To build an organization that will continue thriving for years to come, companies must invest in their future leaders now.

That’s why we’ve developed the Rising Leaders Program, a 6-month leadership development process that prepares high-potential employees to become the next generation of leaders.

OUR PROVEN APPROACH

1. Evaluation & Feedback
   - A personal leadership and workstyle assessment, plus input from direct reports, colleagues, and leaders

2. Individual Coaching
   - Five personalized sessions to help shape each participant’s development journey

3. Group Learning
   - Three ½-day sessions where participants can learn and practice key leadership skills

Participants will:

» Create and work from a personal leadership action plan

» Gain deep insight into their personal strengths and challenges

» Receive personal coaching on how to motivate and inspire others

» Sharpen leadership skills that they can use every day - like problem solving, navigating ambiguity, and leading through change

» Develop a network of like-minded cohorts that they can rely on for support long after the program ends

What clients are saying:

“Everyone should go through a program like this at some point.”

“I’m confident this will impact the organization.”
