The AEL is a great opportunity for equestrians to explore their interest and love of horses while learning about teamwork, meeting others with similar interests, increasing their equestrian skills — and HAVING FUN!

What is AEL?
The Athletic Equestrian League (AEL) is a organization of equestrian athletes who compete in practical horsemanship. The individual competition is offered in both English and Western disciplines and has a Minis development division for 1st-3rd grades and competition for 4th-12th graders and adults. We are focused on developing well-rounded young equestrians and our competitions are about learning and having fun! Participants receive a flat score worth 40 points, a fences or pattern score worth 40 points, and a practicum score worth 20 points, and all three scores are added together for their score for the day.

Members don't need to have their own horse in order to compete: the host of each event in the competition schedule will provide the mounts. This gives the members the opportunity to ride a variety of horses and makes it unnecessary to transport horses to the competition.

Join or Start a Local Team
There are a number of local AEL teams already established. Trainers of any discipline are welcome to start a team in their area and we have a number of resources to help you.
