About COVID-19 regulations

To ensure the safety of all participants and instructors, we are adhering to all federal, state, and CWS guidelines. Participants are expected to have had a COVID vaccination before the start of the course. Although we anticipate meeting outdoors and practicing social distancing, we expect everyone to wear a mask during each class meeting.

Travel expenses & Accommodations

The cost of the field course covers lodging, transportation to the field site and meals during the stay in El Cuyo, and some meals while in Mérida. The students are responsible for covering the air fare to and from Mérida. You will spend the night at the Fiesta Inn hotel (https://goo.gl/maps/urUxb4DqDunbfcYj6). The hotel is 25 to 30 minutes from Merida's international airport Manuel Crescencio Rejón. Taxis charge about 25 USD and it can accommodate 4 people. To reduce the cost, students will share rooms. In El Cuyo, students will stay at Hotel Valerio's; this is a small hotel with a limited number of rooms, so some students will have to share (Valerio's Facebook page). On the day off, students will have the option to participate in some tourism activities. Please check the costs and the minimum number of participants for each activity (*see below). The course fee does not cover these costs.

About the field site

El Cuyo is a small town at the northeast coast of Yucatán, 270 km from Mérida (https://es.wikipedia.org/wiki/El_Cuyo). It is a small fishing community of about 1700 habitants, and is rapidly changing to a touristic spot for its natural beauty (https://yucatan.travel/en/sun-and-beach/el-cuyo/). The town is inside the Federal Natural Protected Area Reserva de la Biosfera Ría Lagartos. In the summer, average temperature is 28.5°C (83.3°F), but the range can be between 25 and 33°C (77- 91.4°F).
