

PROTECT YOURSELF FROM LEPTOSPIROSIS

Dogs with leptospirosis are a potential source of infection for your staff, your clients, and your community. Follow these expert tips from infectious disease guru, Dr. Jenifer Chatfield, to help keep them safe.

Do not allow infected dogs to urinate in areas used by other dogs

Treat all urine spills as hazardous waste

Mark cages of infected dogs with warnings to alert team members

Disinfect cages and runs routinely

Wear protective clothing and gloves when handling infected dogs

Best prevention for dogs

Recommend 4-way leptovaccines for all of your canine patients.
