Schools must honor an IEP even if learning is remote. You may need to work with your child’s team to make changes and add supports.

Ask for a team meeting if you think you need to adjust your IEP or 504 goals, accommodations, or services. You have the right to do this at any time.

Be patient with virtual meetings and services and look for creative ways to make them work.

Stay in touch with the teacher - if your child is struggling, you don’t need to suffer in silence!
