The American Opera Project and Boston Arts Academy present

Working Women: Songs of Suffering & Suffrage

November 5, 2020
2:45pm EST
A series of new songs connecting the women of World War I and the women who fought for suffrage, presented and discussed by the creators.

Working Women: Songs of Suffering and Suffrage is an online concert tour that features three Songs of Suffrage presented alongside excerpts from the chamber opera Letters That You Will Not Get: Women’s Voices from the Great War, connecting the women of World War I, the women who fought for suffrage, and the women of today through the power of song, using archival footage alongside documentary-style music videos.

Guest Speakers: the creative team of Letters That You Will Not Get – composer Kirsten Volness, librettist and director Kate Holland, librettist Susan Werbe, "Beyond the Power of Any to Deny" composer Jessica Rudman, as well as soprano, Jasmine Muhammad and mezzo-soprano, Briana Hunter.

Host: Mila Henry, music director for the project and Artistic Director of AOP.

LETTERS THAT YOU WILL NOT GET:
WOMEN’S VOICES FROM THE GREAT WAR

Composed by Kirsten Volness
Libretto by Kate Holland and Susan Werbe

Combining powerful contemporary music with excerpts from women’s writings on both sides of the conflict, Letters That You Will Not Get: Women’s Voices from the Great War gives voice to American, British, European, Asian, African and Caribbean women affected by WWI through a series of vignettes that share their responses to the war. Letters tells the story of the Great War as experienced by the women who lived through it.

Beyond the Power of Any to Deny

Music by Jessica Rudman
Text adapted from Susan B. Anthony

Program Note:

In 1872—long before the passage of the Nineteenth Amendment—Susan B. Anthony and fourteen other women voted in the presidential election. Anthony, the other women who voted, and the election inspectors who permitted them to do so were arrested. Prior to her trial, Anthony toured the towns near the courthouse, giving a speech titled “Is it a Crime for a U.S. Citizen to Vote?”

Anthony’s central argument stemmed from the premise that voting is a natural right of all citizens and is “beyond the power of any state to deny.” She drew on evidence from the Constitution as well as the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments to make the case that she and her companions committed no crime in voting.

“Beyond the Power of Any to Deny” grew out of a desire to set excerpts (and eventually, a song cycle) from Anthony’s speech, and her ideas resonate strongly with the current struggles against voter disenfranchisement. An ardent abolitionist as well as a suffragist, Anthony believed that all citizens—regardless of gender, race, or other factors—have the right to vote. By emphasizing that underlying sentiment in the adapted text, my goal is to highlight the relevance of the argument for today’s society.

- Jessica Rudman, composer

Text:

Nowhere can you find a word in any of the grand documents left to us by the founders that assumes for government the power to create or confer rights. And nowhere is there the slightest permission to discriminate against the right of any class of citizens to vote.

It was we the people—not we the white male citizens, nor we the male citizens—but we the whole people who formed this Union. And we formed it not to give the blessings of liberty, but to secure them. Not for half of ourselves, and not for half of our posterity, but for the whole people, women as well as men.

No one denies that before governments were formed, each individual possessed the right to protect their own life, liberty, and property. And when one hundred people—or one million people—enter into a free government, they do not barter away their natural rights. And yet today, more than half this nation’s people are utterly powerless to blot from the statute—books an unjust law, or inscribe there a new and just one.

The moment you deprive a person of their right to a voice in the government you degrade them from the status of a citizen to that of a subject. And however destructive this government might become, a disfranchised class could neither alter nor abolish it. They are powerless subjects, serfs, or slaves. They are not citizens.

And it matters little to them whether their monarch be an individual tyrant or a fifteen-million-headed monster.

Her Sovereign Blackness a Beautiful Light

Music & lyrics by Kathryn Bostic

Program Note:

The pairing of suffrage-themed songs with excerpts from Letters That You Will Not Get began as an optional invitation for participants in AOP’s Composers & the Voice (C&V) training program to create songs related to the Women’s Suffrage Centennial; it expanded into a conversation about the necessity of including the success and struggles of the Women’s Suffrage Movement and evolved into the trio included here: two songs created during C&V, and a third by composer Kathryn Bostic, commissioned by AOP for soprano Jasmine Muhammad.

Bostic states,

“Her Sovereign Blackness a Beautiful Light’ expresses the injustice and disenfranchisement Black women faced during the Women’s Suffrage Movement. It was written to commemorate the presence, power, dignity and leadership of African American women suffragists long overlooked who helped pave the way for Equal Rights. During the formation of the Women’s Suffrage movement and throughout its history, the blatant lack of acknowledgement of the huge and important contribution by African American women is a travesty that must be rectified. It is my hope that my song be a part of much needed action to heal and truth speak awareness that brings our overall community together.”

- Mila Henry, music director and Kathryn Bostic, composer

Text:

I shine golden
From a mighty Love Supreme
And when my journey takes me to walk upon troubled land I shine golden
Hosanna Hosanna

My ancestral temple holds a Light filled path
I trail blaze
I womb speak
My Brown mother, her mother and all before her
We Rise and shatter narrow ways of darkness

Her Sovereign Blackness a Beautiful Light
Her Sovereign Blackness a Beautiful Light

Mighty seeds are scattered from her sun kissed womb anointing our calling from my mother, her mother and all before her Deep from her center birthing Queens and Kings

So hear me now to right this wrong as history falsely claims no mention of our leadership, our fight for equal rights
Our Black skinned voices silenced
and kept far out of sight
and kept far out of sight
White suffragists demanding justice in word but not in deed
Our Black skinned voices silenced
so only they succeed
So hear me now to right this wrong in these United States
Black woman majesty a greater partner commanded equal rights
I stand above deception shining truth upon this stain
My sovereign Blackness a beautiful light

I am the opening of all fragile hearts long forgetful of strength long forgetful of Birthright
Sovereign Blackness a Beautiful Light
Sovereign Blackness a Beautiful Light
Her Sovereign Blackness a Beautiful Light

Letters That You Will Not Get: Women’s Voices from the Great War

Music by Kirsten Volness
Libretto by Kate Holland and Susan Werbe

Program Note:

On a sunny day in June 1914, a Bosnian Serb nationalist assassinated the Austro-Hungarian heir Archduke Franz Ferdinand in Sarajevo. One month later The Great War began. The war was fought in Europe, Africa, the Middle East, the Pacific Islands, China, Indian Ocean, North and South Atlantic Ocean. Four years, 3 months and 2 weeks later, the Armistice was signed on November 11, 1918. Military deaths on both sides of the conflict over 9 million. Civilian deaths on both sides of the conflict over 7 million.

How to make sense of the enormity of WWI, the 20th century’s first global conflict? Not by deconstructing these figures, but rather by listening to the stories of the individuals who lived were lost or forever changed by this catastrophic historical period. Considered the most literary of all wars – The Great War was represented until quite recently through the writings of the young men who fought (and often died) in the war, and the old men who sent these young men to war.

Missing were the voices of women – from both sides of the conflict. Mothers, wives, daughters, sisters, friends, and lovers. White, Black and Brown Women. Women who worked on the home front in factories, on the land, drove buses in the cities, organized hospitals. Women who were very close to the battles – nursing sisters in casualty clearing stations, women doctors, ambulance drivers, staffers of YWCA rest huts. Women who, by virtue of the color of their skin, were not allowed to participate.

With Letters That You Will Not Get, we seek to honor all women whose experiences are an integral part of this history. Their voices are as powerful today as when they responded to the conflict that swept them into the war’s bloody and unforgiving maw.

- Susan Werbe, co-librettist and dramaturg

WAR GIRLS

There’s the girl who clips your ticket for the train,
And the girl who speeds the lift from floor to floor.
There’s the girl who does a milk-round in the rain,
And the girl who calls for orders at your door.
Strong, sensible, and fit,
They’re out to show their grit.
And tackle jobs with energy and knack.
No longer caged and penned up,
They’re going to keep their end up,
Till the khaki soldier boys come marching back.

—Jessie Pope (British)

THE GIFT OF INDIA

Lo! I have flung to the East and West
Priceless treasures torn from my breast.
And yielded the sons of my stricken womb
To the drum-beats of duty, the sabres of doom.
Scattered like shells on Egyptian sands.
They lie with pale brows and brave, broken hands.
They are strewn like blossoms mown down by chance
On the blood-brown meadows of Flanders and France.
When your love shall offer memorial thanks
To the comrades who fought in your dauntless ranks.
And you honour the deeds of the deathless ones.
Remember the blood of my martyred sons!

—Sarojini Naidu (Indian)

THE DANCERS

The floors are slippery with blood:
The world gyrates too. God is good
That while His wind blows out the light
For those who hourly die for us—
We still can dance, each night.

The music has grown numb with death—
But we will suck their dying breath,
The whispered name they breathed to chance,
To swell our music, make it loud
That we may dance.—may dance.

We are the dull blind carrion-fly
That dance and batter. Though God die
Mad from the horror of the light—
The light is mad, too, flecked with blood.—
We dance, we dance, each night.

—Edith Sitwell (British)

Letters That You Will Not Get: Women's Voices from the Great War

Music by Kirsten Volness
Libretto by Kate Holland and Susan Werbe

WOMEN OF EUROPE

Women of Europe, when will your call ring out?
Summer’s glory was shattered by lightning—
The lightning of the most frightful of all wars.
Millions of women’s hearts blaze up in anguish.
Women of Europe, where is your voice?
Are you only great in patience and suffering?
Women of Europe, where is your voice that should be sowing seeds of peace?

I SIT AND SEW

I sit and sew — a useless task it seems.
My hands grown tired, my head weighed down with dreams —
The little useless seam, the idle patch;
Why dream I here beneath my homely thatch,
When there they lie in sodden mud and rain
Pitifully calling me, the quick ones and the slain?
You need me, Christ! It is no roseate dream
That beckons me—this pretty futile seam.
It stifles me—God, must I sit and sew?

—Alice Dunbar-Nelson (American)

SOCKS

Shining pins that dart and click
In the fireside’s sheltered peace
Check the thoughts that cluster thick—
20 plain and then decrease.

He was brave—well, so was I—

Keen and merry, but his lip
Quivered when he said good-bye—
Purl the seam-stitch, purl and slip.

Never used to living rough,
Lots of things he’d got to learn;
Wonder if he’s warm enough—
Knit 2, catch 2, knit 1, turn.

Wonder if he’s fighting now,
What he’s done an’ where he’s been;
He’ll come out on top somehow—
Slip 1, knit 2, purl 14.

Founded in 1988, The American Opera Project (AOP) has been at the forefront of contemporary opera for over 30 years. In 2019, American Opera Projects became The American Opera Project. But we are still AOP. We are going beyond being a collection of projects and becoming a mission, a vision, an unending experiment — an experiment in storytelling with the central premise that each life is an operatic story waiting to be told — and each telling of that story is an operatic experience waiting to happen.

"Beyond the Power of Any to Deny" and "The Revolution Begins in the Bedroom" were created through The American Opera Project's Composers & the Voice program, a two-year, tuition-free fellowship for composers and librettists that provides experience writing for the voice and opera stage.
