“ ... the quality of any prevention program is evaluated by the underlying research. It was from reading the research that I discovered Bringing in the Bystander and Know Your Power. These evidence-based programs address issues directly, include materials and scenarios that are highly representative and the programs are highly adaptive for our community. While the quality of the program is fundamental, as important to me is the quality of the people...For me, this is another key area where Soteria Solutions stands out. My contacts at Soteria have been incredibly supportive, approachable and beyond helpful. ”
