The Opportunity

11 million+
underrepresented young adults in the US want to start their own business, but cite a lack of role models and know-how as top obstacles. (Young Invincibles)

10 million+
business professionals are interested in skills-based volunteering, but only half of all companies offer skills-based opportunities. (LinkedIn Research, CECP)

The Solution

Our tech nonprofit matches your professionals as volunteer advisors and mentors to our underrepresented young adult entrepreneurs across the US and globe. We offer a virtual and skills-based volunteering opportunity — individually and in teams — to make a direct impact on the lives of the next generation of business owners.

We serve a growing community of over 27,000 underrepresented young entrepreneurs (ages 18-29).

Two Ways for Your Employees to Volunteer:

Volunteer on Skysthelimit.org: Thousands of employee volunteers from across the globe have joined as volunteer business advisors or mentors on Skysthelimit.org!
- Flexible, convenient, and meaningful volunteer opportunities that can be done from home.
- Volunteers decide who and when to engage, and can start with just a few hours of their time.

TEAMS: Through our TEAMS program, Skysthelimit.org's staff works with our corporate partners to recruit Team Leads who recruit and support a team of their colleagues to volunteer through our platform.
- Volunteers experience hands-on opportunities to display and practice their leadership skills.

SUCCESS STORY:

Skysthelimit.org's advisors and mentors have helped Brianna launch Catrina's Popcorn. She employs more than 5 people and has raised $17,500.

“My dream is to empower young people and victims of trafficking by showing them no matter what you have experienced, you can always overcome it. I am living proof. One of the things that [my mentors] Sylvia and Michael have really helped me with is putting a dollar value on my time. Time is money. I wasn't sure where to go and the mentorship has been super helpful. They have also become life mentors. They have provided incredible emotional support to me through some tough times.”

— Brianna Williams, Founder, Catrina's Popcorn
