SARANAC LAKE'S 2018 WINTER CARNIVAL!

Janet Trombly

Saranac Lake comes out of hibernation each winter with its wonderful Winter Carnival. The Carnival has been a grassroots, volunteer-driven, event since 1897 and is still going strong today. Picture a two-story ice palace (impressive in daylight but best seen at night) highlighted by fireworks on its Sunday evening finale, winter sport contests, Carnival royalty and, of course, the Saturday parade.

On February 10, a small group of Eagle Island supporters, organized by Hannah Grill, joined together to walk in this year's Saranac Winter Carnival parade.

Hannah Grill created a large Eagle Island sign and two wonderful wearable canoes (EI's talented attorney Bob Goodsell sported the one with the eagle on the bow). Marc Wanner and Judy Rush crafted two equally wonderful wearable sailboats, two canoes, and two photo posters. LeeAnn Millar brought green scarfs for the team and also designed a campfire that she wore, complete with the toasted marshmallows on sticks that I made. Jon-Luke DeStefano and friends Jess Snyder, Sara Kest, Will Ehrhardt and Brett Dunn, all dressed as hikers and joined Paula Michelsen in throwing EI bracelets to children in the crowd. Carol Jackman generously opened her home as a place for many of us to stay. Karin Rutledge marched while her husband, Rick, took pictures throughout the parade.

What fun we had paddling, tacking, hiking and marching in the parade! There was a dense crowd of spectators lining the streets and people kept shouting "Eagle Island" and cheering for us, attracting others to our worthy cause. Honestly, I don't think that we could have paid for such wonderful exposure and publicity. In keeping with our slogan of "We're a camp that really can't be beat" we won a first-place trophy! As we picked up our pace, with smiles on our faces, we looked at each other and said "let's start planning for next year!"

The next day, most of the group decided to take advantage of the fresh snow and solid ice and trekked across the frozen Upper Saranac Lake to experience the island off-season. Some on skis and others with snow shoes checked on the buildings, confirmed that the bubblers were keeping the Service Dock area free of ice, and enjoyed the fabulous views.

2018 PLANS ARE UNDERWAY

We anticipate construction throughout the upcoming warm weather on projects that are critical to obtaining the necessary approvals from state and local authorities to reopen camp. The challenge this summer will be coordinating the contractors and volunteers to most efficiently manage a variety of projects. This will be accomplished by scheduling volunteer work weeks and weekends to have the right mix of people and supplies on hand to expeditiously complete the work.

Engineers

As this is going to 'press', the engineers are busy designing the upgrades to the water and septic systems to bring our systems up to current standards and return the luxury of running water we enjoyed as campers. To do this most septic lines need to be replaced and by code need to be buried (some are even the original cast iron). The buried septic tanks are metal and will be switched with new ones that are up to code.

New pumps to draw water from the lake and the new filtration equipment will be located in the original pump house providing more space for the equipment and a shorter run for the pipes to Main Camp.

Other essential pieces of the water supply are the chlorination and storage tanks that will be housed under the octagonal dining room in space that over the years had been filled with spare lumber, pine needles and discarded junk. New pumps for distribution by way of pressurized lines will ensure adequate pressure throughout the system.

Historic Preservation Architects

The architects are busy preparing the plans that will go into the bid packages for needed foundation, chimney and roof work on the Main Cabin, Dining Room Family Cabin, Guides Hose (Infirmary), Laundry (Trading Post) we are working with the State Historic Preservation Office to ensure work retains the historic integrity of the buildings.

Kitchen

Design specs are underway for kitchen upgrades to make the kitchen Department of Health (DOH) compliant in 2018. Jim Padakis (you may recognize the name as Adrienne & Marina's, father) a kitchen design specialist, worked with the architects to ensure consistency with the historic space. Two primary appliances are in great shape and will be reused: the stove and refrigerator/freezer. The refrigerator/freezer will be cleaned and the old galvanized metal will get a fresh coat of two-part epoxy to not only give it a fresh new look but more importantly a washable surface. The floor of the entire room will be prepped and painted with durable floor paint to allow it to be easily washed.

The dishwasher needs to be replaced, there will be reconfiguration of counters and sinks, and the ventilation system will be updated. All of this work is intended to provide a more sanitary kitchen that conforms to DOH regulations for commercial kitchens, a key to reopening camp. Much of this work is envisioned to be completed by volunteers especially the prep and painting.

WHAT CAMP DID FOR ME?

Sunny Larson

Attending Eagle Island the summer before 4th grade was a spur of the moment decision that continues to be a defining feature of my life.

Yes, there are some of the more esoteric skills I learned at EIC that have popped up in other parts of my life: I can build a mean one-match fire for marshmallow roasting; I captained the women's sailing team at Yale; and I tie packages with a nice square knot. But it's really more about how camp experiences shaped me into the individual I am today. Having to pack your own bag for the day teaches responsibility. Forgetting your mess kit on a canoe trip teaches problem solving. Living in the close quarters of a platform tent helps you understand how to get along with different personalities. And navigating the lake in a dinghy fosters teamwork as each sailor takes the main, jib, and tiller. From my summers, I came back home a more confident young woman, and with a group of friends who are still some of my closest as we embark on the next set of life's challenges, like balancing career and motherhood. In my current work in education philanthropy, I'm always problem solving as grantees' work and the national education landscape change - and every day at home with my little guys is definitely an exercise in teamwork and personalities!

MARY HESSELGRAVE

Why I donate my time, talent and treasure

My 10 years at Eagle Island had a major influence on my life. Acceptance, outdoors skills, canoeing, sailing, singing, and inspirational poetry helped form my beliefs and develop my confidence and competence. I met my husband on an AMC canoe trip, and was American Canoe Association Atlantic Division Women's Kayak Champion for 15 years. I became a Mariner troop leader and was chosen to take girls to an international GS opportunity in Germany. Years later, that was a factor in my selection as chief software architect for a Deutsche Telekom project managed from the Netherlands, and my experience teaching sailing led to invitations to participate in sailing regattas on the IJsselmeer with international Bell Labs project members. At Eagle Island I found my life-long passion for the outdoors and was able to integrate that into both my personal and professional life.

Serving on the Eagle Island, Inc. board is my way to help provide others with an opportunity to develop integrity, competence, confidence, and appreciation for the outdoors.

CLAIRE "CAP" PINNEY POWELL

Major Clair A. Pinney Powell died peacefully at the age of 84 in November. Claire was from South Orange, NJ and attended EIC as a camper in the 1940s and as staff in the early 1950s. She graduated college and joined the Marine Corp where she served for 21 years and achieved the rank of Major. She served in California, Washington D.C., Japan, Massachusetts, and Kansas City as disbursing officer. She was an avid sports fan.

In the 1950s the military was a place where women could achieve successful leadership careers (not many other fields). Clearly the EIC experience contributed to the success of Cap and other EIC alum such as Elaine "Mickey" Handsman Allen.

Chris Hildebrand remembers Cap as her unit leader. "My first summer at EI in Jr. Waterfront, she introduced me to rowing, canoeing and the wonders of living on an island. Thru Cap, who was from my home town and had grown up at Eagle Island, I fell in love with camp and decided that I, too, would be spending my summers in this very special place. Cap taught us to have respect for the lake, forest and for one another; lessons we carry to this day.
