During the month of March, The Ink People and North Star Quest Camp for Girls collaborate in celebrating International Women’s Day. Inspiring Girls asks us how and what we do to inspire our future women. Both visual and written works will represent how North Star Quest Camp influences, motivates, empowers, and provokes not only campers, but staff, friends, family, and community.

North Star Quest Camp, or NSQ, is a summer camp facilitated by women on the beautiful Mattole River just outside of Petrolia, for girls going into the 6th, 7th, and 8th grades. A powerful coming of age experience, NSQ gives girls tools to navigate the modern world and live up to their potential. Daily workshops explore each theme with the campers, ranging from social entrepreneurship, creative repurposing, and media awareness to belly dancing, nutrition, beading, and yoga. NSQ is an Ink People DreamMaker program, and accepts all campers on a first-come-first-serve basis, regardless of ability to pay. All you need to know about North Star Quest Camp, including summer 2014 sessions, can be found at www.northstarquest.org

During Arts Alive on March 1st, Inspiring Girls will open with the sharing of music and stories as well as visual physical art. Works created in a variety of media have come together from campers and camp staff, as well as family, friends, and fellow artists to consider what we do to inspire and empower girls as they become women in the modern day. Artists such as Cheyenne Gillett, Laura Granados, Laurel McKay, Rachel Schlueter, Kati Texas, Monica Topping, and many more contemplate experience, lessons learned, aspirations, and media influences. Come visit the Brenda Tufxford Gallery in the month of March, Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and consider: What do YOU do to inspire girls?

At the February meeting, the Board approved a new DreamMaker project will be called Collective 74. These folks have been putting on community gatherings and celebrations for about ten years, but are looking for more structure and to set up a nonprofit that will continue beyond them. Some of you may be familiar with Fire Fall and Soul Spring. If you’d like to find out more or help out, please contact John Ruddick at time-4bringinglight@gmail.com.

Following up on the recommendations from our January Board and staff retreat, a committee has met several times. We have analyzed our work areas (me, Carrie and Kati) and committed to stepping up in certain areas in which we really need some focus. Libby: Broad networking, Board liaison, TIP grantwriting, DreamMaker grant consulting, and DreamMaker mentoring. Carrie: Office Manager, DreamMaker business development, and creating a TIP Business Plan. Kati: MARZ Director, market TIP merchandise, create events, and assist the Brenda Tuxford Gallery Coordinator.

Sadly, I must report that longtime Inker Marian Coleman has passed away. Many have been cheered by her bright and whimsical ceramic and found object creations. There is a memorial exhibition of her work at the Arcata Artisans, which she helped found. The show also includes work created by Arcata Artisans members in her memory. The world dimmed a bit with her passing.

Not as final, but sad nonetheless, wonderful Megan Workman DeAngelo has moved to Seattle. She and Dave found a good place to live, she got a super job, and what with all that moving, settling and refocusing, she needs to give up editing the Ink News. We are so grateful for the great job she has done. Thank you, Megan! We are officially looking for another fabulous volunteer to take over for the April edition! Megan will spell out the duties elsewhere in the newsletter. If you are interested, please contact me (libby@inkpeople.org) or Carrie (carrie@inkpeople.org) or call us at 707.442.8413.

Another big round of thanks to Angel Roberts, who has stepped up to be the Brenda Tuxford Gallery Coordinator. This is a very important function to make the gallery really great. Now, we have a Gallery Committee and a Coordinator! Yay! Things are starting to come together after the disruptions of the past few years.

Calling the new editor!
A note from MegBeam:

First off I want to thank the Ink People Center for the Arts for providing me a place to grow and sing and dream and fly and write and connect … You have fanned so many flames in my heart. I will always point back to you as the cocoon where I metamorphosed from one state of being to another.

So who wants to take over the editorship of Ink News? Primary duties include: coordination of text and images from the various Ink Peeps who have things to say (like the Executive Director, curators and other gallery workers, DreamMaker programs …), proofreading, uploading to Issuu, spreading the word. Training will be provided and support will be ongoing. I have also been envisioning the evolution of the Ink News so you could take that on too if you want (hehehe).

If you're interested, contact the office or me (FactualFictionPress@gmail.com or 864/353.4029) for more details.

I'll be submitting some news too from time to time. Oh, you haven't seen the last of me yet.

Handweavers and Spinners’ Meet-up in March

Weaver and fiber artist Marta Shannon will present a program titled “One Thread at a Time… Tactile Sensations” at the Humboldt Handweavers and Spinners Guild March meeting, March 13, 6:45 p.m. at the Wharfinger Building in Eureka. This program is free and open to the public and follows a brief general meeting.

Marta will share with you the twists and turns of her weaving path. Marta started weaving in the late 70’s, beginning with basic loom shaped clothing. Over the years her work morphed into more elegant, one-of-a-kind pieces, using brocade and inlay. Finally, she discovered collapse weaving using differential shrinkage, which features prominently in her recent work.

Marta Shannon lives in Petaluma and is a member of the Redwood Guild of Fiber Arts. Her textile curiosity and interest in weaving was piqued while pursuing a degree in Latin American Studies. She has been weaving professionally and teaching weaving since 1981. Marta offers classes at her studio on the west side of Petaluma and at the Sebastopol Center for the Arts. Her handwoven scarves, shawls, ponchos, throws and other items are sold through her studio, in various retail venues, at the Sonoma County ARTrails, in retail venues, and by commission. Marta’s work can be seen on her Facebook page at MartaShannon/TactileSensations.
