The German-African Energy Forum is the most important platform for the European-African energy business in Germany. Since 2006 the forum has attracted more than 4,200 participants and delegates from 53 African countries. Ministers from 27 African countries and numerous Deputy Ministers attended the forum with high-ranking delegations.

Join the conference and initiate your new projects and partnerships!

»When it comes to Energy in Africa, the Energy Forum is a kind of must for the German audience – great to network, good opportunity to present your company and helpful to get access to African political and business representatives.«

Christian B. Klein, Siemens AG
Coordinator for Africa at Siemens
Government Affairs

»A great platform to network amongst policy makers, end-users, and technology providers in a constructive, learning oriented environment. It is a time-efficient and productive investment for participants from all stakeholder fields.«

Tobias Becker
ABB
Director Africa

»I view this platform as the key event which brings together various energy stakeholders from Africa and Germany to share, learn and forge business deals in this fundamental economic sector. So, I can say that our energy sector in Sudan has already started to harvest the outcome of our continuous participation.«

Hon. Mutaz Musa Salim, Prime Minister of the Republic of the Sudan (former Minister of Water Resources, Irrigation and Electricity)

»This Forum is vital for strengthening the ties between German companies in the energy sector and African public or private companies. (...) it is a very productive platform enabling direct contact for partnership. I look forward to participate in the next session.«

Hamed Semega, High Commissioner, Senegal River Basin Development Organisation (OMVS)
