The Town of Stephenville proposes to amend its Municipal Plan and Development Regulations to give Council discretionary authority to allow the keeping of hens and quails on residential properties. Council has prepared a document entitled “Urban Hen and Quail Regulations”, which outlines required standards and controls for this activity. The amendment will enable Council to undertake a two-year pilot project to determine if this use would be compatible in residential neighbourhoods. If compatibility is not demonstrated, Council will initiate another amendment process to remove hen and quail keeping as a discretionary use.

The amendment will add “keeping of hens and quails” as a discretionary use in the following zones:

- Residential Low Density
- Residential Medium Density
- Residential Medium Density 2
- Residential Special
- Country Living Residential

The draft amendments and proposed Urban Hen and Quail Regulations can be viewed on the Town’s website - “townofstephenville.com”. Comments or objections may be submitted in writing to the Town on or before 4:00PM, 28 July, 2020.
