OUR PARTNERS

IT TAKES A VILLAGE TO RAISE A BUSINESS. NOBODY STARTS ALONE.

We know that communities with greater social capital see more startup success. More businesses launch. They make more money. They’re more likely to thrive! All business-owners should have that access to opportunity, regardless of the zip code or circumstances they were born into.

THE OPPORTUNITY

11 million+
underrepresented young adults in the US want to start their own business, but cite a lack of role models and know-how as top obstacles. (Young Invincibles)

10 million+
business professionals are interested in skills-based volunteering, but only half of all companies offer skills-based opportunities. (LinkedIn Research, CECP)

OUR SOLUTION

Our digital platform connects young entrepreneurs to a community of supporters with relevant business skills who can help them build and grow their business.

SUCCESS STORY

“My dream is to empower young people and victims of trafficking by showing them no matter what you have experienced, you can always overcome it. I am living proof. One of the things that [my mentors] Sylvia and Michael have really helped me with is putting a dollar value on my time. Time is money. This is one of the hardest things I’ve done. I wasn’t sure where to go and the mentorship has been super helpful. They have also become life mentors. They have provided incredible emotional support to me through some tough times.”

— BRIANNA WILLIAMS, FOUNDER, CATRINA’S POPCORN

BRIANNA’S JOURNEY WITH SKYTHELIMIT.ORG

YEAR 1: With a Skythelimit.org pre-launch advisor, she tested her business ideas and launched a popcorn company.

YEAR 2: Matched with two mentors, Michael and Sylvia, who helped her build a solid customer base.

YEAR 3: Fulfilled a $30K+ order from a large hospital network, and has hired 15 survivors and at-risk contractors to date.

For more information contact: Bo Ghirardelli, Co-founder and CEO, Skythelimit.org | 510.379.8952 | bo@skythelimit.org