"Becoming a Counselor in Training (CIT) has made me more mature. It has me looking at my life differently. After high school, I want to go to college, major in Social Work and work closely with kids and families. Being a CIT has given me the opportunity to practice and prepare myself for that." —Assia

“I don’t usually go do other things after school. I come straight here. Actually have fun here. It’s a job but at the same time, my coworkers are my good friends so it’s not a boring job. I can actually have fun while getting paid. I get to experience being a philanthropist or community funder. They send us their projects and we decide which ones to fund or not. The projects have to be youth led and has to affect the community.”

Campaign Academy is a year-long commitment to community service through the identification and coordination of an issue campaign. Youth contribute a minimum of eight hours monthly to campaign activity and receive 12 hours of peer development and leadership training. This program is entirely peer-led, and participants select the issue they will focus on, develop campaign goals and tactics, conduct community outreach and organize service-learning opportunities. This work is augmented by a comprehensive curriculum of workshops, training and focused retreats by Chinatown CDC youth staff and Campaign Academy graduates. Previous youth-organized campaigns include advocating for healthier school lunches, improvements to the Community HUBS/Open Space Project in Chinatown, implementing Ethnic Studies in the San Francisco Unified School District, Free Muni for Youth, Seniors and people with disabilities, and most recently Pedestrian Safety.

“As a new immigrant, I feel like sometimes our voice is not being heard. In the program, I learn more about how the city works and how the government deals with the issues. In order to solve problems as youth, we should not just follow the decisions that adults make. We also should have our inputs for every decision that the city makes. I can see that I’m actually creating some changes in the city.”

CYC’s Newcomers Club (NCC) provides support to youth who are English Language Learners by equipping them with social and emotional learning skills and knowledge to successfully acculturate in the United States socially, academically and economically due to barriers and challenges associated with adjusting to life in a new country. Programs and activities are designed to supplement the SFUSD’s Newcomer Pathways program with English language tutoring, leadership development, school life skills, college and career counseling, and academic support needed to finish their high school education or GED, prepare for post-secondary education, and secure and/or retain jobs. During the school year and summer, youth led weekly life skills workshops will have different themes to support a youth’s social and emotional needs during their life transition.

“I started believing in myself, I have more confidence when I get to solve problems even with no preparation. Before, I would have to prepare everything. Then I would feel okay and confident but after I joined NCC, I realized that it’s okay and there’s nothing to be ashamed of. You just go up. NCC helped me find a better way to talk with others.”

HEAT OF THE KITCHEN

Heat of the Kitchen is a program run out of Ida B. Wells Continuation High School that focuses on culinary arts and job readiness for high school students as a SFUSD CTE school day course. Engaging 50+ students per year, industry specific skills are practiced in the work simulation culinary arts class. Curriculum focus is heavy in transferrable skill identification and skill building including attribute identification, resume development, interview practice, customer service simulations, job exploration, job search practice, and post-secondary transition planning. 12+ students will have offsite work experiences. One on one coaching is available. Class hours are approximately 66 hours per quarter including two public events (Long Table Dinners) in Fall and Spring semesters.

“I had people who supported me in cooking so I want to help students out. If you stay in the industry, this class will set you up to succeed whether it is in the kitchen, front or back. If you want it for yourself, you are going to go further than you expect. There is a lot of things down there that they offer, that has helped me in the last 5-6 years. Since I graduated, I still see it in myself as I come in and see other kids, I see the same aspirations, feelings and communications that I picked up, they are picking up. There’s definitely a lot to offer.”

“I love to know the truth. I yearn for it. I learned about oppression and the systems in place which empowered me to start doing better and I realized everything that I went through was for a reason. I share my story to empower and shift the narrative from struggle to strength. I am a community leader. I am here to change laws and policies that we are all impacted by.”

PROGRAM SPOTLIGHT
YOUTH ART EXCHANGE

Youth Art Exchange sparks a shared creative practice between professional artists and public high school students, furthering youth as leaders, thinkers, and artists in San Francisco. Pairing artists with youth fosters a multidisciplinary creative community from which public art projects and civic interruptions emerge as art-inspired action through citywide arts, field trips, events, and high-quality education programming. Disciplines span architecture, black + white film photography, dance, fashion design, filmmaking, industrial + product design, music production, printmaking, and traditional percussion.

“The program made me understand how music is made. When I listen to the music, I know what they did there. It just taught me. I fell in love with music even more knowing how to make it instead of just listening to it. I am really sad that it’s my last year. It’s just nice to have this sense of community here. I just really love this place.”

“Before I didn’t listen to adults but since the Brown Bombers program, they’ve made me more mature and disciplined. I have a good relationship with my coaches because I listen. It’s good to listen because it’s easier to do what they tell you to do instead of not listening and getting into an argument. I bring it to school, and then I listen in school.”

PROGRAM SPOTLIGHT OUR KIDS FIRST

The Our Kids First After School Tutorial Program is designed to provide after school services to children enrolled in kindergarten through fifth grade in an environment that is safe, challenging and nurturing. This environment is designed to help the children with their homework, raise their GPA, provide academic enrichment, in a safe environment within the OMI/Outer Mission community.

“I like playing kickball, working on the computers and the teachers helping us. This program is good because it helps me a lot with my education. It helps me get better at math and reading and stuff like that.”

OUR MISSION
The Department of Children, Youth and Their Families (DCYF) has administered San Francisco’s powerful investments in children, youth, transitional age youth, and their families through the Children and Youth Fund since 1991. With a deep commitment to advancing equity and healing trauma, we bring together government agencies, schools, and community-based organizations to strengthen our communities to lead full lives of opportunity and happiness. Together, we make San Francisco a great place to grow up.

Engagement with San Francisco’s Communities
We prioritize children, youth, transitional age youth and families’ voices in setting funding priorities and will build our knowledge of and presence in neighborhoods across San Francisco.

Collaborative Partnerships
We commit to working with city stakeholders to help set funding priorities, practices and policies that are based on an equity framework.

OUR VISION
DCYF envisions a strong San Francisco where all children and youth are supported by nurturing families and communities; all children and youth are physically and emotionally healthy; all children and youth are ready to learn and succeed in school; and all youth are ready for college, work and productive adulthood.
