Our mission is to honor Mississippi veterans and their dependents through superior service, care, and assistance.
“Thank you for your service!” We’ve all heard, or said, those words. It’s a genuine expression for grateful family, friends and strangers, or fellow Americans who simply salute our veterans for their sacrifice and service. But like many of my fellow veterans, our simple reply of “it is my honor” has never been truer.

As I share a meal with the residents of one of Mississippi’s four veteran’s homes, I see those men and women who proudly remember and tell of their time wearing our nation’s uniform. Whether it’s the few veterans from WW2 and Korea or our largest group of residents that served in Vietnam, our veterans are proud of their service and each one whispers, “I’d do it again if I could.”

As part of the generations of warriors that stand on their legacy, WE SALUTE YOU!

As we come out of the COVID 19 pandemic, we have begun to return to a “normal” of gathering together to honor and remember those who have served. This year, our events honoring Mississippi’s veterans continue to grow in attendance and participation. It is through these events that we are able to inform and educate veterans and their families of the benefits and rights they have earned.

How can you help MSVA accomplish this mission? Invite us to join you at your veteran events and group meetings. Many members of our team have spoken to civic clubs, church groups, and veteran organizations. Each time we can share our mission and resources, it increases the access veterans and their families have to their benefits. It’s simple. Just visit MSVA.MS.GOV and “click” on the speaker request tab. Our team would be honored to partner with you and your organization to reach more veterans across Mississippi.

Mississippi continues to be recognized for our support of veterans and their families. This year, the University of Mississippi, Mississippi State University, and University of Southern Mississippi all were recognized as some of the top universities in the nation for veterans and their families. As a matter of fact, USM was ranked as the third best school in the nation for veterans and opened their new $4.2 million dollar Center for Military Veterans, Service Members and Families on campus.

For the second year in a row, all four of MSVA’s veteran’s homes received Pinnacle Quality Insight’s 2021 Customer Experience Award. By achieving this recognition, MSVA has satisfied the rigorous demand of scoring in the top 15% of 250,000 long-term care facilities across the nation.

It’s an honor to care for Mississippi’s 186,000 veterans and their families. Thank you for allowing MSVA to be a part of your families and communities. And for all of you that have served our nations, “THANK YOU FOR YOUR SERVICE!”

Operation Family Reunion
In March of 2020, MSVA made the difficult, but all too necessary decision to shut down visitation at all four of the Mississippi State Veterans Homes in Collins, Jackson, Kosciusko, Oxford. For the next year, uncertainty swirled around residents and their families as they wondered when they would be able to see each other in person again. While window visits and video calls were the safest alternative to in-person visits, it would soon become increasingly difficult and emotionally taxing each time a resident and family member were truly not able to be together. There is no doubting the emotional difficulties our residents and their family members endured as the COVID-19 pandemic seemed to charge on, unrelenting.

MSVA’s Director of Nursing Pam Thrash and her team worked tirelessly to implement in-person visitation that followed CDC and Mississippi Health Department guidelines. By January of 2021, all four veterans homes had dealt with numerous challenges with COVID-19 outbreaks. The experience with the containment and prevention of the virus and the eventual distribution of the COVID-19 vaccine allowed our veterans homes to begin planning for the first in-person visits in over a year.

We wanted to ensure that this reopening event would be safe for residents, staff, and visitors while also allowing residents and their families to not feel restricted by protocols. Operation Family Reunion was held in each home over the span of three days so that we could have visitation one wing at a time. All visitors were given a COVID-19 rapid test prior to entering the facility. These measures were critical to maintain social distancing and create a respectful, calm, and safe environment for our residents and family members.

MSVA’s Executive Director Stacey Pickering said, “Keeping our residents safe has been our number one priority during the pandemic. But, I can truly say that bringing families back together was right there at the top of the list, as well. Our team members go home every day and see their loved ones, face to face, in the same space. Our residents and their families have not had that opportunity for over a year, and we have done everything in our power to make this moment as safe as possible.”

We want to thank every single staff member that made this event possible, but we especially want to thank each and every resident and family member for their patience and understanding throughout the pandemic.

As our communities, cities, states and nation continue to learn about the needs of our veterans when their service is over, we at Mississippi Veterans Affairs (MSVA) are preparing to best meet those needs. Whether it be long-term nursing care, planning for end-of-life decisions, or our agency simply preserving the history of our heroes, MSVA is ensuring we are ready for what is next. As we enter an unprecedented time in construction and expansion, here are some of our more significant growth projects taking place throughout our great state.

Future Mississippi Veterans Home at Tradition

Close to 35% of Mississippi’s 186,000 veterans live in our three coastal counties (Hancock, Harrison, and Jackson). Such a large percentage justified a state-owned and operated facility to serve that community. Late next year, we will open our fifth state veterans home. The newest addition will be located in the Tradition community of the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

Coordination and partnership from the federal, state, local and private sectors was the key to setting this project in motion. When the project was a mere concept, we began looking for land owned by the state. Businessman and Biloxi native Joe Canizaro was critical in MSVA acquiring the 25 acres for the project in the Tradition community. Senators Cindy Hyde-Smith and Roger Wicker, and Representative Steven Palazzo (MS-4) supported us at the federal level. Through their championing our agency,
Mississippi VA was awarded $29.3 million through the State Veterans Home Construction Program offered by the United States Department of Veterans Affairs. Our state leaders proved their support of Mississippi’s heroes as well. The legislature appropriated the matching funds for the future veterans home project, totaling $15.8 million. And through the Mississippi Development Authority, Governor Tate Reeves authorized the construction of the roadway to the new veterans home and installation of utilities, costing approximately $9.4 million.

The future veterans home will genuinely be state-of-the-art. To provide better quality, in terms of living spaces, the Tradition Home will feature 100 single-occupancy rooms (our four current homes are mainly double-occupancy rooms). And once completed, the Mississippi Veterans Home at Tradition will pump an estimated $14 million annually into the Mississippi Gulf Coast economy. MSVA is proud to partner with state architects, engineers, and construction companies to build this facility. The anticipated completion date for our Mississippi Veterans Home at Tradition is slated for fall 2023.
Renovation of Existing Mississippi Veterans Homes

While we are very excited about the future of our fifth Mississippi veterans home, we have also made it a priority to enhance our current homes located in Collins, Jackson, Kosciusko and Oxford. This year, we have begun renovating our Mississippi Veterans Home at Collins and will continue to upgrade each of our other locations. Each veterans home will undergo close to $3 million in renovations, thanks to unanimous approval from our Veterans Affairs board. Upgrades will include:

• New sports bar area for residents
• Physical therapy/area
• Renovated dining hall
• Upgraded chapel
• Expanded library area
• Modernized main lobby/entrance area/main hallway

When they aren’t in their rooms, these shared spaces are where our residents spend their time. We continue to provide the best possible living experience possible for our residents with these upgrades.

At MSVA, we pride ourselves on providing our aging hero with a high quality of life long-term nursing care experience. In fact, this year, all four veterans homes were once again awarded Pinnacle Quality Insight’s “Customer Service Award.” They even ranked in the top 15% of over 250,000 long-term care facilities – not just veterans homes. The accolade represents the third year in a row that our homes have been recognized for the award.

The daily pricing rate of our homes compared to privately-owned facilities is unmatched. For an honorably discharged veteran, it costs them $50 a day to live in our home; and for a 70% service-connected veteran, there is no cost. We even offer the spouse of a veteran to live in our veterans home system at a daily rate of $168. Each of our four current homes can house 150 residents.

If you or your loved one is a veteran and has considered making one of our homes yours, we hope you will seek eligibility. Admission to any of our homes requires each veteran:

• To be or have been a Mississippi resident
• Have qualifying military service
• Have been discharged under other than dishonorable conditions
• Be the spouse of a veteran who resides in one of the state veterans homes
• Have a medical examination by a physician within 30 days of admission and, as a result, demonstrate that he/she:
  • Does not have a communicable disease
  • Does not require medical or hospital care for which the home is not equipped or staffed to provide
  • Does not have traits that may prove to be dangerous to themselves, other residents, and employees

Out-of-state veterans may be admitted to the homes if no Mississippi residents are waiting to accept a bed/room. For more information on our homes, including admission paperwork and contact information, visit the “Veterans Homes” section of our website, www.msva.ms.gov/homes.
Expansion at the Mississippi Veterans Memorial Cemetery at Newton

Another project currently underway is the expansion of our Mississippi Veterans Memorial Cemetery located in Newton. In October 2020, our Veterans Affairs board and executive leadership broke ground on a location at the cemetery that will feature 1,500 new crypts covering five acres. Most of the estimated $4 million project is covered by a federal grant through the United States Department of Veterans Affairs – National Cemetery Administration.

“Our memorial cemetery is one of the best in the entire country. This expansion will allow 1,500 more of our veterans to have a final resting place worthy of American heroes,” said Mississippi VA Executive Director Stacey Pickering. “We appreciate the support of the National Cemetery Administration and the rest of our federal partners at the VA.”

Each crypt holds two coffin spaces, one for the veteran and another for the veteran’s choice dependent. The expansion also will include new landscaping, irrigation, and supporting infrastructure. And the standard remains the same: Burial and crypt space come at no cost to the veteran/family and includes a headstone with the care of the site into perpetuity. Together, our Mississippi Veterans Memorial Cemeteries at Kilmichael and Newton can serve as the final resting place for 300,000 heroes.

We are anticipating a completion timeframe of spring 2022.

Renovation of the Mississippi War Memorial Building

Before the beginning of the COVID pandemic, the Mississippi Legislature appropriated $7.5 million to restore the state’s Mississippi War Memorial building. Opened in 1940 in downtown Jackson next to the Old State Capitol, The War Memorial building stands as a monument to the memory of the men and women of Mississippi who made the ultimate sacrifice in giving their lives in the name of American freedom.

Over the years, the two-story flat-roofed limestone building has experienced natural wear and tear, both on the exterior and inside the facility. The restoration project to correct and upgrade these issues will take 10 to 12 months to complete. The ultimate goal is to have all major veterans service organizations under one roof, ready to serve the state’s 186,000 veterans.

Mississippi Veterans Affairs has partnered with the Mississippi Legislature, Mississippi’s Bureau of Buildings, the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled Veterans of America, and the Mississippi National Guard Association on this project. We look forward to seeing this memorial restored to its former glory to properly honor those heroes who gave their lives in defense of our nation’s freedom.

These projects, along with many other current plans, tie directly to our mission: to serve Mississippi’s 186,000 veterans and their dependents through superior care, service, and assistance. These American heroes deserve the best, and we look forward to providing it for them.

Recreation is a huge part of our quality of life component within our Mississippi Veterans Homes System. Whether it be game or movie night, holiday festivities, or outdoor activities, we try to provide a well-rounded experience for our residents. Part of that outdoor activity includes our ponds at our Collins, Jackson and Kosciusko locations. The ponds serve as relaxing sitting areas, scenic views and on-site fishing locations for our residents. When it comes to the care and upkeep of the ponds, one of our state partners has stepped up to serve Mississippi’s veterans. Throughout the year, the Mississippi Department of Wildlife, Fisheries, and Parks (MDWFP) sent biologists to perform fish sampling at our homes to evaluate current fish populations and assist in pond management.

These subject matter experts provided us recommendations, such as fish harvest or fish stocking advice, instructions on controlling aquatic vegetation, enhancing fish habitat, fertilizing and more to help promote a quality fishery for our residents. They even went above and beyond their mission by adding new fish to our ponds to help promote population growth. “We were happy to promote fishing opportunities for our veterans, and we look forward to a continued relationship with Mississippi Veterans Affairs,” said MDWFP Fisheries Bureau Director Jerry Brown.

The fisheries bureau also assists private pond and lake owners to help achieve their goals. In addition to on-site visits, they can provide guidance and expertise over the phone, email, etc. These services are free, but a “request for service” application may need to be submitted for the on-site visit option.

MSVA Hosts Annual VSO Training Conference

In November 2021, Mississippi Veterans Affairs (MSVA) hosted its annual Veterans Service Officer (VSO) Certification Training Conference at Biloxi’s Golden Nugget Hotel and Casino.

This yearly training event updates all county, state, and tribal service officers of changes, processes, and regulations that provide and allow county veteran services certification. There was invaluable information and discussions by representatives of the Jackson VA Regional Office (Federal), Federal VA Debt Management, Federal VA Pension Management, Federal VA Caregiver Support, Federal VA Board of Veteran Appeals, Federal VA Healthcare and more.

Over 90 attendees were present, all with the goal of better serving Mississippi’s 186,000 veterans and their families as they navigate the process of veterans benefit claims and other areas. Every certified VSO in Mississippi always provides their service on benefit claims at no cost to the veteran. There is a VSO close by no matter where you live in our state. MSVA has strategically placed a VSO at every major university in Mississippi and all three VA Hospitals that serve our state.

For more information on locating the veterans service officer nearest you, visit our website, www.msva.ms.gov/serviceofficers.
KLLM Transportation Services

KLLM Transportation Services is one of the largest and most prestigious truckload, temperature-controlled carriers in North America with services also into Mexico. Headquartered in Jackson, Mississippi, KLLM offers a range of transportation solutions including over-the-road (OTR), regional, dedicated, intermodal, and logistics. KLLM delivers unrivaled service to some of North America’s largest brands each day and has done so for more than 55 years since its founding in 1962.

KLLM President and CEO Jim Richards said, “KLLM has the utmost respect for veterans and their service and sacrifice to this great country. We love hiring veterans, whether they’re experienced Class-A drivers or just learning how to be a truck driver as part of our KLLM Driving Academy. Veterans are on time, organized, and have a strong work ethic that sets them apart from their peers in many ways. The quality of candidates with veterans is usually a cut above, and we would expect nothing less from those who have served in the United States Armed Forces.”

During orientation to KLLM, veteran drivers receive a KLLM Veteran duffle bag with several gifts with the KLLM Veteran logo emblazoned on them. Also, veteran drivers have a KLLM Veteran decal/watermark on the driver’s side of their tractor letting the motoring public proudly know they’re a veteran. This distinguishes them from the rest of our KLLM tractors at a glance.

Southern Pipe & Supply

Southern Pipe & Supply has partnered with the Mississippi VA and the Mississippi Department of Corrections to sponsor the Housing Unit for Military Veterans program. Located in Pearl, Mississippi, HUMV is a job-focused reentry program at the Central Mississippi Correctional Facility providing education and skills to incarcerated veterans nearing the end of their sentence.

The program enrollees are moved to a private on-site campus away from the general prison population. Over the 18-month program, applicants are enrolled in courses that cover skills in much needed trades like HVAC repair, welding, iron work, masonry, and other necessary skills for construction and contract work.

In addition to financial support for this life-changing program, Southern Pipe & Supply has also provided HVAC equipment to be used in the courses, allowing veterans to get hands-on experience in real-world scenarios and applications. The veterans now can completely disassemble and then reassemble modern HVAC equipment during class. This allows program graduates to hit the job market with an extraordinary level of skill and product knowledge to bring to their future employers.

After completing the program, Southern Pipe will also assist graduates in returning to society by connecting them with Southern Pipe’s customers for potential job interviews.

Southern Pipe is incredibly proud of the monumental work HUMV is doing to help incarcerated veterans and looks forward to seeing the programs’ first round of graduates hit the job market soon.
Veterans Appreciation Games and University Honors

Last year marked the 20th anniversary of the September 11th terror attacks on our nation. In honor of the commemoration, several of our universities and colleges held their version of Armed Forces/Veterans Appreciation Games during football season. Mississippi State, Ole Miss, and Southern Miss lead the way in honoring American heroes from each branch of service, including retired veterans, active-duty, reservists, and guardsmen. American flag-themed helmets, logos at midfield, and firework shows added to those evening festivities on campuses across the state.

The support of our veterans goes beyond the public events at these institutions of higher learning. In the latest rankings of the nation’s best colleges and universities for service members and veterans, the University of Southern Mississippi, the University of Mississippi and Mississippi State University all ranked in the Top-30.

- The University of Southern Mississippi
  - Ranked 3rd in the nation
- The University of Mississippi
  - Ranked 23rd in the nation
- Mississippi State University
  - Ranked 26th in the nation

Add the fact that just about every college and university in the Magnolia State has a specific, on-campus location for assisting its student-veterans. It is clear that the state of Mississippi supports its heroes.

The idea of a job-focused reentry project for incarcerated Veterans that focuses on both becoming a better person and becoming better prepared for work is one that MDOC has fully embraced.

HUMV boasts of a 6% recidivism rate and a 65% workforce placement rate for those Veterans completing the program and able to work upon release.

The state’s average recidivism rate between 2017 and 2020 was 37.4%. The average annual cost of incarceration today is $18,480. Since HUMV’s inception in 2016, 258 participants have been enrolled, and 106 have completed the program and been released. Six have returned to prison. The annual cost benefit to the state based solely on the reduction of the recidivism rate is $572,880.

The economics of a fully operational, sustainable, NCCER credentialed, employer driven career education training center inside Mississippi’s most populated prison are persuasive. Of the 106 in the “free-world”, 72 were placed into the workforce at an average hourly wage of $13.81, or an annual salary of $28,725. Alan Barefield, Extension Professor, Department of Agricultural Economics at Mississippi State University, estimates the direct annual affect of that salary on the state’s economy to be $57,416 per participant. The added value to the state’s economy of 72 trained and employed former felons is estimated at $4,133,952.

There are 3,515 Veterans currently under supervision of MDOC. As of Jan. 4, 2022, there were 1,012 Veterans in custody in the 21 state facilities. MDOC and MSVA have stepped outside of traditional parameters to create an unprecedented collaborative trust among state and federal agencies, not-for-profits, education communities, volunteer networks, industry, and employers to provide a reentry program tied to development of job skills, national certification, and workforce placement for Veteran offenders prior to release.

HUMV, as a Statewide Incarcerated Veterans Program, is not limited to just serving Veterans currently in custody. There are 2,503 formerly incarcerated Veterans on parole or probation. The program is also committed to developing methods to provide assistance with workforce education, training, placement, benefits, and health care referrals to those Veterans, too, when needed.
VCET: Veterans Career Education Training

The goal of the job-focused Veteran reentry project is to reduce recidivism through development of job skills and workforce placement prior to release.

Employment difficulties among justice-involved Veterans occur within the interrelationship of unemployment, homelessness, and recidivism. Neglecting needs in any of these areas, or minimizing the difficulty of navigating these processes, can limit positive outcomes in the other areas. Ultimately, workforce placement is the key component in reducing recidivism as well as serving to enhance overall quality of life.

Inspired by the reentry program at Louisiana State Penitentiary at Angola, which provides trade craft training and national certifications to offenders, CMCF has committed 11,000 square feet of space inside an unused building to be converted into the Veterans Career Education Training Center (VCET).

VCET’s instructors are offenders who possess verifiable experience and have been certified as NCCER instructors by the Mississippi Construction Education Foundation (MCEF) based on their skill and qualifications. MCEF is a primary partner whose role is to maintain quality and program integrity.

Remarkable Returns on Workforce Investment

The VCET is a workforce training, education, and placement program targeting those most in need. It is estimated that fully operational, the VCET will be capable of placing 175 felons (Veteran and non-Veteran) into skilled jobs each year at a living wage before he or she is released from prison, which represents remarkable returns on workforce investment.

Employer buy-in has been overwhelming. Companies, employers, and program partners have contributed more than $100,000 in private dollars, and in excess of $45,000 in donated materials, supplies, and equipment. The annual operating budget request from workforce development funding resources is $413,515.00.
Corporal
Quentin W. McCall

407,316. That is the number of American military casualties in World War II.

Over 400,000 heroes made the ultimate sacrifice in the name of freedom. And unfortunately, there are thousands of families that are still awaiting the opportunity to be reunited with their loved ones.

As of December 2021, the United States Department of Prisoners of War/Missing in Action Accounting Agency said there were still over 72,000 U.S. servicemen and civilians still unaccounted for from World War II.

Since the end of the war, various identification and recovery organizations have made it their mission to find these heroes, whether they be alive or not, and reunite them with their families. Recently, a family in Mississippi experienced this mission, firsthand.

Quentin Weldon McCall of Union, Mississippi, was 21 years old when he enlisted in the United States Marines Corps. His service registration card provides the physical description of a five-foot-eleven, 168-pound man with brown hair and brown eyes. Under the “complexion” option, the choices were – sallow, light, dark, freckled, light brown, dark brown, black, or ruddy. McCall was deemed to be ruddy or having a healthy red color. He listed Mrs. Effie McCall, his mother, as the person who would always know his address.

In the summer of 1942, McCall was training with the Marines in San Diego. Judging by his known military pictures, he was skillful in multiple firearms. By the end of his training, Private McCall bore the insignia of rifle sharpshooter and pistol expert on his uniform. He would be assigned to the 6th Marines Company and, in October 1942, began his journey overseas, ready to join the fight. He experienced his first combat in early 1943 Guadalcanal and earned his promotion to private first class because of his valor in battle.

In November of 1943, McCall and the Fighting 6th Marines landed on the island of Betio in Tarawa Atoll of the Gilbert Islands. They were immediately met with extreme resistance from the Japanese. According to the Defense Prisoners of War/Missing in Action Accounting Agency, approximately 1,000 Marines and Sailors were killed and another 2,000 wounded. Among the dead, Corporal Quentin Weldon McCall; killed on the fourth day of battle on the small island. According to a letter sent to McCall’s family, he was killed while delivering cover fire for six of his fellow Marines. Those six Marines managed to escape because of McCall’s ultimate sacrifice. In a short-form documentary titled “To Home Soil Waiting,” a family member of the late McCall had this to say about the young corporal at a memorial service in his honor: “He lived a life that shined for the Lord, I believe, through his actions and behavior. It’s one thing to talk the talk, but he walked the walk. And then, he gave the ultimate sacrifice, the ultimate love, by laying down his life for his brothers in arms.” After the battle ended, a burial site was created for the soldiers who lost their lives on the island. Along with close to 30 brothers in arms, McCall was buried in a mass grave. The location was called “Cemetery 33, Burial Site Row D.”

According to missingmarines.com, That burial site was destroyed and covered in the following months of the Battle of Tarawa, as a naval airbase was quickly built to support the war efforts. McCall’s body could not be found, and he was declared permanently “non-recoverable” in 1949. It would take 70 years, but thanks to DNA technology and the non-profit group History Flight, a hero’s return home was once again made possible. On September 29, 2019, Corporal Quentin McCall’s remains were positively identified, and the McCall family was notified.

Finally, on Monday, October 25th, 2021, Corporal McCall and his family received a proper memorial and burial service. He was buried at our Mississippi Veterans Memorial Cemetery at Newton with full military honors. “It is both humbling and inspiring to be a part of his homecoming,” said Mississippi Veterans Affairs Executive Director Stacey Pickering. “Corporal McCall will be forever remembered for his service and ultimate sacrifice.” After nearly 80 years, McCall is finally back home, where he belongs, amongst over 1200 resting heroes that date back to his era, World War II. Mississippi Veterans Affairs is proud to play a tiny part in this heartfelt story of an American hero.
According to the United States Department of Veterans Affairs, of the 16 million Americans that fought in World War II, only an estimated 240,000 are still alive.

In our state, that number drops to less than 1,500. And in our four Mississippi veterans homes, we have only 29 World War II Veterans. You’ve heard it many times over, but that generation features heroes from our greatest military generation.

A great example of that generation is Mr. Henry Howard Bennett, a 99-year-old resident at our Collins home. Born the day after Christmas in 1922, he was raised in Sumrall, Miss., on the Bennett family farm with his 16 siblings (he has one surviving sibling – his sister, Rene).

1943 was a life-changing year in the life of Henry Bennett. In November of that year, he married the love of his life, then-Miss Gay Stephens. And earlier that year, on March 17th, he began his military service as he joined the then-Army Air Corps (now the Air Force).

At just 20 years old, Henry Bennett signed up to fight the evils of tyranny and was trained as an airplane and engine mechanic during his basic training. He left America to join the fight overseas on April 6th, 1944, and arrived in the European Theatre of Operations - United States Army on April 18th (to provide the perspective of travel time, that 12-day trip via ship is now the equivalent to a 7-9 hour flight, today).

We recognize 1944 as the year of perhaps the most pivotal moments in World War II. D-Day - the allied invasion of Europe across five beaches that stretched 50 miles with over 156,000 American, British and Canadian troops was one of the largest amphibious assaults in military history. But in the air is where Bennett fought for his country and the world’s freedom.

As a front/nose gunner for his aircraft, he flew over missions, including over 30 battles/campaigns in the air offensives of Europe, Normandy, Northern France and the Rhineland offensive. Those missions earned him the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Air Medal with three oak leaf clusters, and the Good Conduct Medal. Henry Bennett accomplished all of this in just one year, 18 months and ten days in the Air Corps.

He would officially exit military service on September 19th, 1945. Over 70 years later, his service was recognized by one of the highest branches of our government and a foreign government.

In October 2020, Bennett stood before families, friends, fellow residents and staff at the Mississippi Veterans Home at Collins to receive the “Medal of Liberated France” from United States Congressman Steven Palazzo (MS-4th Congressional District).

The medal is awarded to French, foreign nationals, and soldiers of allied armies who served and made a notable contribution to the liberation of France from the German occupation during World War II. “I never expected this, but I sure do appreciate it,” said Bennett. As an added gesture of appreciation, Keltoum Rowland, honorary consul to France, was in attendance to thank Bennett for his service and sacrifice in the name of freedom. “They don’t just hand these out to anybody,” said Congressman Palazzo. “But for Mr. Bennett, it is very much deserving. When we look back, and we see all the things that we have today, we owe it to one generation; the World War II generation,” Palazzo said. “You left everything — your farms, left your family — and you went over there and fought. And to be a nose gunner in a B-24 Liberator bomber aircraft? Look, this isn’t a ride at Walt Disney; this is the real deal.”

In November 2021, The University of Southern Mississippi recognized Bennett during the halftime of its Armed Forces Appreciation Game. Bennett’s military accomplishments and accolades were read aloud as he stood at midfield with other current and former service members of the United States Army. Once the announcement was made, many of those same service members made sure to stop and shake hands with Bennett, thanking him not only for his service but for setting a noble example of valor, dignity and selflessness. Because of his service and sacrifice, Bennett is recognized as a 100% disabled veteran. But that has not shaped the way he lived his life, post-war. He worked as a farmer, factory worker, and gasoline truck driver. He also served as a deacon at his church for over half a century. He and his wife, Gay, loved to travel, and every year they would visit a different part of our great nation (the Smokey Mountains were their favorite destination). They even made it a point to visit England together.

A man who always put his family first, Bennett retired in 1989 to care for his wife, who had become ill. They celebrated 74 years of marriage before she passed away in 2017.

Henry Bennett is still surrounded by love. His four children all live in south Mississippi (son – Jimmy, daughter – Linda Stringer, son – Steve, and daughter – Sue Long), and he has a total of 11 grandchildren, 19 great-grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. Bennett is still a member of the American Legion (Post 90 in Columbia, Miss.) and the Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW). And he is well known throughout our Mississippi State Veterans Home in Collins as a man that never met a stranger.

Henry Bennett’s courageous, incredible life story is just one of many that our World War II veterans lived so that we could have a better way of life. We are beyond proud to serve 29 heroes from our greatest generation in our veterans homes. And we hope that you discover, like us, that their unforgettable pasts can help shape our promising future.
Shawuanna Williams-Lewis
Nursing Services Director

Shawuanna Williams-Lewis has been employed with the MSVA for over six years. Shawuanna’s role in the veterans homes system is essential to ensuring that the veterans receive the superior care they deserve. Her years of service inspired her desire to be a greater asset to veterans by expanding her education in mental health. She graduated from the University of South Alabama, December 11, 2021 with a Master of Science in Nursing; was inducted into the Sigma Theta Tau International Nursing Honors Society; and named one of the American Psychiatric Nurses Association Board of Directors Scholarship recipients. She obtained her Advanced Practice Nursing License as a psychiatric mental health nurse practitioner on February 3, 2022. Shawuanna feels that her job is rewarding because she “is able to contribute to and witness a quality of life those most deserving, our nation’s veterans.” She is excited about her practice and looks forward to providing quality care for veterans with mental health needs.

Teddy Reed
Director of Field Services

Teddy Reed oversees the planning and implementation of outreach services. He is responsible for connecting veterans in the broader community by cultivating relationships with businesses, individuals, and other relevant organizations. As a veteran himself, Teddy more than understands the importance of building and maintaining those relationships. He is also the chairperson for the Mississippi Workforce Development Committee, which is a MSVA joint partnership with various state agencies. This partnership promotes gainful employment opportunities for veterans and their dependents. Under his leadership, MSVA has also partnered with Building Healthy Military Communities (BHMC), establishing nine veteran task forces in Mississippi. Teddy feels the most rewarded by leading a team of eight field service officers (FSO) located on the campuses of the major universities in the state. He stated, “The FSO’s are the key to promoting our outreach program. They are all veterans and know first-hand the sacrifices of those who have served.”

On the MOVE
MSVA understands the importance of human capital.
Our leadership team is constantly striving to recruit and develop talent—and 2021 was no exception. In 2021, MSVA was pleased to add new leaders to our ranks and to move existing employees into exciting new roles. Featured are three such individuals who we felt were representative of the whole.
Tadé Ward
Mississippi Veterans Home, Kosciusko Administrator

Prior to being promoted to administrator of the Kosciusko home, Tadé served as the assistant administrator of the Mississippi Veterans Home at Collins, where she distinguished herself as a leader. But, her journey with MSVA started in 2016, when she was hired on as a certified nursing assistant. She garnered an abundance of knowledge of the nursing home system and decided she would move towards the administrative side of the nursing home operation. Tadé has been a loyal and dedicated employee for many years, and MSVA is more than grateful for her devotion to the veterans in the homes. It is rare that you have an administrator gradually rise through many roles in the same system, and her experience within the veterans home system has proved to be invaluable. Tadé believes that “one of the best and absolutely most rewarding parts of my job is being able to check on our residents daily, listening to them about their needs, and catering to those needs. That allows our VA team to provide the best care on an individual basis to all our veterans.”

Jayy Williams
Front Desk Receptionist

Jayy has been an essential addition to MSVA team. In May of 2020, she moved from Memphis, Tennessee, to Brandon, Mississippi. She began a temporary position at MSVA’s front desk in January of 2021, and her work ethic and exceptional job performance led to her being offered a position as a full-time MSVA employee in April of 2021. She is responsible for greeting and assisting office guests, distributing time sensitive correspondence, and directing a constant influx of phone calls to the appropriate staff member. Jayy has many clerical and office management duties that are essential to the efficiency needed for MSVA to optimally function. Additionally, she is responsible for processing requests and procuring military records, such as DD214s, for Mississippi’s veterans. Reflecting on the various aspects of her position, Jayy shared that serving and assisting the veterans, while working in a supportive, professional environment, has been very rewarding and inspired confidence for her to continue to progress professionally.
In December, the Department of Agriculture, and Friends of Mississippi Veterans, came together and held a benefit concert with Lee Greenwood and Travis Tritt. All proceeds went to the state veterans home systems.
This past year, Friends of Mississippi Veterans held its annual sporting clays tournament along with the inaugural golf tournament. If you would like to be a part of this event, please go to www.msva.ms.gov/general-inquiries.

DID YOU KNOW?
You can donate to support our Mississippi Veterans Home System?

The home’s donated funds are traditionally used to make purchases ineligible to be bought with state funds, such as hearing aid replacement, eyeglasses, and toiletries for indigent residents.

MSVA has never had to solicit donations; however, when our veterans homes were forced to lock down in 2020, donated funds were used to mitigate the impact on quality of life as the homes generated in-house activities for residents and provided electronic tablets for virtual visits/communications.

If you’re interested, donating is easy; simply scan the QR code or visit www.msva.ms.gov, and click the “Donate to Veterans Homes” button at the top of the screen.
