

BMFPD Auxiliary Code of Conduct

The Boulder Mountain Fire Protection District Auxiliary pursues its mission in a collaborative and inclusive manner. Our Code of Conduct reflects our informal working style and has old-fashioned neighborliness as its foundation.

1. Auxiliary members are first and foremost ambassadors of the Boulder Mountain Fire Protection District. Every interaction, among members or with the public is an opportunity to reflect well on our District. Therefore,
 - a. We observe good manners at all times.
 - b. We treat each other, and the public, with respect.
 - c. We take responsibility for accurate information about the District.
2. The success of the Auxiliary and the Fire Department as a whole depends on the cooperation of all volunteers as a team. Therefore,
 - a. We encourage any prospective volunteer to consider all three arms of the Department as their avenue for involvement.
 - b. We welcome other Department volunteers into our activities.
 - c. We familiarize ourselves with the missions and functions of all arms and promote them to the public.
3. The Auxiliary stays relevant by both welcoming new ideas and recognizing the efforts of long-term volunteers. Therefore,
 - a. New members are actively recruited and encouraged to contribute their skills and expertise.
 - b. Old ideas can be new again with changed circumstances, so we balance past experience with the potential for new results.
 - c. We observe our own best practices and encourage new volunteers to learn them.
