About the Hall

The Connecticut Women's Hall of Fame honors the achievements of women by celebrating their legacies and telling their powerful stories, inspiring women and girls to realize their own limitless potential.

Founded in 1994 in Hartford, the Hall has inducted 148 women all of whom are held up as role models, living lives that influenced the course of history or impacted many lives. We highlight them through our educational programs aligned with Connecticut's Common Core Standards, College, Career, and Civic Life Framework for Social Studies State Standards and/or the Next Generation Science Standards.

We accomplish our mission by documenting and celebrating women's lives and accomplishments, sharing their stories through education, community programs, and presentations throughout the state and online. As an independent nonprofit organization, the Hall is not affiliated with any national or governmental group.

Connecticut's Women and Girls

Inspiration

Our premier signature program annually recognizes trailblazing women from all fields and walks of life, identifying them as role models at the event and recording their stories for current and future generations

Education

Education programs include STEMfems, an innovative program that encourages girls to consider career fields in science, technology, engineering and math, and See It Be It, a career-exploration program

Motivation

We bring our fascinating Hall Inductees stories and exhibits on contemporary women's issues to your workplace, community, library and to our Women's Heritage Trail
