DESIGN

Princeton Design Guild provides comprehensive design and construction expertise. We offer our clients customized services within budgets. While we develop architectural drawings in our design studio for your project, our construction management team will be simultaneously working on budget estimates and applications for municipal permitting. Whether we are designing a new building or remodeling your existing building, our integrated design build approach saves you time and money over the traditional design, bid, permit, build method of construction. At PDG, the decisions we make on behalf of our clients are guided by construction quality and design integrity.

BUILD

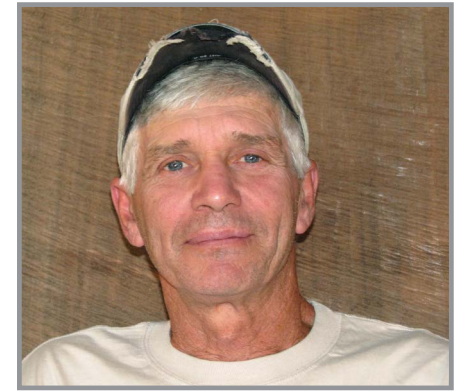

Princeton Design Guild employs highly skilled craftsmen and craftswomen who utilize regionally sourced materials to create one of a kind elements for your project. We have extensive capabilities to create unique woodworking solutions for your cabinets, trims, moldings, paneling and furniture. On some projects, we partner with the steel and sculpture team at Jonathan Shor Designs and/or the stone fabrication shops at Stone Encounters. Together our crews can create anything you can imagine in wood, steel or stone. Our specialty is creating custom kitchens and we will build your kitchen to fit your budget, home and lifestyle.

Bud Stout

TRIBUTE

Over our many years in business we have developed strong friendships with coworkers. TJ Tindall of The Light Gallery was our lighting designer for over 20 years. Bud Stout was our lead carpenter, he joined us in 1996. Sadly, they both left us in 2016. Their contributions were immeasurable to the PDG Team and we will always remember them with great affection.

PDG PHILOSOPHY

Kevin Wilkes founded Princeton Design Guild in 1985 to support and advance the Arts & Crafts ideal of progressive design combined with skilled workmanship. PDG believes that your new space should be special and memorable; functional and flexible – most importantly it should be a pleasure to enjoy for years to come. At PDG, we design the exteriors and interiors of our projects to reflect your lifestyle objectives and combine them with modern convenience and comfort. Our special attention covers all significant details of your project from the initial impressions of a beautiful entryway to the sophisticated requirements of today's gourmet kitchens. PDG supports you in all phases of design. We prepare preliminary feasibility studies, in depth architectural designs, detailed construction documents, interior design schemes and custom cabinetry detailing. Then we take your designs into the field and bring them to life with our full time construction crew. You have the comfort of knowing that one team is responsible for understanding your dream and ushering it into reality.

Hamilton Building Supply, with its 9-acre flagship facility in Hamilton, NJ and its collaborative design center in Newtown, PA, has been providing a full range of lumber and building materials to professional contractors, builders, remodelers, and area homeowners for well over 90 years.

In addition to high quality, dry, Douglas Fir framing lumber and traditional building materials, HBS is the regional leader in composite materials and environmentally friendly building products... from engineered floor systems to trim boards, mouldings, and decking options. Hamilton Building Supply possesses widely recognized expertise in windows, exterior doors, interior doors, and millwork - all of which are complemented by on-premises shops and seasoned personnel who concentrate their efforts in these defined areas. The result is a team of professionals that can cater to the specific needs of individuals and their projects... all in a very efficient manner.

At HBS and HBS HOME, you'll find highly experienced, professional and courteous associates in clean, quiet, and up-to-date showroom environments.

HBS takes great pride and extends great effort in distributing materials that are durable and designed to perform over time. Based on a given application, we routinely guide clients through the often overwhelming plethora of available product choices available today.

That's what we do - our goal is to "Simplify Your Life."

"I really believe that the process of doing both the design and the construction with one firm resulted in a much better final product, with far less stress and drama than going with 2 different firms."

- Princeton

"Kevin Wilkes and PDG have completely redesigned and rebuilt 2 houses, and considerably modified a third in more than 20 years of my association with the organization. In every case I have been amazed at the ingenuity, the care, the thoughtfulness and the architectural and construction wisdom demonstrated (why else continue to use them for each new project?)."

- Princeton

"It was really easy to work with them on the design of the kitchen, and the communication was great through every step of the design and construction process. Our project had a hard deadline (the birth of our first baby), and they took it very seriously. They created a construction plan that would make the deadline and worked very hard to meet it."

- West Windsor

"We cannot recommend them more highly. Our project is simply gorgeous and came in exactly on budget. Everyone at PDG was a pleasure to work with and very professional."
