

Calvary Church in Pittsburgh Seeks Curate or Associate Rector

Calvary Episcopal Church in Pittsburgh seeks a full-time Curate or Associate to join our staff this summer. The transitional deacon or priest will have primary responsibility for newcomers and young adult program and share in all aspects of priestly ministry. The new staff member will be invited to offer her or his own gifts for new ministry initiatives and learn with an experienced team with intentional mentoring. The most recent Associate, who served well for 5.5 years, recently departed to become a rector. The prior Associate Rector served for 30 years.

Calvary Church, with 1,500 members in a Ralph Adams Cram building that seats 1,000 people, is a welcoming and inclusive congregation that has a commitment to serve our neighbors with partnerships in the community including the Tree of Life synagogue and numerous other expressions of outreach. We share our facilities with over 30 partners in ministry.

We are located in the East End of Pittsburgh, the most diverse part of the city, near Carnegie Mellon University and the University of Pittsburgh. Offices for the tech sector like Google and Duolingo, numerous restaurants and shopping, and some of the city's most and least wealthy areas are within walking distance.

To learn more about the opportunity and apply, please send a cover letter, CV, OTM profile and a link to sermons to the Rector at jjensen@calvarypgh.org. Applications will be received until the position is filled.
