The literature in this booklet serves as a guide in assisting incoming student-athletes with their transition to the University of Iowa. It is vital that student-athletes develop a sense of belonging on campus, feel that they can be their true authentic selves, and have their voices and experiences heard. Within this guide, there is information on a variety of aspects pertaining to being a college student at the University of Iowa. UI Athletics wants student-athletes to feel welcomed and comfortable sharing their experiences with classmates and teammates so that all students can learn and grow from each other! This booklet can serve as an added resource to help student-athletes navigate campus, and its array of tools and services, in order to feel more prepared throughout daily campus life. UI Athletics wants you to be able to build your network by meeting faculty and staff members on campus, in addition to making a positive impact in the community. We hope that you will find other campus groups to join, outside of your sport, to develop additional relationships and further enrich your college experience. UI Athletics wants every Hawkeye to have a valuable and all-encompassing experience while earning a degree of their choice and making memories that will last a lifetime.

Importance of Diversity and Inclusion

“We at the University of Iowa want to give our student-athletes real world experiences. We believe that giving our student-athletes the opportunity to learn from one another is what will set them up for life once they graduate from the University. Being able to learn and adapt from surroundings in the academic world and on any playing surface will yield positive outcomes for student-athletes.”

Broderick Binns
Executive Director of Diversity, Equity and Inclusion

“Diversity, equity, and inclusion is one of the core values of this great University and is engrained in all that we do within Iowa Athletics. The goal is to ensure that when student-athletes graduate from Iowa they are more informed about the world around them. Our department is committed to making the student-athlete experience a more inclusive one. It is through this commitment that we are champions on the field, in the classroom, and in life.”

Liz Tovar
Associate Athletics Director
“The importance of diversity on our campus is valued at the highest level. We all learn from those who have experiences, perspectives and beliefs different from our own. Having a diverse campus promotes personal growth and a healthy life, while having an inclusive environment says that we are progressive in our thinking because we allow our students to express themselves as they see fit.”

Bruce Herrald
President

“As part of their college experience, we want Hawkeye student-athletes to learn not just from faculty and coaches – but from each other. Having diverse teams and coaching staffs helps students prepare for life after they leave the University of Iowa. It is our goal and a priority to provide student-athletes with a learning environment that is both diverse and inclusive.”

Gary Barta
Henry B. and Patricia B. Tippie Director of Athletics Chair
