This July the eclectic Artists of The Ink People Center for the Arts are going with the flow in their first-ever water-themed show: H2O Chasing Waterfalls. When stars are born, a strong outward wind of gas and dust impacts the surrounding cosmic cloud, the shock waves that are created compress and heat the gas. A chemical substance is formed with the formula H2O. Its components, hydrogen and oxygen, are among the most abundant elements in the universe. In its liquid state, it covers 71% of the Earth’s surface. We are held together by its unique electromagnetic properties. Without this building block, life would not exist. Like limpid pools, artists reflect the world they perceive, and reveal their own true depths. This July at the Adorni Center, The Ink People explore that most powerful and essential element: Water . . . Drink it in!

We welcomed a new DreamMaker project this last month: OS Assemblies. They describe themselves thusly: “…devoted exclusively to publishing artist’s book editions from its workshop-studio in Old Town Eureka. Our artist-run, collaborative design and production is driven by a commitment to an ongoing exploration of the link between technique, form and content. We seek to re-negotiate and re-conceptualize the artist bookmaking process as a dynamic integrated art and literary medium. Our books are designed to be material and cultural reference points and also works of art. Rather than being defined by the limits of any one material practice or discipline, the aim is to integrate a range of different formal means of production.” For more information, please contact Robin Pagliuco at rpagliuco@gmail.com.

We are also very happy to report that the Humboldt Area Foundation (HAF) has awarded the MARZ Project a $10,000 grant. After meeting the kids and the teaching team, experiencing their involvement, commitment, and sense of community, they became fans. You can see some of the projects the kids have created by searching for MARZ on YouTube. Thank you, HAF!

Tanya and volunteers have been working hard to produce an amazing event on August 1: The Golden Road Art & Music Fair. Please come and experience this brilliant event. See more details letter in the Newsletter. We will also have a booth or two at the Arcata 4th of July celebration, courtesy of the Arcata Chamber of Commerce. Stop by and say hello.

Summertime in MARZ

June saw some fun times for the MARZ Project. We held a celebration for our students who have graduated, who have completed their StepUp commitment, and an overall welcome for the summer. Complete with a Soul Train Flash Mob at the Old Town Gazebo and the release of “Support Somali Pirates” first CD, this event was about good food, good people, and celebrating accomplishments. Many projects were completed this past month. Check out the string of public service announcements created by our media team in collaboration with TAPESTRY and Spare Change: www.youtube.com/MARZ project.

The days are longer, and MARZ hours are shifting to meet the summer schedule. Send us your youth, Tuesday through Friday, 12-5 p.m., for all the digital media exploration, creative writing, music and video production mentoring. We even have free lunch from 12-1, courtesy of Food for People’s Summer Lunch Program.

Special thanks go out to the James Irvine Foundation, Humboldt Area Foundation, Humboldt Sponsors, Redwood Community Action Agency and Americorps for their support of our summer programming.

Is the Spirit of a Mask Calling You...?

Kathryne DeLorme, Curator of Maskibration, our annual October mask show, is offering classes again this summer. Mask making is a way to explore your inner world, giving a face and a voice to a part of the psyche that is seeking to be seen and known. Create a cast of your own face and bring it to life with a wild array of decorative materials. In addition to mask casting and guidance in the embellishing process, this class will include light-hearted “Mask and Mirror” play, music and guided imagery, a mask art history slide presentation, and a display of masks from many cultures. Learn about this ancient and mysterious art form as you create your personal life mask. Masks have been used world wide since prehistoric times for spiritual rituals, in theater, and in masked revelry. Masks both conceal and reveal, mystify and exaggerate archetypal characters—as they initiate, teach, and entertain. Mask making can be a sacred personal journey. It can also be simply pure creative delight. Many are profoundly surprised at the mask that emerges from this experience! This class is fun to take with a friend or family member. Journey within...and hear the Call of the Mask from your own inner being.

Kathryne has been creating masks and guiding mask makers for 12 years. Her award-winning masks have been exhibited in the Bay Area and Humboldt County since 1996.

Class fee: $95 per person includes 4 class meetings and all materials...plus lots of fun!

Evening Classes: Tuesdays 6-9 p.m...July 6,13, 20 and 27.

Daytime Classes: Thursdays 1-4 p.m...July 8, 15, 22, and 29.

Golden Road Art and Music Fair
Calls For Volunteers, Vendors and Sponsors

The Ink People, arts and culture incubator in our community since 1979, has put out a call for volunteers, vendors, and sponsors for The Golden Road Art & Music Fair on Sunday, August 1, in and around The Old Creamery Building, 9th & L Streets in Arcata. “Community support is now more important than ever for The Ink People. We are still displaced from our facility as a result of January’s earthquake,” explained TIP co-founder and Executive Director Libby Maynard. “This fundraiser has two goals: to celebrate the creativity of Humboldt artists and entertainers, and most importantly, to keep The Ink People’s doors open.”

Beginning outdoors at noon, the Fair will feature three performance stages filled with live music, performance arts and other exciting attractions. Some of the bands and entertainers that have come forth to volunteer their talents thus far include: Vintage Soul, The Stormtrooper Orchestra, Joanne Rand, The Beat Vixens, Kiki Urymowicz, Josephine Johnson, Sarah Torres, Bandemonium, Jan Bramlett, The Bear Necessities, New World Ballet, YaHabibi Dancers, A Samba Workshop, Arial Artist Jocelyn Rudig, Ali Nelson, Spoken Word Performers, MARZ Project performers & artists, and more... the list grows and changes every day.

Kids can be creative, learn new skills, and stay entertained for free in a large child-friendly zone.

In the evening, Redwood Raks will host an intimate concert with The Singing Nettles, The Fickle Hill Billies and The Miracle Show, plus The Inky Fingers Beer Bar and a Jerry Garcia and Janis Joplin Look-a-Like contest.

“The Ink People thrived for so long because Humboldt’s generosity, love for creative expression, and volunteer energy make us sustainable,” said TIP Programs Manager Tanya Nordberg. “I’m currently signing people up for the stage crews, greeters, ticket takers, emcees, and more. Call me at 442-8413 and I’ll find a role for you.”

Material donations are also welcome. For a list of needs, visit the website or our networking sites on facebook and myspace. We are still looking for vendors and sponsorship for this great summer celebration. Tanya is also the contact point for local businesses, craft-makers and non-profits that want to sponsor the Fair or to occupy one of the many booths. For more information visit www.InkPeople.org.

The Storytellers

Charlie Chin has presented across the United States and Canada. He is a writer, musician, historian and a master storyteller who draws from Classical Confucian, Buddhist and Taoist literature as well as the folktales and legends of China. Using the Scholar’s robe, the folding fan, and a simple handkerchief, he performs in the “Tea House” style. In this tradition, a presenter begins with one story, which leads to another, which soon contains another, which leads to another, until he ends with the culmination of the opening story.

Arpathian is a professional storyteller who has appeared at film festivals, Renaissance Faires, haunted attractions and conventions in the US. He has been nominated for several awards including Outstanding Media Presentation for his CD “3 Tales of Arpathian.” His stories run the gamut from classic campfire tales to macabre fables.

Jarl De Lorme Larsen is Paiute/Pit River/Chippewa and a tribal member of the Susanville Indian Rancheria. She has been taught the ways of her ancestors. She enjoys making handcraft items and regalia, singing, drumming and telling stories to all ages, especially to her grandchildren.

J. Freedlund has lived on the North Coast for over 30 years. Many of her stories are a celebration of this beautiful area and the many creatures that live here. Through these stories, Ali hopes to empower all ages to love and respect this place and each other.

Ron Garrett is a singer songwriter. He began singing folk songs and hymns. Singing became a joyous ritual. Songwriting followed, then his CD “Headwaters.” He has enjoyed performing in concert with storytellers like Baba Jamal. He is currently completing his 4th volume of songs and working on new CDs.

Sibury Gould is a storyteller, an eclectic music teacher, singer, multi-instrumentalist and recording artist. He plays guitar, tuba, flute, bouzouki, piano and other instruments, and has been a music teacher in schools for 27 years. He is known for his alongs and storytelling and has performed at the National Storytelling Festival in Tennessee.

Elizabeth Lara-O’Rourke is from the Hupa, Yurok and Chilula Tribes of Northwestern California and has lived in Humboldt County all of her life. Her stories come from life lessons as well as from her family and reflect the values of an ancient world, while also incorporating ideals of the modern world.

Jessie Mackinney has been telling stories and juggling for over 30 years. He has toured with the Missoula Children’s Theatre, sailed a year in Wales and performed at a variety of venues throughout California. He is particularly drawn to fairytales, though he also includes children’s stories and original works in his shows.

Kacy McQuillan is a professional storyteller. She was instrumental in the creation of the South Coast Storytellers Guild in Southern California. She is delighted to be a part of the North Coast Storytellers, and has already begun a Storytelling Club for kids.

Brian O’Gara learned many tales when teaching in South America. Dan brings participation stories to his telling as well as a treasury tales from many lands and cultures including Irish stories. But near to his heart are the legends from his home on the North Coast. Dan presented programs at festivals, conferences, classrooms and campfires, and is the founder of the Storytelling Festival by the Sea.

Greg O’Rourke is from the Yurok Tribe of Northwestern California. He comes from the villages of Morek and Notchko along the Klamath River. Greg participates in his culture as a dancer and singer. His stories come from his time spent with family around a campfire or during ceremonial dance times.

Sita Punja presents at schools, libraries and local venues. She has celebrated Women’s Month through story. She combines stories with poetry. Her children’s program Drumming Up A Story blends stories with community drumming. “Storytelling is a gift to inner and teller with the joy of personal discovery.”

Karlene Storr is Tolowa/Maidu, CA. She is both a traditional and contemporary storyteller who presents at festivals, national/state parks, clubs, organizations, West Coast schools, and events like the National Indian Justice Center’s “All My Relations” conferences and law enforcement cultural sensitivity trainings.
About The Festival

WELCOME! Join us in celebration of the 11th Annual Storytelling Festival by the Sea. In honor of the 11th anniversary of the Humboldt County tradition, this year the Festival features the North Coast Storytellers and guests.

Our featured teller Charlie Chin is a master storyteller who draws from Classical Confucian, Buddhist and Taoist literature as well as the folktales and legends of China. Elizabeth Lara-O’Rourke and Greg O’Rourke highlight the California Indian Stage.

The North Coast Storytellers tell stories that celebrate family and role models, stories that are close to home in the North Coast and as far away as Ireland and Japan, stories that are traditional fairytales and legends to stories by contemporary writers. Travel the world through story. Laugh, cry, shiver and learn. Be mesmerized, be inspired and enjoy storytelling at its best.
