Letter from President and Founder, Diane Foley

Dear Friends of the Foley Foundation,

Our son, James Wright Foley, was an independent conflict reporter who was taken hostage in 2012 and publicly murdered in 2014 for being an American. Seven years have passed.

Thanks to your generous donation of time, talent and funding, the James W. Foley Legacy Foundation is now firmly established in Washington DC and known for its American hostage advocacy and promotion of journalist safety. We engage daily with our US government hostage enterprise, third party experts and non-profits on behalf of Americans held hostage or wrongfully detained. We annually conduct confidential qualitative research with hostage families and returned hostages to assess progress and gaps in bringing our US nationals home. We offer free preventive journalist safety modules and curricula to aspiring journalism students. All thanks to your generosity!

James W. Foley aspired to be a man of moral courage; so, the Foley Foundation seeks “to inspire moral courage one person at a time”. We hope to inspire YOU, your community, and our entire country to be people of moral courage, who take action for moral reasons despite adverse consequences. Our freedom gives us that choice daily.

Thank you for choosing to make a difference for those held hostage and for journalist safety.

My heartfelt gratitude to each of you,

Diane
Letter from Executive Director Margaux Ewen

As I write this letter, I’m preparing to leave the James W. Foley Legacy Foundation to pursue new opportunities. I am grateful for the work we have been able to accomplish over the past 3 years. I have learned so much from our board, our staff, our supporters, and, of course, the hostage families, former hostages, and reporters we have helped through our critical mission. These achievements would not have been possible without the help from our community.

What we have built together puts us in a strong position to continue advocating for the freedom of all Americans held hostage abroad and promoting the safety of journalists worldwide. Here are some highlights from 2021:

- Launching the Congressional Task Force for Americans Held Hostage and Wrongfully Detained Abroad in June 2021. This solidified several years of working with our partner, the Syrian Emergency Task Force, to push for its creation. Along with the adoption of the 2020 Robert Levinson Hostage Recovery and Hostage-Taking Accountability Act, this has made a profound impact in enshrining US hostage policy into law and ensures the personnel and systems that exist to support families with loved ones held abroad will remain in place.

- Publishing our 3rd annual research study, Bringing Americans Home 2021. Authored by Cynthia Loertscher, JWFLF’s Director of Research, this study allows for further improvements to US hostage policy by elevating the experiences of Americans held hostage and wrongfully detained abroad and their families. JWFLF currently advocates for approximately 50 former hostages and wrongful detainees, families with a loved one currently held abroad, and families who have lost a loved one in captivity. Loertscher’s data on the current number of publicly known hostages and wrongful detainees provides an effective advocacy tool and a critical data point for journalists covering this important issue.

- Devoting additional resources to the development of James W. Foley preventive journalism safety curricula. Tom Durkin, JWFLF Education Program Director, along with Hope Moses, our inaugural Marquette University Foley Fellow, engage with journalism and communication departments in colleges and universities across the country. Currently, roughly 40 colleges and universities have begun using or have expressed interest in our safety curricula. As part of our annual curriculum update, which occurs on World Press Freedom Day, Durkin worked with Caitlan Coleman, a former hostage, in developing a new module on surviving kidnapping or wrongful detention. In addition, a new module covering the specific risks photojournalists face was added. Lastly, we finalized an Arabic translation of the safety modules with our partner in Lebanon, the Samir Kassir Foundation’s SKeyes Center for Media and Cultural Freedom.

- Increasing access to safety training for freelance journalists. JWFLF partnered with Head Set, an immersive learning system, to provide collaborative safety sessions for 30 journalists over the next year. During the first training session, five journalists from Milwaukee and Chicago participated in the Civil Unrest & Stress Management training session. As journalists around the world continue their dangerous and important work, JWFLF partners with A Culture of Safety Alliance (ACOS) and its member organizations to offer systemic improvements to freelance journalists’ safety in the field.

Despite these advances, we have work to do to ensure our government prioritizes the return of our fellow Americans who are held hostage and wrongfully detained abroad. Practicing journalism grows more dangerous, particularly with the rise in authoritarian crackdowns that impact journalists’ safety. There is much to do in 2022, but with your support, we can continue to make a difference, together.

Sincerely,

Margaux Ewen
HOSTAGE ADVOCACY

Research & publications:

- The release of our 3rd annual research study, Bringing Americans Home 2021, authored by Cynthia Loertscher, JWFLF Director of Research, helped elevate the experiences of Americans held hostage and wrongfully detained abroad and their families to improve US hostage policy. We had 42 participants and made a total of 13 recommendations.

- As of this report’s publication, Loertscher’s data showed a total of 67 Americans held in 20 countries. This data offers an effective advocacy tool and helps raise awareness about the reality of hostage taking and wrongful detention. With this publicly accessible information, JWFLF hopes more Americans recognize the risks of international travel and push their government to act to free their fellow Americans from captivity around the world.

JWFLF directly advocated for 50 families + former hostages/wrongful detainees
Hostage Policy Advocacy:

Led by Representatives Ted Deutch and French Hill, the first ever Congressional Task Force for Americans Held Hostage and Wrongfully Detained Abroad was created in June 2021. This solidified several years of work with our partner, the Syrian Emergency Task Force, to create this critical entity to better assist families with a loved one held abroad, former hostages and detainees reintegrating after captivity, and families seeking accountability for hostage-taking and wrongful detention. This study serves as an important information point for members of Congress with constituents in captivity, and for those who wish to work to free our fellow Americans held abroad.

JWFLF currently advocates for approximately 50 former hostages and wrongful detainees, families with a loved one currently held abroad, and families who have lost a loved one in captivity. We provide emotional support, strategize advocacy opportunities, connect with third-party experts, elevate cases with our government contacts, amplify public cases in the media, and raise recurring hostage and wrongful detainee issues that must be addressed through US policy change.

JOURNALISM SAFETY

Journalist Safety Curricula:

- In 2021, with support from the James P. Ruder Foundation, we welcomed the inaugural Marquette Foley Fellow to work with JWFLF Education Program Director Tom Durkin on amplifying university outreach. Thanks to that work, there are nearly 40 universities across the country using or expressing interest in our curricula.

- We partnered with Caitlan Coleman, a former hostage, in developing a new module on surviving kidnapping or wrongful detention. A new module on specific risks for photojournalists was also added to the James W. Foley Journalism Safety Modules. We finalized an Arabic translation of the modules with our partner in Lebanon, the Samir Kassir Foundation’s SKeyes Center for Media and Cultural Freedom.
Expanding access to safety training for journalists.

- In November 2021, we partnered with Head Set, an immersive learning system for journalists, to provide safety training for 30 reporters through October 2022. With this new partnership, JWFLF will more than triple the number of freelance reporters who are able to access important safety training through our annual grants to partner organizations providing these courses. The first training session took place on November 4th where five journalists from Milwaukee and Chicago participated in a half-day Civil Unrest & Stress Management session.

JWFLF also participated in several virtual events with our partners including:

- A Culture of Safety Alliance (ACOS) annual safety coordination meeting
- “Staying Safe: Identifying, Understanding, and Preparing for Risks” at the Double Exposure Investigative Film Festival
- Celebrating The First Amendment And 30 Years Of The Freedom Forum
- An event to call for accountability for the murder of photojournalist Anton Hammerl in Libya in 2011

The James W. Foley Legacy Foundation was founded in 2014 to advocate for American hostages & their families, so that no one would again experience what the Foley family went through. In 2019, we launched the Foley Freedom Fund to further grow our advocacy for American hostages and their families, and to ensure all aspiring and freelance journalists have access to preventive safety education. In 2020, we extended our fundraising goal to $1 million in order to see our vision realized: that all American hostages will return home and journalists who bring truth to light, like Jim, will be protected. Thanks to continued support from our community, we have raised a total of $245,161.06 (2019 – 2021)

We believe

- Our government should make the return of any American kidnapped or unjustly detained abroad a national priority.
- Our U.S. hostage policy must be improved to encourage the return of its citizens.
- Our government should be compassionate and transparent with American hostage families.
- Our government should encourage and cooperate with non-governmental experts willing to assist with hostage recovery.
- More must be done to prevent hostage taking through raising awareness and preventive security training, particularly for journalists.

JIM: THE JAMES FOLEY STORY

“For some reason I have physical courage, but, really when I think about it, that’s nothing compared to moral courage. I can go and get those shots, but if I don’t have the moral courage to challenge authority, to write about things that are going to maybe have reprisals on my career, if I don’t have that moral courage, we don’t have journalism.”
