*LIZ
MILLER*

From historic homes to new construction, Liz Miller brings her casually elegant design aesthetic, excitement for change, appreciation for historic materials, and her realistic everyday living approach to each project. Known for her classic with a touch of modern style, Liz combines vintage and antique pieces with new objects to create elegant and practical spaces that range in style from contemporary to traditional fitting the individual needs of each client, helping their spaces tell their story.

When this young couple moved into a triplex condo in Brookline, they took on great space but dated decor. Liz Miller Interiors jumped into transforming their space with a classic modern twist. The powder room was gutted and adjusted a few inches to allow for a full vanity (storage is always key!). Adding sconces with some serious style helped create a dramatic vibe with shots of black contrasting the brass and white. The sink wall features a herringbone tile from Ann Sacks—the perfect backdrop to add scale and texture.
