Building Healthy Relationships

To build resources for immigrant survivors of domestic and sexual violence, CPAF partnered with numerous organizations, including East West Bank, the Vedanta Society, Circle of Change Giving, and Safe Passage to provide safe and permanent housing after graduating from the program.

Community Program: CPAF created a South Bay Advisory Council to support the operations of CPAF's transitional shelter and help expand CPAF's presence in South Bay. Council members include longtime volunteers, community navigators, and survivors who have graduated from CPAF's programs. The council is currently raising money for another site to be built in the Transitional Housing Program.

FY 2014-2015 Annual Report

COURAGE

CPAF answered 3,703 calls on its 24-hour domestic violence and sexual assault hotline in 25 different languages.

If someone is suffering because of domestic violence, I want to tell them not to wait, be brave, knock on CPAF’s doors, and ask for help.

Support

121 survivors received services through CPAF's community-based case management and counseling program.

LOVE

117 survivors and children received 7,295 nights of emergency shelter.

"CPAF helped alleviate my fear and believed in me. At the shelter, I learned to protect myself and my child, love myself, and support the other families in the program too." - Chinese survivor

Community

100 volunteers contributed 12,450 hours to CPAF's services and programs.

Building Resources

CPAF is working on a community mobilization project in Long Beach partnering with Asian- and Pacific Islander youth organizations to reach Pacific Islander youth and youth engagement in Long Beach (partnering with Boys & Girls Clubs and Youth Advancing). CPAF is also building strategic relationships with numerous organizations, including East West Bank, the Vedanta Society, Circle of Change Giving, and Safe Passage to provide safe and permanent housing after graduating from the program.
