Fairfax youth center hit by outbreak

BY JUDETH JAVELON

Officials said a coronavirus outbreak has sickened more than a dozen workers and residents at Fairfax County's Juvenile Detention Center, prompting questions about whether overcrowded conditions and weakened sanitation practices were factors in the outbreak.

Eight workers and six juveniles have tested positive for the coronavirus since Sept. 30, officials said, making it one of the worst outbreaks to hit a juvenile detention center since March.

Fairfax County Police said not all staff and parents of the juveniles had not properly notified authorities, which is why the outbreak was not immediately dealt with.

Region’s new infections at 19-day high

BY LISA FANN, ERIN CONN, GREGORY R. SCHULTZ and RACHEL CHASON

The average number of new daily coronavirus infections in Virginia passed 300 on Thursday, according to the Virginia Department of Health. The state has reported 92,751 COVID-19 cases, of which 1,151 are considered active.

Infections have been increasing since the state began tracking the number of active cases. The number of active cases doubled in Virginia in the past two weeks to get to 1,151.

Magnet school county test is over

BY HANNAH SATONSON

The Fairfax County Public School System said it has decided to suspend testing for the county’s magnet programs.

The school system said it received a request from the state Department of Health to conduct testing for the county’s magnet programs.

The state has suspended testing for the county’s magnet programs due to the number of positive cases in the county.

Unlike the White House, D.C. has been crucifying it

BY LATIKA VOZZELLA

The White House has been a coronavirus hotspot, with at least 18,000 visitors to the complex tested positive for the virus, according to the Office of Management and Budget.

In contrast, D.C. has been able to keep the virus under control, with only about 1,500 people tested positive for the virus so far.

Over 10 people attended an announcement of President Trump’s Supreme Court nominee. At least 10 of these people tested positive for the virus.
“Park Police horses getting more modern home on the Mall”

The news article discusses the renovation of the U.S. Park Police Horse Stables and Education Center on the Mall. The facility will be built at the location of the existing stables, between the Korean War Memorial and the D.C. War Memorial on the south side of the Mall.

The old stables will be torn down and replaced with a modern facility that will have areas for public interpretation, an educational center, an area for wash and equipment room, a medical facility, and an office building for the officers.

It will also have public restrooms, a Visitor Center, and a display area. The new stables will have on-site stabling for up to 24 horses, with room for 10 years, officials said.

No ifs, ands “Our Buds: Save Big on Experiences at River Expeditions”

The advertisement highlights a deal for $20 off on select river expeditions at River Expeditions. No code is needed, and the offer can be redeemed online or in-person.

No fee, ands “Our Buds: Save Big on Experiences at River Expeditions”

The advertisement encourages readers to save $20 off on select river expeditions at River Expeditions, with no code needed. The offer can be redeemed online or in-person.