SCREENWRITERS RESIDENCY

residency date
mid September 2022

deadline for applications
6 March 2022

eligibility requirements

This residency is for writers who haven't had a feature-length screenplay already produced.

You must have a writing credit on a short fiction film that was selected for a festival in this list: <https://bit.ly/3s4gjiq>

The project you're applying with must be feature-length narrative fiction. No hybrid documentary, animation, TV series, web series, experimental, or video art.

You can only apply with one project. You may re-apply with the same project if it hasn't been selected before.

Writing duos are eligible and should send a joint application. Due to the limited capacity of our venue, duos may need to share a room.

An advanced level of English is required for all activities and correspondence. Your project can be written in any language but you will need to also provide a translation.

The residency is hosted in a rural location. We will cover all of your costs within Romania related to travel, food and accommodation. You'll need to get your own way to our initial meeting point in Bucharest and obtain any necessary visas or travel documents.

At the conclusion of the residency you must provide an updated copy of your project, at whatever stage it's at (treatment, draft, etc.). This will only be used as internal proof of the activities and results of the residency.

If/when your project is produced, you must agree to include 'Developed at Pustnik' and our logo in the credits.

You must agree to the use of your name and image being made public for the purposes of promoting the residency and your work.

We reserve the right to make changes to the schedule and programme (especially because of the ongoing Covid situation) but will keep in touch with you as the residency approaches. It's a crazy world right now but we're all in this together.
