or global problems or issues

• Align with Social Studies/Civics/History Instruction, and Clubs

• Consider running Social Action Groups instead of remediation groups
Essential Features of SECD

- They are not just programs—they must be part of a multiyear school improvement strategy
- Require a positive school climate
- Provide a common language
- Flexibility with consistency
- Specific lessons focused on SECD
- Opportunities for integration across all subjects via skills, themes, core virtues
- They are supported by an in-school Leadership Team

Mastering Our Skills And Inspiring Character

If Skills are the propellers,
Virtues are the rudder.
The Journey of Life requires both.
Connect SECD to Academics

• Effective mastery of social-emotional competencies is associated with greater well-being and better school performance; failure to achieve these competence can lead to a variety of personal, social, and academic difficulties (Guerra & Bradshaw, 2008; Masten & Coatsworth, 1998; Weissberg & Greenberg, 1998).

• There is consistent evidence that students’ character is essential for their success in school and life.

• SECD is the combined influence of SEL and CE and represents the view that skills are required to enact character motivations successfully, requiring both to be encouraged, supported, and assessed.

Focal Social-Emotional Skills
Developed in the Students Taking Action Together (STAT) Approach

1. Empathy
2. Perspective Taking
3. Communication
4. Social Problem Solving
5. Emotion Regulation
PLAN Problem Solving
Social Action Strategy

STAT uses the PLAN social action strategy applied to existing curriculum content; it is not an “add on”

1) creating a problem description (P), which defines the issue being discussed,

2) brainstorming a list of options (L) to solve the problem,

3) developing and acting on an action plan to solve the problem (A), and

4) noticing successes as part of ongoing evaluation and refinement (N).

See the PLAN Graphic Organizer in the PLAN materials, and PLAN overviews in The Front Page and Educational Viewpoints articles at www.secdlab.org/STAT
Example of STAT in Action

• Example #1: Current Problem in the School
  – Note: We recommend using this topic to introduce STAT to students

  – Topic: Cafeteria food

• Start with a Yes-No-Maybe or debate, and then have students consider the problem from different perspectives, using the PLAN framework
Language Arts Integration:
Laws of Life/ Purpose Essay Writing and Sharing

• Case examples: Plainfield, NJ, Jersey City, NJ, Greenwich, CT Public School Districts: Urban Dreams & MOSAIC

• Extending the effects into homes and communities

• Integrate into Visual and Performing Arts
Integration of SECD into Lessons

FEELINGS

Reading
Identify how passages reflect emotions

Art
Draw where people feel emotions; feelings and colors

Math
Collect and graph "feelings" data; track emotions during problem solving

Written Expression
Use feelings vocabulary in journal entries, poetry, essay writing; read wordless books

Computer Literacy
Computer generated illustrations of feelings; download songs reflecting emotions

SECD Lessons
Build skills via games, videos; practice with role plays and application to group work

Connect to goals and exemplars
We Can Do This

Thanks to SEL4US, SEL4NJ, NJASECD (administering the PP and School of Character Awards), the Rutgers SECD Lab, the current County School Support Networks, the Academy for SEL in Schools, and other resources in NJ, there are likely to be few if any challenges that others have not overcome; regardless, help is available.
Recommendations to Guide Policy

- Every teacher, student support services provider, and administrator should have demonstrated competence in implementing evidence-based SECD programming and positive climate promotion at the classroom and/or school level (as appropriate).
Academy for Social-Emotional Learning in Schools:  SELinSchools.org

• Overarching goals are to address the gap in professional development of school leaders and teachers that exists today and to create a community for on-going mentoring, resource support, and sharing of experiences from walking the talk!

• The Academy offers a virtual Professional Learning Community and two certificate programs.

• Certificate for School Leadership in Social-Emotional Learning and Character Development.

• Certificate for Instruction of Social-Emotional Learning and Character Development. (sel.rutgers.edu)

• Academy Overview Video:  http://sel.cse.edu/
What is the Online Professional Development Community?

- A unique feature of the courses and the certificate is participants’ involvement in a virtual Professional Learning Community (vPLC). Beginning with participation in one’s classes and practicum, there is an emphasis on being part of a community of learners who support and assist one-another during the courses— and beyond— in making applications of SEL/SECD and academics for prek-12.
