Lucidity and Obliteration

After a near fatal horse riding accident in October 2024, months in hospital fighting for my life and leg, I have returned to one of my first loves, abstraction, exploring themes of mortality, loss and growth. This new work is an expansion of the techniques and themes I worked on for a decade in the early 2000s. Due to an ongoing lack of mobility, the new works are smaller and considered, reflecting my unfurling interior landscape; one of new parameters, physical constrictions but ironically, mental freedom.
