

URBAN FarmDay

(It's Not What You Think It Is!)

Saturday, August 26, 2023, 10am-3pm

FREE, self-guided, featuring 16+ area urban farms

Share and make memories as you discover our region's urban agricultural community and food system partners. Hear the stories of local growers and the groups that help bolster our local food community. Learn the history of their spaces and the inspiration for their work. Fill your senses with the medley of midsummer's bounty. Attend talks and tours. Visit markets. There's something for everyone.

- Reserve your free spot touring an indoor mushroom farm
- Create sidewalk art and enjoy a lemonade at the pay-as-you-can community café and urban garden
- Learn about Farmer Pirates compost operation – and why they're called Farmer Pirates
- Enjoy a talk on farm labor justice, soil health or the healing effects of gardening
- Shop produce grown by farmers from seven African countries and the U.S.
- Visit a garden with a rabbit hutch, a chicken coop, and two beehives. Oh, and lots of vegetables!
