Thomas Conlan
Princeton University

Designing and Disseminating Digital Sources for Medieval Japan
26 May 10:00am JST

Thomas Conlan will provide an overview of how he helped to design and disseminate web projects, which include introductions to visual and written sources (emaki and komonjo), and animated maps. He will highlight the research and pedagogical potential of these sites and explain the value of focused but limited academic websites.