What is Our Community Saying?

CAPTURING THE HOPES & DREAMS OF SAN DIEGO COUNTY

In the summer of 2020, amidst the COVID-19 pandemic, the San Diego Food System Alliance canceled 13 in-person events and shifted to an all-digital community engagement process to safely capture the needs and aspirations of San Diego County residents and food system stakeholders. Food Vision 2030 is rooted in the hopes and dreams of our community, and the plan will largely be designed around this community input.

Engagement took place on a multilingual online platform (engage.sdfsa.org). Participation was widely promoted through digital and traditional channels, as well as through direct outreach and surveying by community-based partners.

WITHIN TWO MONTHS OF COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT, WE RECEIVED OVER

6,400 Unique visitors to the platform

2,200 Contributions to the platform (includes survey responses, virtual discussion board post-it notes)

59% Percentage of contributions that came from marginalized neighborhoods and food system workers

This report provides a snapshot of high-level themes that have emerged from this Community Engagement process. Thorough findings will be shared in Food Vision 2030.

WITHIN THE NEXT 10 YEARS, WHAT IS ONE HOPE THAT YOU HAVE FOR FOOD IN YOUR COMMUNITY?

- "I want food to be more visible, accessible and present for underserved communities across our county."
- "One hope is that people will see more food growing and be able to access fresh, affordable products."
- "I hope that San Diegans start seeing the entire food system, start to finish, in their own community. This includes where their food is being grown, how it is produced, what happens to their food waste, and who is doing all of this work."

WHAT IS INCLUDED IN YOUR FOOD VISION?

- "Taking my parents to a restaurant that has the food they remember from their childhood and home countries."
- "That local fishermen and local seafood system are supported and supplying healthy protein to the entire community."
- "Food and the people who prepare it are valued as much any other professional in the economy."
