WHO WE ARE
WE FIGHT EDUCATIONAL INEQUITY THROUGH THE POWER OF SUPPORTIVE RELATIONSHIPS.

At Saga Education, we believe the potential to achieve is universal. Some students just need extra support. So we partner with public schools, providing trained Tutoring Fellows to students who have fallen behind.

THE CHALLENGE
29.8 MILLION AMERICAN KIDS ARE BELOW THE POVERTY LEVEL.

Improving the academic outcomes of low-income students is one of our nation’s most urgent challenges. By high school, many can be three or more years behind grade level, especially in math, which research shows is a dangerous pitfall on the pathway to graduation. 80% of students who drop out of high school cite course failures as their number one reason -- and Algebra 1 is the course most frequently failed.

OUR APPROACH
THE RELATIONSHIPS STUDENTS CAN COUNT ON ARE THE ONES THAT LIFT THEM UP.

Working from the same safe and encouraging classroom space everyday, Saga Tutoring Fellows provide consistent, personalized, in-school-day academic tutoring -- delivered with equal parts accountability and heart. Whether they are supporting students to work through a tough math problem or a tough day, our Fellows supplement busy teachers by focusing on those students who need additional support the most.

OUR RESULTS
WE KNOW EVERY STUDENT IS CAPABLE OF EARNING SUCCESS. WE’VE PROVEN IT.

Rigorous research has proven that, for underserved students from Chicago to New York, Saga Education Fellows help raise students’ academic performance in math, and beyond. All while raising the social and emotional well-being students need to learn and thrive over a lifetime.
The program really is remarkable, transformative... and not just for me and my students, but also for my teachers.”

Ramona Fannings Outlaw
Principal, Harlan High School

“I knew Saga had my back.”

Donald, student

The results that Saga is generating are remarkable and among the finest interventions ever rigorously studied at the high school level.”

The University of Chicago Urban Education Lab

If we can [expand Saga’s approach] for the school and for the city and around the country, we are going to have a lot more kids be successful.”

Arne Duncan
former U.S. Secretary of Education

Educational inequity doesn’t need to be a fact. See a new story. For our future, and for yours.

School districts and education reform leaders believe Saga has the power to once and for all change the persistent story of inequity. To reach more students, we need you. Learn more about how you can support Saga. SagaEducation.org